CANADA—WHAT IT DOES TO HELP BRITAIN IN WAR

Puts All Resources Behind Empire.

Here is the first of a series of dispatches by a Tribune correspondent on Canada's war efforts. The correspondent was permitted to visit training camps, arms plants, and other centers of war activity.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 30.—Canada's entire resources in wealth, men, and industrial production have been flung into the effort of the British empire to win the war. Mobilization of these resources barely has started. But there is today none of the uncertainty noted in Canada six months ago and Canadians are in full stride toward their goal—creation here of Britain's main arsenals and training centers.

Such are the conclusions reached by the writer after an intensive study during the last fortnight of eastern Canadian camps, factories and air schools, and after interviews with many of the men who are responsible for the dominion's war effort.

The studies were made possible for a group of American newspaper men thru the Canadian Press association and the dominion government. Many doors ordinarily closed to civilians were thrown open to us. Canadian army, naval, and aviation officers said they had no secrets to hide, and answered confidential questions, begging only that we disclose nothing that would assist their enemies.

Find Dominion United.

The visit shed new light on Canadian solidarity. It disclosed that the dominion, virtually without a dissenting voice, is fully behind England. Amazingly enough in a land where 24 per cent of the national income is being spent for war alone and where 49 per cent is being taken in taxes, the only complaints were that money is being spent too cautiously.

The unshaken Canadian faith in the ultimate victory of British arms is astounding.

"It looked black after France collapsed," army officers, infantrymen, and civilian officials declared. "But our air force is holding them now. Just wait till next year when we get set for the offensive ourselves.

Predict Fighting in France.

"We'll be fighting in France or maybe in Germany itself before many months. We're going to win this war and the only way to win is to take the offensive. That's our job."

I heard an infantry major who is training troops at Camp Borden and laying out practice problems in tactics based on this premise use almost these identical words. I also heard them from a colonel with the Canadian general staff and from ministers and deputy ministers in charge of munitions and supply.

I sat in the sun one day last week with 10 Saskatoon farmer lads waiting their turn to fire a Bren machine

SENATOR KING MOVES TO LEGALIZE LOANS TO BRITISH EMPIRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30—Senator William H. King [D., Utah], a lame duck since the recent primaries in which he was defeated for renomination, today introduced a bill to waive provisions of the Johnson act as it applies to Great Britain and her possessions and authorizing the President to begin negotiations for acquisition of British bases in the Pacific.

The Johnson act prohibits loans to nations in default of their debts to the United States. This is one of the reasons why Great Britain, coming under the act for failure to pay off its world war debts, has been unable to buy war materials in this country on credit. The other reason is the neutrality act which prohibits loans to any belligerent.

The aged senator, known as a fervent interventionist, asserted that passage of his bill would aid England "not only in her fight for preservation of the British empire, but also in the fight for the preservation of democracy."

Well informed sources say the suggestion may be a trial balloon presaging an attempt by the administration, if victorious in November, to have both the Johnson act and the neutrality act repealed.

HINT SLATTERY STRONGBOX IS UNDER U. S. QUIZ

Prosecutor Asks for Interview Story.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 30.—United States Senator James M. Slattery's notorious strongbox was presumed today to be under government inquiry here. A federal grand jury, guarded by more than usual secrecy, has been in session here since Aug. 7, seeking to trace utilities' slush funds.

Senator Slattery.

The presumption regarding the senator was based on a request this afternoon to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE by O. John Rogge, head of the criminal division of the department of justice and chief of a group of prosecutors here from Washington, D. C. Rogge asked for the name of the reporter who wrote an unsigned interview quoting Slattery on an explanation of a $25,000 purchase of Commonwealth Edison company stock.

Slattery resigned last May as chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission to accept an appointment by Gov. Henry Horner to a vacancy caused by the death of United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

Refers to Story in May.

"The newspaper article we want, as well as the name of the reporter and any witnesses to the interview," said Rogge, "is the story in which Senator Slattery is quoted as saying that his daughter's $25,000 purchase of Commonwealth stock was with money inherited from her mother."

On May 9, 1939, such an article was published in THE TRIBUNE under a Washington dateline.

Whether Slattery has told the grand jury a different story cannot be published. Under an order issued last month by Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle it might even be contempt of court to say whether the senator had been before the grand jury.

The Washington dispatch followed within 48 hours a Chicago newspaper story that State's Attorney Thomas Courtney of Cook county was investigating a $25,000 utility stock purchase by a woman relative of a politician in a public office controlling the rates and regulations of the utility. The story did not name Slattery.

Dispatch Is Quoted.

In Washington the next day, Slattery told of a $25,000 purchase of Commonwealth stock by his daughter, Mrs. Norbert J. Johnson, 2045 West Birchwood avenue, Chicago, in August, 1938.

"He [Slattery] told of the use of currency in the transaction," said the Washington dispatch, "and said that he gave Mrs. Johnson the $25,000 as a part settlement he made upon his sons and daughters by his first marriage after the death of their mother.

"Slattery denied emphatically that the $25,000 or any part of it or any other money came to him from the Commonwealth Edison company or any other utility corporation. He invited the most thoro investigation."

Slattery was quoted in the dispatch as saying his daughter later sold the stock, converted the proceeds into cash, and returned the money to Slattery's strongbox, described as the family safety deposit box.

Investigate SEC Disclosures.

The purpose of the grand jury investigation here, as announced before it convened, is to follow up disclosures developed in hearings before the Securities and Exchange commission. Testimony before the commission related that several officials and attorneys were carried on the books for high salaries, part of which was refunded to be used to influence legislation, rates, and regulations.

The companies involved, it was said, are the Illinois-Iowa Power company, the Union Electric company of Missouri, and the Missouri Light and Power company, all subsidiaries of the North American company.

Republicans have feared that a smear of public utilities might reflect upon the Presidential campaign notwithstanding the fact that Wendell Willkie never had any connection with the companies involved. Democrats are now beginning to worry as the inquiry seeks to trace the slush expenditures.

Problem: How to Conciliate a Conciliator

Belleville, N. J., Sept. 30 [Special]. —Benjamin F. W. Heyer the man who wants to settle his plant's strike "in the American way," is providing the United States department of labor with a new brand of headache.

Heyer's plant, the Heyer Products Co., Inc., has been shut down for a week by a strike called by Local 22,026 of the A. F. of L. Chemical and Oil Workers union.

Heyer has stymied negotiations because he wants them carried on in a room equipped with a public address system so the whole discussion can be heard by pickets, employés and passers by outside the plant.

Conciliator Walks Out.

Frank J. Sheehan, federal labor conciliator, arranged the first meeting last Friday night, but walked out when he found it was being broadcast.

"I think this is the only way to end the mistrust and hatred which always follow a strike settlement," Heyer said today. He argued that the broadcast would provide "a restraining influence," adding: "This is the American way—the open forum. After all, court trials are open, and congressional debates often get very heated, yet they are open."

Heyer said the strike had been called with no previous warning and no presentation of grievances. "I am sure the majority of our employés are satisfied," he remarked.

The plant, which manufactures automobile battery and engine tune-up testing devices, employs 80 men and 40 women.

U. S. Official's Stand.

In Washington, D. C., J. R. Steelman, director of the conciliation service of the department of labor, expressed the opinion that a labor mediator could not work effectively in a conference room equipped with a public address system.

Steelman explained that on occasion the labor department assigns speakers to discuss labor relations and that the conciliation service sends mediators to adjust disputes. But the labor department does not mix both functions, he said.

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 26 [via Berlin] [Delayed].—Three nurses of the Orsay hospital, near Versailles, have been arrested for six "mercy murders" on the eve of the big exodus, two days before the Germans occupied Orsay on June 15. The Paris medical world is divided into opposing camps, one defending and the other condemning the nurses.

Rather than take along the cases, which were judged incurables, when the hospital was evacuated on June 13, it is charged the nurses gave their patients a mixture of strychnine and morphine. A seventh patient to whom the mixture was given was taken to his coffin, but still lives. He is P. Le Brun. He woke up when the hospital janitor, M. Le Veque, went to the morgue. His story revealed the mercy murders.

The fatal injections were administered in the presence of witnesses, according to the nurses, who added that "we acted on the advice of a military physician, a major."

Redwood City, Cal., Sept. 30 (AP).—Wilhelm Jakob Muhlenbroich agreed today to spend the rest of his life in prison for the "perfect kidnaping" of 3 year old Marc de Tristan Jr., which failed. Joseph J. Bullock, attorney appointed by the court over Muhlenbroich's protest to defend him, said the abductor would plead guilty tomorrow and ask for an immediate sentence.

"He is perfectly aware that he will be sentenced to life in San Quentin with no hope of parole," Bullock said.

Muhlenbroich has written an apology to the Count and Countess Marc de Tristan for stealing their child. The $100,000 ransom, which was never paid, was to have been used to perfect a mysterious engine, Bullock said.

Cooking Fats Rationed by Italy; 28 Oz. a Month

ROME, Sept. 30 (AP).—Cooking fats were rationed today for the first time in Italy. The monthly allotment will be 800 grams, about 28 ounces. Each person will be allowed slightly less than one pint of oil each month, and 10 ounces of butter, lard or suet. Other necessities already rationed include sugar and laundry soap.

Children Free to Quit Berlin, Parents Told

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—School children of Berlin today were told that they would be granted an extra long vacation if their parents wanted them to go to the country or accept invitations from relatives in rural sections.

This, Nazi authorities said, does not mean that the children of Berlin are being evacuated, but merely that evacuation is optional with the parents. Children in many Berlin schools were instructed to tell their parents that they should try to have them out of the city by Oct. 4.

Divided Into Three Groups.

The annual autumn vacation starts tomorrow. It usually lasts two weeks, but if the children go out of town they will be allowed to remain away for a longer period.

The Nazi welfare organization has been studying how to protect the health of the children whose sleep is interrupted by air raids. They discussed the possibility of removing them from areas close to the capital's industrial centers to the country in three groups—children less than 3 years of age who would leave under supervision of their mothers, children from 4 to 10 and those between 10 and 14.

Vacation Starts Today.

In some parts of the city air raid wardens strongly advise parents under their supervision to take their children to the country. Authorities said that this exodus—if it takes place—would be "optional" and by no means compulsory.

According to German statistics, children up to the age of 14—who are the only ones considered for evacuation—form between 14 and 20 per cent of the population of the big cities. It was assumed that about 15 per cent of Berlin's population is under 14. This would mean that 600,000 youngsters could be sent to the country if their parents so desired.

Paderewski, on Way to U.S., Is Forced to Halt in Spain

LISBON, Portugal, Sept. 30 (AP).—Ignace Jan Paderewski, 80 year old pianist and former premier of Poland, has been forced to return to Barcelona, Spain, from Zaragoza, Spain, and probably will face an indefinite delay in his plans to go to the United States, it was learned here tonight. The cause of the change in his itinerary was not disclosed immediately.

Probe Hospital Fund Deals of Barkeep Union

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Grand jury investigation of a so-called hospitalization fund of the bartenders' union was ordered yesterday after the reported indictment of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and six others accused of union piracy.

Frank Nitti.

Several months ago Louis Romano, president of the union, [he is one of the seven indicted yesterday] put over a plan assessing the union's 4,200 members $10 a year for hospital care. He announced that a contract had been made with the American hospital, 850 Irving Park road.

Last night William Crawford, assistant state's attorney, called this hospital plan a fraud.

Two Revelations Prompt Charge.

Two revelations prompted Crawford's charge:

1. Union members were publicly notified that 25 per cent of their funds already paid to the American hospital had gone for care of outsiders.

2. Spokesmen for the American hospital last night revealed they had no contract with Romano—oral or otherwise—to give unlimited service to union members under any plan. Crawford said Romano assessed all 4,200 members of the union $10 a year for this service and so far this year has paid only $6,000 to the hospital.

Keehn Reports Fraud.

The report that the union members are being defrauded was made by Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, who was appointed receiver for the union by Judge Robert Jerome Dunne of the Circuit court.

"On the bills presented to the union before I took charge on Aug. 16, 25 per cent of the men listed as having received hospital service were not members of the union," said Gen. Keehn. "I am making a thoro investigation."

"We have no contract of any kind with Romano or the union," one of the hospital authorities told Crawford. "It merely was understood members of his union would be sent to this hospital and we would bill the union for actual service at the regular rates. There was no bargain rate offered or discussed.

Paid Only for Services.

"If Mr. Romano were to collect $42,000 a year from his members, he would not have to pay us any certain percentage—he would only pay for services actually rendered.

"Persons who have received our services came to us with letters from the bartenders' union That was the regular procedure. When such a letter was presented, the bill for services would be sent to the union and not to the individual. We didn't check on the letters. We can't help it if they send us persons not listed on their books as members."

Crawford said he would seek an accounting to determine whether Romano and others of the union faction said to be dominated by Nitti sent all their poor relatives to the American hospital and had the bills charged to the union they seized from George B. McLane, its founder and business agent.

Report Humphreys Indicted.

Reported to have been indicted with Nitti were Murray Humphreys, his No. 2 man in the only criminal syndicate now in operation hereabouts, Louis [Little New York] Campagna, Paul Ricca, Romano, and two others or more whose names were not learned. Campagna and Ricca are labeled as public enemies; Ricca as Nitti's secretary of war.

The indictments were the result of State'. Attorney Thomas J. Courtney's investigation into the seizure of labor unions by racketeers.

Keehn Reports to Union.

The grand jury's action came as Gen. Keehn, who was appointed receiver for the union after McLane's charges against the gang had been made in court, was reporting to 1,000 members of the union in the Morrison hotel.

Gen. Keehn's report contained no reference to the alleged gang domination, but expressed belief there was little reason for members to pay dues of $36 a year or for the union to accumulate a surplus as large as the present one, which he put at $127,000.

He said he would conduct hearings on the fitness of all candidates to be voted upon at an election Jan. 6.

MUST REKINDLE YOUTH'S FAITH, SAYS CANDIDATE

Blasts New Deal for Stirring Cynicism.

BY BETTY BROWNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 30.—In an address directed to the women of America, Wendell L. Willkie tonight said, "The fate of democracy is in your hands." More than 18,000 persons gathered to cheer and applaud the Republican Presidential nominee's speech, broadcast from the Olympia stadium here. Afterward they kept him talking for another quarter of an hour with repeated cries of "more."

Addressing a meeting of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs, Willkie asserted it is the job of American women "to rekindle the faith" of young people and to combat their growing cynicism. In every country where democracy succumbed from within, he said, "bewildered, disgruntled, disinherited youths have been the dictator's earliest and most vicious adherents."

Wants to Restore Faith.

"You should be tense with anxiety about our youth," Willkie declared. "I have observed a tendency especially among our young people to dismiss the moral and spiritual standards of our American tradition."

There was prolonged applause as he added, "Thousands of our youth, who have lost faith in other people, have formed communist groups, and have received encouragement from high places."

Cries of approval mingled with thunderous applause when Willkie promised to help combat this cynicism by "cleaning house in the government."

"I will clean out the cynics and unbelievers, the nuts and the bunk artists," he declared. "My administration will be composed of people who believe in the American people."

Willkie spoke of the similarity between the New Deal "doctrines of cowardice, confusion, and despair" and the cynicism of Hitler-dominated Europe. "It was this cynicism," he said, "that weakened the European democracies. The people lost faith in themselves and their representatives."

Puts Blame on New Deal.

There were cheers when he said, "We cannot blame our young people for losing faith in us when we ourselves have deprived them of an opportunity to earn a decent living. That is the fault of the New Deal. We can—and we will—make jobs for our young people."

A parting shot that brought uproarious laughter came when Willkie said, "The closer Mr. Roosevelt gets us to war, the more people say that we ought not to change horses in the middle of the stream."

He paused for a dramatic moment, then cried, "What I want to know is, who got us out in the middle of the stream? I'm sure the man who got us in is not the right man to get us out."

TEXT OF SPEECH

The text of Willkie's speech follows:

"I welcome the opportunity to address—under your auspices—the women of America. I welcome the opportunity because I have a job for the women of America to do. It is a specific job, and a vitally important job. I want to take this time tonight to explain it to you.

"As I have said many times, this campaign of mine is a crusade. It is a crusade to preserve American democracy.

"But it is a crusade that cannot be fought and won without the help of every woman in America.

"I mean all of you—wives, mothers, teachers—workers in business and industry, nurses, and social workers, women in the professions and the arts, homemakers and homekeepers.

"Every one of you is vital to the cause I am fighting for. Every one of you has the same stake in the survival of our democracy. And if you fail to do the job I am going to ask you to do, democracy may perish from the earth.

"First, let us look elsewhere to find out what happens to a country, and particularly the women of a country, when democracy fails. Let us look at Germany.

"Today there are 50 million women in greater Germany—that is, Germany and the conquered countries that Hitler has actually annexed.

"These women are not free to go about as they please or to do what seems good to them. There is a woman dictator—a single woman in charge of all German women, who has absolute authority over them.

"Under this woman there is a vast organization of women wardens and women spies. These wardens can enter a house any time without warning to examine everything on the stove, or even in the garbage can.

Self-Respect Is Lost.

"German women have lost the right to determine the most intimate things of their private lives. They do not choose their own work.

"They do what the state orders.

"They have been relegated to the kitchen, and they are regarded as breeders of soldiers, not for defense but for aggression. Decency and self-respect have been taken from their lives.

"Their children are taken from them when they are infants of six and seven—poured into the state machine, and turned out as regimented fanatics—born and raised to be cogs in a war machine.

"Now I would not talk about that situation if it had no bearing on the cause that brings us together here. I do not use it as an isolated example of something distant.

"I describe it because it is now—tonight—the life that almost all the women on the continent of Europe are leading.

"Whereas here tonight you are still in possession of something far different from that.

"Just compare your lives with those I have described.

Opportunities in America.

"Democracy has given you the fullest—the freest—lives of any women in history. It has given you the vote. It has given you opportunities—without limit—for education, for emancipation. It has made you the chief promoters and patrons of culture in our civilization.

"It has given you the highest material standard of life the world has ever known.

"Democracy has given and given and given. And now the time has come for you to give to democracy.

"The women of Britain are giving the utmost and dearest of everything they have—as free women have always done, when their nations were in danger.

"You, and your mothers, and your grandmothers have given in this way—when our country needed you.

"It needs you today.

"Thank God, it does not need to ask for the lives of your sons, your husbands, or your brothers, in war.

"But it does need every other effort that you can make. It does need you to do this specific job that I am going to ask of you.

"But first, in order to do this job, you must be absolutely sure that you know what democracy is. You must know what you mean by the word.

"Most Americans—and all of us are pretty much alike—are careless about that word. We don't stop to think what it means.

"Most of us have the notion that democracy is a kind of government machinery—a congress, an executive, a Supreme court, commissions, authorities, and the like. Well, of course, those are all part of democratic government. They are the machinery by which the people govern themselves.

"But that machinery is not really democracy. You can understand that when you think about the German reichstag. The reichstag is the congress of Germany and it used to perform essentially the same function as our congress. Hitler still convenes it once in a while. But when it comes together it does not vote the way people want, but the way Hitler wants. Its life is just a series of "must" votes. It has no will of its own.

A Travesty on Democracy.

"The reichstag is an example of democratic machinery that has lost democracy. It is a travesty on democratic government.

"Now there are two ways of governing mankind. One is by force and the other is by law.

"Hitler is governing all of Europe by force. Our government—democracy—is a government of law.

"What makes it possible for men to govern themselves by law? A law is just a piece of paper with some words on it. Some laws—some of our most important laws—are not even written down.

"And nevertheless, laws are the most powerful instruments that society has ever invented. In the long history of mankind they have proved themselves to be more powerful than armies and navies, or any kind of physical force.

"And laws derive this great, strange power from one source, and from one only, from the faith that one man or woman has in another.

Bound Together by Faith.

"In this society of ours I have a great faith that you will obey the laws. And you have a great faith that I shall obey the laws. That faith is what makes our democracy strong. That faith is what binds us together.

"If that faith should weaken—if I should lose faith in you, or you in me—then our system of laws would be weakened and our democracy would begin to break down.

"What gives us this faith in each other? Essentially it is this: That each of us knows that the other has a conscience. Each knows that the other will avoid evil and will try to do good. This knowledge that I have about you, and you have about me, is the basis of law and the basis of democracy.

Training in Our Youth.

"The conscience of democratic people is a great and noble achievement. We have groped for it through centuries of darkness—through generations of oppression.

"And you know—you know far better than anybody else—how conscience has been developed and trained. We got our consciences as children, from our mothers in our homes, and from our teachers in our schools—particularly the primary schools where we learned to read and write.

"There at home and at school, under the guidance of the women who shape our lives in their earliest, most pliable years, we learned the simple lessons—the lessons of truth and honesty—of sharing and giving—of self-respect and self-control. We learned obedience to the law, and how to live among our fellow men.

"And it is just for this reason—because they teach us the difference between good and evil—because they teach us to obey the law—that women are the guardians of democracy.

"I say it earnestly to you: The fate of democracy is in your hands.

Dominance of Cynicism.

"Within our lifetime—within the past 20 years, the whole world has been swept by a wave of cynicism and doubt.

"Europe today is dominated by the colossal cynicism of Adolf Hitler. He is a man who does not hesitate to accomplish his ends by breaking his solemn promises, by murdering his associates, by converting the youth of Germany into highly trained gangsters, and by laying waste to peaceful lands that lie across his path.

"It was this cynicism, I truly believe, that weakened the European democracies. The people lost faith in themselves and in their representatives. And the men who had the responsibilities of government lost faith in the people.

"Under such circumstances the collapse of those democracies was inevitable. When the test came they were weakened and unprepared. They could not even produce the guns, the tanks, and the airplanes that they needed.

A Tendency to Sneer.

"And let us face the fact squarely: We, too, in America have become infected with cynicism. I have observed a tendency to sneer at the homely virtues that made our American life so abundant and forceful.

"I have observed a tendency especially among our young people to dismiss the moral and spiritual standards of our American tradition. Our young people are inclined to tell us that those standards, in their own words, are the bunk.

"You should be alarmed about this. You should be tense with anxiety about our youth. If they are cynical, if they are losing their faith, our democracy is in the gravest danger.

"We can already see the beginnings of this. Thousands of your youth, who have lost faith in other people, have formed communist groups, and have received encouragement from high places.

"Without exception, in every country whose democracy has succumbed from within to dictatorship, gangs of bewildered, disgruntled, disinherited youths have been the dictator's earliest and most vicious adherents.

"They contemplate a different kind of society, a society without liberty, because they have lost faith in the ability of men and women to use their liberty for each other's good.

"And that is the problem that faces the women of America. That is the job I am calling on them to do.

"You must begin today. You must rekindle the faith of your young people, their faith in other people, which they can learn nowhere except from you. Let no son or daughter of yours walk out of your home or graduate from your school without that faith.

"Now I know that you cannot do this job alone. You must have help. And I am going to give you that help.

"I want to put this question to you. I put it to you for your own judgment. Has the faith of one man in another been fostered and developed by the present administration in Washington? Has this administration encouraged the faith that we must have to make democracy work? Has it ever shown any faith in us, in us, the people, in our ability to struggle and to make better lives for ourselves?

"I say it has not.

They Have No Faith.

"For almost eight years, a little group of cynics called the New Dealers has been in control of this country, cynics whom we did not elect and who have no faith in us.

"These men have said to themselves: We are the intelligentsia; we know what is good for the people; we know how to govern better than the people know how to govern. Let us therefore, so these cynics say, coin some smart phrases, some pungent words like "economic royalist" and "the forgotten man." These trick words will appeal to the people. They will arouse their emotions and attract their votes, and if only we can keep their votes, we, the intelligentsia, can govern as we see fit.

"It is because they do not trust us that those men have constantly sought more power for themselves and the chief executive.

"It is because they do not trust us that almost every problem is declared to be an emergency—an excuse to add still more power to the central government.

"Seven years ago when this administration came into power our people were hungry and confused. They gave to the administration a confidence and support which no administration had ever enjoyed before.

A Doctrine of Cowardice.

"But just look at the difference today.

"Instead of courage and hope, the New Deal preaches the doctrines of cowardice, confusion and despair. It has lost faith in the people. It is governing by force and by fear. It depends for a large share of its vote-getting power upon the corrupt political machines of Flynn, Hague, Kelly-Nash and Pendergast. It plays on the fears of the insecure by demanding the votes of the unemployed—the recipients of government relief. And it pushes us ever closer and closer toward war.

"When I am elected, the first thing I shall do to help you in the great task that lies ahead of you, will be to clean house in the government. I will clean out the cynics and unbelievers, the nuts and the bunk-artists. My administration will be composed of men who believe in the American people.

Got Us in the Middle.

"Don't misunderstand me. There has been a lot of talk about the danger of changing administrations in an emergency. The closer Mr. Roosevelt gets us to war, the more people say that we ought not to change horses in the middle of the stream.

"Well, for one thing, what are we doing in the middle of the stream? How did we get there? The man who got us in is not the right one to get us out.

"But changing administrations does not mean changing the whole government. I want to clean out the cynics and I want gradually to reduce the burocracy. But the backbone of our government will remain just as it is. The army will be there. The navy will be there. All the civil service, the 1,020,000 persons who do most of the work of government, will be there. All the commissions will remain, except in so far as congress sees fit to change them—and with men on them who understand the functions of our economic system.

Needs Men for Defense.

"I should anticipate also retaining most of those who are now giving their services to the national defense program. Many competent and patriotic men are giving their time to that most urgent and vital task. I shall need their services—I shall indeed put them to better use by giving them more authority.

"I have confidence in them, and they have confidence in me—confidence that together we can get this industrial machine of ours going full blast—for defense—for jobs—for prosperity.

"This idea about changing horses is just another of those catch phrases by which the cynics in Washington, who don't really believe in you, think they can govern you. And if you are to do the job I have given you here tonight, we must drive those cynics out.

"That will be my first step in helping you.

Jobs for Young People.

"And my second step is this: I will make jobs for the young men and women that you are training in the way of democracy.

"We cannot blame our young people for losing faith in us when we ourselves have deprived them of opportunity to earn a decent living and take a real share in our economic system.

"That is the fault of the New Deal, which has stunted the growth of American enterprise and failed to make jobs.

"I can—and will—make jobs for our young people. I believe in America. I want you to believe in America, and I want you to teach our children to believe in America.

"I want you to teach the simple, beautiful principles in which our nation is grounded.

Teach the Old Faith.

"Let us never be too old, or too cynical, or too lax, or too lazy, or too complacent to teach the words, the precious statements of our American faith—just as they were taught to us and to our parents and grandparents.

"Put life and reverent devotion into the old ceremonies that some of us have come to take for granted—and some of us have not observed at all.

"Gather your families together on our great national holidays—Independence day or Lincoln's birthday—and read to your children the sacred words of the Declaration of Independence or the Gettysburg address. These are the living creeds of our American faith. Teach them that way now. Teach them—with all the love for freedom and human dignity that is in your hearts. Consecrate yourselves to the salvation of the nation thru devoted, faithful service.

Living Spirit of Democracy.

"Fill every American home and every American schoolroom with the living spirit of American democracy—with belief in ourselves, with belief in one another, with belief in our country and its future.

"Say with your children — and think—and mean—and live every word of this declaration of American faith:

"'I pledge allegiance to my flag
And to the republic for which it stands;
One nation, indivisible,
With liberty and justice for all.'"

Brain Trusters Must Go, Says G. O. P. Nominee.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 30.—Wendell L. Willkie opened a new phase of his Republican Presidential campaign today as he traveled across southern Michigan, where his special train was met by unprecedented crowds at every stop. Crowds of from 5,000 to 20,000 greeted him at Niles, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Jackson, Ann Arbor, and Wyandotte, the greatest political interest ever shown in this section, some observers said.

In his speeches at the various stops Willkie attacked the third term argument directly on the ground that he could build a better defense program for this country than the present administration.

Three changes will take place in Washington if he is elected, the nominee told the thousands who crowded around the rear platform of his train. These will be "the removal of the burocrats and brain trusters, a change of policy [both foreign and domestic], and the installation of competence."

Assails Brain Trusters.

"There will be two or three train loads of brain trusters, who don't know enough to get out of the rain, moving out of Washington," Willkie said at one point. "These fellows have been throwing monkey wrenches into American industry. They have been dealing with American business on the animal level springing for the jugular vein. They have been trying recently to thwart the labor movement for fear it would grow too powerful."

Willkie, after a week-end in New York and conferences with party chiefs, took up the campaign from the standpoint of the Democratic argument that the third term is necessary because of the danger of changing horses while crossing a a stream. He admitted the critical nature of the times and that international crises might break around us at any time, but insisted that he could do the job better than President Roosevelt. The G. O. P. nominee compared this situation with that of the British, who had changed Neville Chamberlain for Winston Churchill in the middle of a crisis. The change was much for the better, the candidate argued.

Promises Better Production.

Willkie's main argument was that he could stimulate production better than the present administration, which is being run, he said, by "super burocrats." He spoke of their fantastic spending and their wasting of millions, and said:

"The greatest myth in America is that some of these boys in Washington are supermen. I know them all. Some of them aren't even good. These boys will be on their way out when I am elected. Does any one think that Wendell Willkie will send Bill Knudsen out of Washington? [William S. Knudsen is a member of the defense advisory commission.]

"Does any one doubt that I could work better with Bill Knudsen than Franklin Roosevelt can? I'll appoint a chairman of the defense commission and give him real authority to build a defense for America.

"There have been invited to Washington many industrialists to help speed up production.

Expects Their Support.

"I will gamble, I will just gamble—and, o' course, there is no way to determine it—that 90 per cent of those men who have been called to Washington to bring about production are going to vote for me.

"Don't you think I understand those men better than this present administration, which has been attacking them for years? Don't you think I can stimulate them better?

"And above all, I know how to organize them. I know how to put them to work.

"Just think, the President created a commission, an advisory committee, composed of some of the ablest industrialists in the United States, and told them to go to work getting our defense built, but up to this very day he hasn't even appointed a chairman of that commission. Why, you couldn't run a church social with a committee without a chairman.

"And why hasn't he appointed a chairman? Because as long as there is no chairman he must make every decision himself.

Questions One Man's Ability.

"I don't care who the President of the United States is—I am not speaking of the motives of any man—but there is no man who has the capacity to handle all the affairs of state and make all the decisions about these things.

"Is there any one in this crowd—is there any one in the United States—but who, on reflection, would know that I could take that group of industrialists who have been invited down to Washington to build a defense and stimulate them into action, organize them, and have their confidence, better than can this present administration?"

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], Gov. Luren Dickinson, and a number of Republican state leaders joined the Willkie train during the day. At Wyandotte Willkie left his train and headed a motor caravan into Detroit, riding in an open car and greeting the people. At Cadillac square in Detroit he was greeted by a crowd which packed the center of the city for blocks around.

Speaks at Notre Dame.

Willkie began his day's campaigning at South Bend, Ind., where a huge throng met him at the station and lined the streets on the way to the University of Notre Dame. There the nominee was greeted by Father Hugh O'Donnell, president of the university, and members of the faculty. The students gathered in front of the gold domed administration building and cheered Willkie.

The nominee gave thanks in addressing the students that the young men before him were not, like millions of others in various parts of the world, in the trenches of war.

"Whether we be Republicans or Democrats or what not," he said, "I think we can all join in thankfulness this morning that this is not true of American boys, and pray God that it may never be true again.

ROOSEVELT AND WILLKIE TELL VIEWS ON PRESS

New York, Sept. 30 [Special].—President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie today expressed their views on freedom of the press in letters to William W. Hardy, chairman of National Newspaper week. The week is to be observed in at least 5,000 cities in the United States.

President Roosevelt wrote:

"I have little fear that freedom of the press will be abridged from external assault in this country. The danger is from internal corruption. If our press exemplifies a passion for truth and justice and fair play to all, it will avoid that spiritual paralysis and decay which are the deadly enemies of our free institutions."

Willkie wrote:

"News, accurate and unbiased, is the daily bread upon which a democracy feeds. Pervert the news and control the views of the press—those are the first aims in the would-be dictator's effort to undermine democracy. Lies and controled propaganda is the stuff upon which dictatorships feed and grow fat. Freedom of the press is the staff of life for any vital democracy."

CUPID CHALKS UP A RECORD FOR SEPTEMBER

The record for the number of marriage licenses issued during any previous September has been broken, Sidney Summerfield, chief clerk of the marriage license bureau, announced yesterday. The total for this September was 4,644, compared with the previous record of 4,227 in 1936. Indications are that the year's total will far surpass the 35,113 for 1939. So far, 33,408 licenses have been issued. County Clerk Michael J. Flynn attributes the increase to conscription and the lower cost of living.

RAPS ROOSEVELT FOREIGN POLICY AS 'HOCUS POCUS'

BY BETTY BROWNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 30.—Congresswoman Jessie Sumner of Illinois stirred delegates from 38 states to the first convention of the National Federation of Women's Republican clubs here today when she attacked President Roosevelt's foreign policy as "hocus pocus" pretext for a third term.

Jessie Sumner.

"The secrets of that foreign policy," Miss Sumner declared, "are locked up in executive closets like the corpses of Bluebeard's wives. Can such a policy be an excuse for any man to seize what the Father of his Country refused to take?"

More than 2,500 women, nearly twice the number expected, applauded repeatedly as Miss Sumner asserted that the founding fathers "didn't suppose we'd encounter a political lorelei who would lure such a clever people on such obvious rocks."

First Fear of Dictatorship.

"Those former British subjects who wrote the constitution," Miss Sumner, a former judge, exclaimed with a dramatic gesture, "were used to a constitution which cherished unwritten traditions. They did not proscribe a third terms, but remember.. What they most feared was absolute monarchy."

Miss Sumner added: "Nowadays we call it dictatorship," and two Negro women fervently reiterated: "That's right, that's right."

Drawing a vivid picture of the efficient German war machine, Miss Sumner demanded: "What reason have you to think that the defense program will be any less wasteful, less politically flavored, less mismanaged than the tragi-futile efforts of the recovery program have been?"

Nominees' Wives Are Guests.

Mrs. Wendell L. Willkie left her husband's campaign train to be special guest of the federation at luncheon. Mrs. Charles L. McNary also was a guest. Congresswoman Margaret Smith of Maine and Miss S. M. R. O'Hara, secretary of state of Pennsylvania, were among other speakers.

Tall, striking, Mrs. Charles W. Weis Jr., of Rochester, N. Y., the former Jessica McCullough of Chicago, was nominated for the presidency of the federation without opposition to succeed Mrs. Joyce P. Arneill of Chicago. Mrs. Weis, now the federation's second vice-president, began her political career in 1935 as vice chairman of her county central committee and has helped to build the federation to its membership of more than 300,000 in its first two years.

CONGRESS PROBE OF DEMOCRATIC MACHINE URGED

Lyons Assails Subsidized Work by Women.

"The purpose of section 12 of the Hatch law is primarily to prevent the use of money of the federal government, derived largely from taxes paid by citizens of the United States, in partisan political activity and political campaigns."
—U. S. Civil Service Bulletin.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Motion picture films made by the federal government with money appropriated by congress under the New Deal are being used as propaganda thruout the nation to perpetuate the Roosevelt administration.

Documentary evidence of this was displayed yesterday by Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville, former state representative, who for more than six weeks has been investigating activities of the Reporter Plan, a creature of the women's division of the Democratic National committee.

He found that hundreds of thousands of American women have been enlisted to distribute millions of pieces of literature extolling the New Deal.

Third Printed by Government.

More than a third of this literature was turned out by government presses at the expense of the nation's taxpayers, Lyons said. He found also that the women who are propagandizing the nation, county by county and precinct by precinct, are required to pay 25 cents each for their kits of printed matter, which include the brochures, pamphlets and leaflets printed at government expense.

This, Lyons asserted, is a violation not only of the Hatch act but of federal criminal statutes which forbid private persons from selling government property.

Yesterday, concluding his account of the Reporter Plan's activities, Lyons demanded that congress, the and a federal grand jury investigate United States department of justice, the women's division of the Democratic party. An account of his findings already has been forwarded to Republicans in congress, it is understood.

Meeting Called by Green.

Lyons began his revelations Saturday before the county Republican committee which was called into special session at the request of Dwight Green, Republican candidate for governor.

The use of government films to instruct voters in the blessings of the New Deal began in 1934—the year the Reporter Plan was launched by Miss Mary W. Dewson, then vice chairman of the Democratic National committee.

One of the first New Deal movies was "The River," by the Federal Farm Security administration. Dealing with the Mississippi river, erosion, floods, and poverty stricken share croppers and their rehabilitation by a paternal government, the picture is accompanied by comment that gives generous credit, by name, to the FFSA, WPA, CCC, and TVA.

All together there are more than 500 federal propaganda films available free of charge to any one who asks for them. The New Deal asks only that the exhibitor pay the express on the films both ways.

In a Reporter Plan bulletin issued in March, 1940, Dorothy McAllister, director of the Democrat party's women's division, told members how to get federal films, but cautioned them to stress that the films were to be used for "educational purposes."

Raps Radio Chiselers.

Another propaganda method instituted by the New Deal, Lyons asserted, is the broadcast of government activities by use of free radio time.

"Many times," he said, "I have sat in radio stations waiting to use time I had been forced to pay for, cash on the barrel head, while some speaker told the listeners about the wonderful New Deal. Because of the federal communications commission and the veiled threat that radio may be put under a drastic government control system, the station owners are afraid to refuse."

STATE LEADERS OF DEMOCRATS OPEN CITY DRIVE

Slattery and Hershey Talk at Ward Meetings.

The Democratic nominees on the state ticket opened their campaign in Chicago last night with four north side ward meetings. Harry B. Hershey, nominee for governor, spoke at two of them, and Senator James M. Slattery addressed the other two. Slattery also spoke over the radio earlier in the evening.

None of the meetings was large, each of the halls being only comfortably filled, and there were no signs of enthusiasm at any of the four. It was said that no extra efforts had been put forth to make the first night in Chicago a big one and only the members of the regular ward organizations and their families participated.

Follows Downstate Pattern.

Hershey's speeches followed the same general lines as those he has been delivering downstate for several weeks and did not take up any state issues. Slattery, whose appearances were delayed by his radio speech, which ran until 9 o'clock, cut his talks short. They consisted chiefly of an approval of President Roosevelt.

Hershey's first meeting was in the 46th ward at 3212 Broadway.

"This is a campaign for the continuance of democratic principles," was a declaration typical of his talk there. "We must select leadership that is certain to continue democratic processes."

Speaks of Unity.

"Different races live side by side in America without prejudice," he said. "They've all become united and observe the American way of life."

Slattery's radio speech, the first of a series of eight, was his big effort of the evening. His meetings were at 4605 Lincoln avenue in the 47th ward and at 6443 Sheridan road in the 49th ward. Small audiences greeted him at both places.

The radio talk opened with a prolonged declaration of loyalty to President Roosevelt, to Gov. Henry Horner, who appointed Slattery to the senate, and to the late James Hamilton Lewis, whose death created the vacancy which made the appointment possible.

Praises Roosevelt and Horner.

Characteristic of this address was a paragraph of the manuscript from which he read. It ran:

"In this campaign I am proud to be one in that great Democratic army which has for seven and a half years marched steadily forward under the banners of Franklin D. Roosevelt in the nation and Henry Horner in Illinois."

In his radio talk also, Slattery also described President Roosevelt as "the one man in the world most hated by Adolph Hitler."

The other state candidates who made up the Hershey and Slattery caravans downstate also spoke at their meetings here.

Each of the two headliners will speak at three south side ward meetings tonight. Hershey will speak at Cottage Grove avenue and 62d street, 8010 Cottage Grove avenue, and 1442 East 55th street. Slattery is billed for meetings at 366 East 47th street, 9138 South Houston avenue, and 6938 Wentworth avenue.

BROOKS CHARGES NEW DEAL HAS NEGLECTED ARMS TO BUILD FEAR

Danville, Ill., Sept. 30 [Special].—Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for United States senator, told an overflow meeting here tonight that the New Deal administration "has deliberately neglected America's national defense to cause fear in the hearts of our people, cloud their calm judgment and perpetuate itself in power."

Brooks said the New Deal will go on trial before the voters Nov. 5, just as Leon Blum, former premier of France, is now under arrest charged with having experimented with the French people instead of defending them. He predicted the people will sweep the New Deal from power when they go to the polls this fall.

He charged the New Deal administration with complete responsibility for America's present unpreparedness and went on record for a national defense "so strong that no aggressor nation will dare attack us."

"Any weakness of America's economic system and national defense was not created in wartime," Brooks declared. "It was created during the last 7½ years of incompetent administration."

TWO LAW DEANS OPPOSE 3D TERM IN WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30 (AP).—Two law school deans and a Methodist bishop expressed opposition today to a third term for any President and urged a senate judiciary subcommittee to approve a constitutional amendment to limit the chief executive's tenure.

Dean Smith.

Young B. Smith, dean of the Columbia university law school, and Ignatius M. Wilkinson, dean of Fordham university law school, testified in favor of a single six year Presidential term. Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], chairman of the committee, read into the record a statement by Bishop A. W. Leonard of the Washington area of the Methodist church.

"I believe," Smith told the committee, "that if a President is permitted to remai in office for more than two terms he can thru patronage and the use of federal funds achieve such personal power and build up such a political machine that freedom of nomination and freedom of election will disappear and the ultimate power of the people will be lost."

Bishop Leonard asserted that a third term would "pave the way for a totalitarian state." He also made reference to what he termed "the danger of entrenching a Presidential family in the life of a nation for too long a time."

ACCIDENTALLY SHOOTS SELF.

Stanley Bedner, 24 years old, a garage employe, was wounded in the left shoulder last night when a .22 caliber pistol went off as he examined it, in an auto in front of his home at 1824 48th court, Cicero. He told police he found the weapon some time ago.

MEAD IS PICKED AS BARTON RIVAL IN SENATE RACE

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—United States Senator James M. Mead of Buffalo, an ardent New Dealer, was nominated by the New York state Democratic convention tonight to run for reëlection in November.

He will be opposed by Representative Bruce Barton, advertising executive, nominated by the Republican convention last week, who will make a third term for President Roosevelt a major issue.

The convention was opened this morning by James A. Farley, state Democratic chairman, without reference to President Roosevelt or other national candidates.

The convention adopted a 40 word platform. The state Republicans last week had an 800 word declaration.

FLYNN RUSHES TO AID OF HIS PARTY IN WEST

Predicts Roosevelt Will Win Corn Belt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 30 [Special]. —Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic national committee, flew here from Tammany hall late today and, free of any perceptible New York accent, told a press conference that the corn belt was safe for President Roosevelt. He came here to confer with party leaders from Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Kenutcky.

Flynn was in light, tan silk gabardine suit with a F. D. R. button in red, white, and blue under a yellow aster boutonniere. His shoes were tan with garterless, striped socks. He appeared at a Democratic women's reception in the Nicholas hotel.

"There's a swing toward Roosevelt everywhere," he said, his ruddy face beaming under neatly combed, thin gray hair.

Fences Are Sagging.

In New York, Joseph W. Martin, Republican national chairman, contradicted Flynn and attributed his hurried departure by plane for the middle west and the Pacific coast to a tremendous upsurge of Willkie sentiment and a corresponding bogging down of the Democatic campaign.

"I understand that the Democratic campaign is in such bad shape that Mr. Flynn had to rush out west to repair the fences," said Martin. "He had to go out there to try to stem the tide. There's no other possible reason why he should leave before the Democratic state convention."

Martin said the primary reason for Flynn's excursion was the failure of Henry A. Wallace, Democratic vice presidential nominee, to draw crowds on his speaking tour in the wake of Wendell L. Willkie's campaign thru the middle and far west. Flynn will follow Wallace's trail.

Evades Third Term Question.

"As the necessity for national defense to prevent war becomes more acute, are Roosevelt's chances better?" Flynn was asked here.

"No," he replied.

"Is there much opposition to a third term?" another reporter asked.

"There's no third term issue as long as we have free elections," he answered.

United States Senator Scott Lucas was at the Tammany leader's elbow during the interview.

The party conference tonight was in the governorless governor's mansion and Flynn slept in the big white house.

At the women's reception, overflowing with state payrollers, a five page typewritten statement was issued in Flynn's behalf. The statement attacked Willkie for his former relations with public utilities and for his agreement with many of the President's policies.

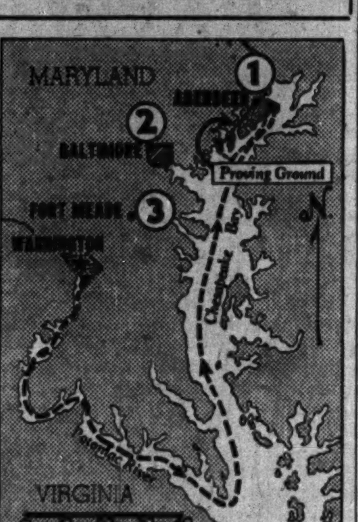
VANDALS SMASH NEON TUBES IN SIGN FOR GREEN

A large neon sign urging Dwight H. Green for governor, located atop a three story building at 1114 South Oakley boulevard to overlook the important intersection of Roosevelt road, Oakley boulevard, and Ogden avenue, was out of commission yesterday because of vandalism.

William Parrillo, Republican committeeman of the 25th ward, whose organization erected the sign in August at a cost of $1,000, said political opponents, apparently using rocks, had smashed the tubes some time Friday, but that it was being repaired.

Parrillo said an attorney with whom he was associated had been approached some time ago by a court clerk who is also a Democratic precinct captain and told, "We won't stand for that sign and are going to smash it."

Makes Sixth Tour



Itinerary of the President's defense inspection trip yesterday. 1. Army proving ground at Aberdeen, Md. 2. The Glenn Martin aircraft plant at Baltimore. 3. Fort Meade, Md.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—President Roosevelt was back in the White House tonight after the sixth of the so-called nonpolitical defense inspection trips which have featured his campaign for a third term.

The trip began with a cruise in Chesapeake bay over the week-end and ended today with a swift visit to the army proving ground at Aberdeen, Md., the Glenn L. Martin aircraft plant at Baltimore and Fort Meade, Md.

At the 35,000 acre proving ground, where all army weapons are tested, the chief executive saw one of the army's 37 mm. antitank units bog down in an open field. The weapon, towed behind a truck, was stuck for nearly 10 minutes as its wheels churned in mud.

Mr. Roosevelt dismissed the incident as inconsequential, but it was a source of annoyance to the army officers present.

In brushing aside the incident, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters that the important lesson of the day was that defensive arms have been standardized, so that mass production can begin.

GREEN ASSAILS GRAFTING WASTE IN AID SPENDING

Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for governor, promised in his third radio campaign speech last night to end the evils he has discovered in the distribution of social security benefits in Illinois.

"Unemployment, relief, the WPA, and assistance to the aged are problems to which I have given a great deal of study," he said. "Benefits to the unfortunate have been decreased by political coercion and intimidation, wasteful administration, juggled pay rolls, and delayed benefits.

"These are evils that must end if our social structure is to survive as a true democracy instead of becoming a despotism based on exploitation of the poor.

"My opponents have said that I would decrease relief and old age assistance payments. Not only is this a lie, but, if I am elected, I will do something this government is not doing—I will reduce costs so that the unfortunate will get every dollar it was intended they should get."

AMERICA'S NEW STYLES TO MAKE BOW TOMORROW

3 W-G-N Revues to Climax Tribune Contest.

BY MARCIA WINN.

W-G-N yesterday was in a whirlpool of activity rare for a radio station. It was a whirlpool of fashion leading up to the brilliant conclusion tomorrow of THE TRIBUNE'S $7,500 American Fashions contest.

In an undertaking unprecedented in the hitherto alien worlds of radio and fashion, style shows will be held in the W-G-N audience studio at 1:45, 4 and 8:30 p. m. tomorrow. Moreover, the night show will be broadcast over the coast to coast Mutual network from 9:30 to 10 p. m., at which time the winners of the cash awards will be announced.

49 Garments to Be Modeled.

The nation-wide contest to stimulate American fashion design brought in 12,491 sketches. Judges then picked the 49 best designs and garments were made from them. These elaborate gowns, coats, and ensembles will be modeled tomorrow before the three radio studio audiences and a board of awards made up of Lady Mendl, Gail Patrick of Hollywood, and Mrs. Howard Linn.

Some of the garments arrived at the studio yesterday, and were photographed in color. The remainder will arrive today. The entire collection is insured for $75,000. Mrs. Grace Pickering, fashion authority who directed the making of the garments, says with conviction that the collection is unparalleled in American fashion shows.

Subdued Elegance Is Theme.

No dress is spectacular for the sake of being spectacular, not even the wedding gown made of brocaded silver lamé which would retail for $25 a yard, the hand embroidered jacket that required five weeks in making, or the robe de style that has the extravagant beauty of the gowns of Marie Antoinette. Subdued elegance and quiet distinction, a distinction born of a fine combination of line, workmanship, and subtle detail, characterize each gown and accessory.

Jewelry valued at $500,000, loaned by Chicago jewelers associated with the American Gem society, will be worn to accent the garments.

Travis Banton, head designer for Twentieth Century-Fox movie studios, will describe each gown and ensemble to the studio and radio audiences. Banton, who arrived Sunday on a TWA air liner accompanied by Miss Peggy McNaught, style editor for the same studios, said yesterday that the Tribune-W-G-N events would be the American fashion world's "declaration of independence."

Hailed as Historic Event.

"I consider it an historic event," Banton said. "This is the first effort to crystalize opinion that America—all America—has supplanted Paris as the world's style capital. It will open the eyes of every one in the clothing business if winning designs come from Oskaloosa, Ia., or Oshkosh, Wis. Then, too, if well known designers win, the 'big name' method used so profitably by Paris will be encouraged. Either way the contest goes it is bound to give us a national picture of America as a style center."

The foremost designer, as revealed in this first American contest of design, will receive $3,000. A second prize of $2,000, three of $500 each and 20 of $50 each also will be awarded.

Meanwhile, W-G-N workmen hung a new contour curtain on the stage of the audience studio. The Abbott dancers were rehearsing their entr'acte ensembles. And 300 "honorary mention" fashion designs were hung in Harmony hall, the corridor which connects W-G-N and Tribune Tower.

ADMITS BURNING JERSEY CITY '37 ELECTION BOOKS

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 30 (AP).—Deputy City Clerk Bernard J. Rosengard revealed in an affidavit today that 1937 election poll books sought by Republicans in an attempt to prove election irregularities in Hudson county, stronghold of Mayor Frank Hague, state Democratic leader, had been burned under his supervision last January with approval of the city law department.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles A. Rooney read the affidavit before Supreme Court Justice Thomas J. Brogan in a hearing obtained by William E. Sewell, Republican county superintendent of elections. Sewell obtained a writ from Justice Brogan when City Clerk Joseph E. Colford failed last Friday to produce poll books for 1936, 1937, 1938, and 1939 on Sewell's request.

LA FOLLETTE OUT FOR ROOSEVELT; TELLS OF DOUBT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30 [Special].—The official vote cast in Wisconsin's primary election two weeks ago, upon which the list of delegates to tomorrow's platform conventions is determined, was released by Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman tonight.

The official tabulation, which has to be approved by the state canvassing board before it is final, revealed that Zimmerman was the biggest vote getter among all the candidates of the three political parties. United States Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr., who was unopposed in the primary for renomination, topped the Progressive party with 144,692 votes.

The nominees for the five state constitutional offices, United States senator, and for the lower house of the legislature—along with holdover state senators—are eligible to participate in the platform conventions, which convene at noon tomorrow. Each party will select a state central committee for the next two years. The Republicans and Democrats also will name Presidential electors.

CANDIDATES RAP NEW DEAL CASTE SYSTEM IN ARMY

BY EDWARD WILSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 30.—Talking tonight before two enthusiastic crowds, here and at Creve Coeur, the Republican caravan headed by Speaker Hugh W. Cross, candidate for lieutenant governor, hammered at the New Deal measures.

Cross addressed more than 500 Republican party workers at a meeting here He told them the same fears about draft administration under the New Deal that he told roadside crowds of farmers thruout Tazewell county this afternoon.

"The draft boards are supposed to be named by the governor," he said, "but we have no governor and have not had for two years. Our governor has been sick and the state has been administered by the Kelly-Nash-Nudelman machine.

Machine to Control Draft.

"Now it is that machine which is going to name the draft boards—not the governor. I pledge myself to watch the appointment of those boards and every one on them. We won't have the Kelly-Nash-Nudelman machine showing political favoritism in conscription."

George F. Barrett, Republican candidate for attorney general, directed his attack at the recent appointment of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, to a captaincy in the air corps.

Barrett told the Creve Coeur meeting that President Roosevelt has introduced the caste system into the American army by directing or consenting to the appointment of his son to a captaincy.

Review Willkie's War Record.

Both speakers reminded their hearers that Roosevelt held a post in Washington during the world war, while Wendell L. Willkie volunteered for the army and served in the trenches.

Justus L. Johnson, candidate for secretary of state, the third member of the caravan, confined his campaign talks to state problems. He attacked the present secretary of state for going outside of Illinois to purchase license plates, the cartons in which the plates are packed, and chauffeurs' badges.

"The plates were manufactured in Kentucky, the cartons in Ohio and the badges in New York," Johnson declared. "The Kelly-Nash-Nudelman machine, with its thousands of pay rollers, thinks it can ignore the workers of Illinois."

Bomb at Tavern

Bomb wrapped in newspaper was found at spot (marked by cross) in front of west side tavern.

Terrorists who have been trying to extort $20,000 from James [Big Jim] Martin, colored policy king, left a bomb hidden under a newspaper last night in front of 1904 Lake street, where Martin owns a tavern and outdoor garden. The fuse was not lit, but apparently it had been before Detectives Robert Hunt and Thomas Vail of Warren avenue station found the bomb. They dropped it in a pail of water, where it remained until Edward Winkels, head of the bomb squad, opened it and found six sticks of dynamite. Lieut. Walter C. McGloon said the explosive was wrapped in a Detroit paper of Sept. 27.

On Sept. 4 the home of Martin's political associate, Charles Bartels, lieutenant of Patrick A. Nash, 28th ward committeeman and Democratic county chairman, was rocked by a blast. On Sept. 22 a Maywood home resembling Martin's was bombed. Police say Martin, leader of the colored Democratic voters in the 28th ward, also has been threatened with kidnaping.

REPORT FRIENDS OF ELLIOTT ARE GETTING WORRIED

New York, Sept. 30 [Special].—The New York Sun said today that friends of the Roosevelt family and members of the loyal White House guard are "greatly perturbed" over the appointment of Elliott Roosevelt to a captaincy in the army air corps. The newspaper added that these circles have "hinted" to the President that Elliott should be taken out of the job as soon as possible.

"Altho Elliott and his mother have defended the appointment," the Sun says, "others who have only the best interests of the Roosevelt family at heart feel that the unfavorable publicity received by Elliott four years ago when he was accused of trying to sell military airplanes to Russia and of trying to promote a $2,000,000 national air line monopoly, still rankles in many quarters.

"Experience Is Limited."

The Sun article then continues:

"Ignoring the fact that Elliott's aviation experience is somewhat limited and that he was pushed thru the back door to a captaincy at a time when thousands of other young Americans of his age face conscription, there is still an unpleasant odor remaining from 1936, his friends feel.

"As an officer assigned to the procurement division, Elliott will report for duty on Oct. 7 at Wright field, near Dayton, O., the army air corps technical and purchasing center. It is the clearing house for purchases and testing of equipment. Manufacturers and salesmen from all sections of the country will descend on the government's offices there in their efforts to land contracts, and Elliott will be on the buying line, altho he has had no practical experience in that field.

"Extremely Unwise."

"Because he has had no experience, and because he will be open to criticism if a large contract is let thru channels with which he is connected, his well-wishers feel that his acceptance of the post was extremely unwise.

"Three years after his graduation from the Hun school at Princeton, N. J., in 1930, he was elected a vice president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce with a $10,000 annual salary and $5,000 for expenses. He was then 23 years old, having already been vice president of an airline, a rancher, and an aviation editor.

"After about a year in this office he went to Texas where he resigned to embark on a radio career. And then came the fall of 1936 and a blast from Frank A. Tichenor, publisher of the Aero Digest, which convinced a good many people that Elliott had been trying to cash in on his White House connections."

HORNER TO STAY LONGER IN HOME ON NORTH SHORE

Altho today was his scheduled moving day, Gov. Henry Horner will not leave the rented home in Winnetka which he has occupied since June 1, his attending staff admitted last night. The governor, ill for the last two years, is expected to remain in the home at 701 Sheridan road at least until Oct. 15, according to neighbors.

Gov. Horner has never been out of doors since he arrived in an ambulance four months ago, his attendant said, but they asserted that he is up and about the house and is "doing nicely."

CONSCRIPTS MAY WORK FOR RANK OF A LIEUTENANT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1, Tuesday (AP).—The war department incorporated in its conscription program today three more measures to facilitate the training of men drafted for service, to encourage their initiative and to foster their morale.

Top item was creation of an entirely new peacetime system of nine army tactical corps commands whose "principal function" will be to train regular army, National Guard and drafted troops.

The army made known yesterday its intention of giving an opportunity to conscripts to qualify for officers' commissions, and also announced the allotment of $2,594,152 for athletic equipment.

Disclosing for the first time that conscripts would have an opportunity to rise above a sergeant's grade, Gen. George C. Marshall said that plans were being made for candidates' schools which picked enlisted men might attend for the last three or four months of their year's training to work for second lieutenants' commissions.

The school will not take large numbers of men—only the cream, inasmuch as the army already has reserve officers for 2 million soldiers.

Waterboro, S. C., Sept. 30 (AP).—Capt. Charles A. Ross, 37 years old, of Arlington, Va., and Mrs. Ross were killed tonight in the crash of an airplane five miles north of here. Ross was the air corps office chief in Washington.

HERSHEY TAKES OVER AS ACTING DRAFT DIRECTOR

Will Enable Program to Get Under Way.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—With draft registration day, Oct. 16, only a little more than two weeks off, Lieut. Col. Lewis B. Hershey today took over temporarily the duties of national selective service director conferred on him by a Presidential executive order. His is a stopgap appointment designed to prevent delay in draft preparations until a permanent director is chosen.

Lieut. Col. Hershey.

Col. Hershey and Maj. Gen. Allen W. Gullion, judge advocate general of the army, have been the two most often mentioned for the $10,000 a year job. However, last week President Roosevelt said he had selected a director but could not announce his name because of uncertainty that he would accept.

Hints at Civilian Head.

This immediately led to reports that a civilian ultimately will be chosen, since there would be no question of an army officer accepting an assignment from the commander in chief. The fact that Col. Hershey has been chosen temporary head of the machinery, it was said, probably indicates that he will get the job permanently if the President is unable to find a civilian willing to accept the appointment.

The appointment of some one to fill in temporarily was deemed necessary, according to sources close to the army command, to avoid confusion similar to that which has marked the mobilization of the National Guard. There have been complaints that the Guard was ordered into active service prematurely, before adequate preparations were made.

It is known that various technical measures necessary to carry out the intricate conscription program have been held in abeyance while the officials waited for action from the White House. Col. Hershey can now prescribe such amendments to the draft regulations as he finds necessary; issue public notices, orders, and instructions needed in efficient administration of the draft machinery; obligate funds appropriated to finance the program, and appoint necessary assistants and deputies at salaries not to exceed $5,000 a year.

Start Regional Conferences.

Heretofore these things could not be done, as the law vests the powers only in the national director, who is responsible to the President. For the last four years, Col. Hershey has been executive officer of the joint army and navy selective service committee engaged in a study of conscription plans in the event of an emergency. He had been assigned to draft plans even before that.

The staff at selective service headquarters numbered 125 today, most of whom are regular or reserve army officers, with civilian clerical help furnished by the civil service commission. This staff is expected to be doubled between now and registration day.

Meanwhile, it was announced, a series of regional conferences for state officials of the conscription program have been started thruout the country. These gatherings will be addressed by Maj. Joseph H. Battley, national adviser on occupational deferments.

Traveling by airplane, he will visit all the conferences within the next week, making 11 stops in all. He is scheduled to arrive at the Chicago airport at 1:43 p. m. Thursday and depart again at 3:20 p. m.

Draft and Enlistment Notes

A plan to conduct the registration of Chicago's men of draft age in schools and park field houses was discussed yesterday afternoon by Chicago and Cook county election officials, and a representative of Adjt. Gen. Lawrence V. Regan.

Lieut. Charles J. Magnesen, who represented the adjutant general yesterday, will report to Regan in Springfield today. A decision on whether to conduct the registration in such public buildings, or in the regular precinct polling places, has been delayed pending issuance of the draft regulations.

The registration regulations state: "It is of the utmost importance that the registration be conducted in a dignified setting. The best possible place is a school, town hall, or other appropriate public building. A mere booth, or a place being used at the same time for other business,, will not suffice under any conditions."

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki said this seemed to rule out most of the precinct polling places, of which there are 3,648 in Chicago. He said he believed that 20 registrars in each of the 355 elementary schools, 40 high schools and 115 field houses of the city could handle the estimated 400,000 registrants.

The Cook county board yesterday adopted a resolution providing that any of the board's 1,006 men employés of draft age who are called into service for a year shall get their jobs back when they return home. The resolution also provides that the board shall pay the employés monthly pension fund assessments during the employés' absence, and in addition continue to pay its own share, which now averages $14.35 per month per employé. The employé's contribution averages $8.23. It is calculated that 55 of the 1,006 men will be called.

Forty-three young men were accepted last week for training as flying cadets by the air corps' traveling examining board now sitting at the Chicago Post Office building, Capt. Richard J. O'Keefe, board president, announced yesterday. In all, 450 men were interviewed by the board, which will continue its examinations this week. Eight men were qualified yesterday, and 40 more were being examined physically.

LOOK IN CRYSTAL LAKE TO FATHOM A VANISHING ACT

Forty members of the Crystal Lake chapter of the McHenry County Sportsmen's club met at the lake last night to find out where their lake is going and take steps to stop its disappearance. They complained that the water has receded 200 feet from the north shore. The water isn't deep enough for swimming at the beaches, they said, and excursionists are going to other lakes.

Some said they suspect a neighboring town of piping water away. Some said a country club was taking water for its greens. But spokesmen for the town and the country club denied this.

An engineer for the state blamed evaporation and lack of rain. The sportsmen declined to accept this explanation and decided to hold another meeting.

SHIP 100 TANKS FOR CANADIANS FROM ARSENAL

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 30 [Special].—From a reliable informant, it was learned that approximately 100 small army tanks were shipped from the Rock Island arsenal today to Canada for training purposes.

Loaded on flat cars, the tanks were seen leaving the island this afternoon. The arsenal, however, refused to release any information regarding the tanks. It was understood, however, that they were not equipped with armament.

Stored at the arsenal here since world war days, the tanks are the six ton type with a speed of only from three to four miles an hour. They are considered too slow for practical army use.

Col. F. F. Worthington of the Canadian army visited the arsenal last week, it was learned, and selected the tanks. Nearly 200 more are said to be stored at the arsenal, but it reported that parts are missing from these.

35 NAVAL CRAFT RETURN TO PORTS ON WEST COAST

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 30 (AP).—A squadron of 35 naval craft put into San Diego and San Pedro ports today, part of the first of three contingents of Uncle Sam's fighting vessels to return to the mainland from Pacific maneuvers.

Arriving were 13 destroyers, 4 submarines, and 3 light cruisers. Battleships and heavy cruisers, headed by the flagship New Mexico, carrying Admiral J. O. Richardson, in command of the fleet, headed for the deeper waters of the San Pedro harbor.

ARMY RECRUITS TO WEAR WORLD WAR CLOTHING

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30 (AP).—The army expects to provide all its recruits with at least one new, complete, regulation uniform, but some men will have to put up with ancient garb this winter for "second best" wear.

About 50,000 overcoats and large stocks of Melton breeches and leggings, dating from the world war, will be issued, officials reported today, to make up a prospective shortage.

As the result of careful planning, continual pressure on manufacturers for speed, and coöperation between he quartermaster corps and mill men, every soldier is promised at least one regulation outfit for parade and furloughs.

BRITISH BOMBERS RULE AIR OVER BERLIN 5 HOURS

Aim Attack at Capital's Industrial Suburbs.

BERLIN, Oct. 1, Tuesday (AP).—England ruled the air over Berlin for a time last night and early today, making the German capital the key point of bombing raids which spread in a large swath over the most populous and industrial northern and western sections of the reich.

In Berlin the alarm which sent 4,000,000 residents tumbling out of bed and into the cellars lasted 5 hours and 8 minutes and was the longest of the war.

The British bombers did not set any noticeable fires, but at least one explosive bomb was heard a few blocks from the Associated Press office. The British ran into blasts of antiaircraft fire, but crossed and recrossed the city.

Night Fighters Active.

The raiders apparently concentrated their efforts on the capital's industrial outskirts. A band of Nazi night fighter planes was reported to have shot down three raiders. Germans charged the planes dropped inflammable leaflets.

Germans said their own raiders did "extraordinary" damage to British military targets yesterday. Dive bombers destroyed two hangars at the Hastings airdrome and pitted the runways so badly they were made useless, it was stated.

A German reconnaissance plane was reported to have sunk a 4,000 ton British merchantman at the mouth of the Thames on Sunday. Aberdeen, Edinburgh, and Leith in Scotland were bombed. The Germans claimed 38 British planes were shot down and 14 German craft lost.

London Suburbs Suffer.

LONDON, Oct. 1, Tuesday (AP).—The fury of Germany's 24th consecutive overnight air assault on London fell on the suburbs today. Only a few of the Nazi bombers braved the central district's massed guns and searchlights, newly reinforced above groundfire range by a cruising patrol of British fighter planes making their first appearance in several weeks.

German planes were reported over several other areas of England, including the great west coast port of Liverpool, where big fires were started last night, and Wales.

The conflict in the darkness followed up mass daylight blows Monday by 600 to 700 planes at southeastern and southwestern England.

Three Raids Turned Aside.

Three attempts to reach London were turned aside, but on the fourth the Germans inflicted damage and casualties in the western suburbs. There were dogfights over the center of the city.

Along the coast and inland the raiders appeared over St. Albans, Portland, Dorset, Somerset, North Downs, and Bristol.

The air ministry reported 47 German planes were shot down on Monday and listed 22 British planes as lost, with the pilots of 12 saved.

The day's fighting was enlivened with a spirited, British initiated duel between rival big guns across the English channel. There were casualties in Dover. The British said their shells started fires in Calais.

Attacks on Continent.

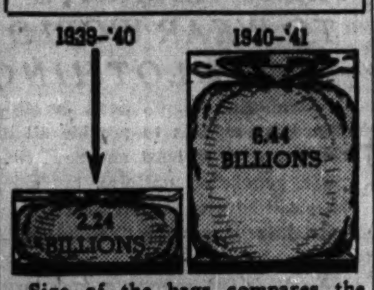
Britain's counteroffensive on Germany and Nazi-held continental bases was reported to have taken a heavy toll on Sunday night.

Oil refineries at Magdeburg and Hanover, aluminum works at Bitterfeld, gas works at Stuttgart, freight yards at Osnabrueck and Cologne, and airdromes in Germany proper, the Netherlands, and Belgium were declared successfully attacked.

Rail communications were reported badly battered at Ehrang, Mannheim, Soest, Coblenz, Osnabrueck, Hamm, Hanover, and Kamen and the German-commandeered Fokker airplane factory near Amsterdam set ablaze.

Altho bad visibility hampered the British bombers, the air ministry news service reported direct hits scored at Calais, Ostend, Boulogne, Flushing, and Cape Griz Nez—all potential invasion bases.

War Costs Rise



Size of the bags compares the British expenditures for the first half of the previous fiscal year with those of the first half of the current year.

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP).—Britain's ordinary expenditures for the first half of the 1940-'41 fiscal year were disclosed tonight to have been three times as great as for the corresponding period of 1939-'40.

Figures announced by the treasury placed ordinary expenditure at £1,610,135,776 [about $6,440,000,000] for the half year as against £562,026,216 for the first half of the last fiscal year. Ordinary revenue for the half year was only £452,518,411 [about $1,810,000,000], leaving a deficit of £1,157,617,365 [about $4,630,000,000].

LONDON COUNTS ON 'NEW WEAPON' TO CURB RAIDERS

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP).—A new weapon which will prove the answer to random bombing of London by night is about to come into use, it was stated today.

Much has been written, but little seen or heard, about this "new weapon." Guesses range from cannon shooting clouds of gas into the area where bombers are in operation, to a "radio wave" machine sending rays into the sky which will paralyze German engines. London correspondents learning aeronautics by ear declare they hear—but do not see—the new weapon.

Even the most optimistic—and many are optimistic with the passing of September, another in a long series of "crisis" months—do not say the new weapon will end the night bombings entirely.

5,000 Killed in London Air Raids in September

LONDON, Oct. 1, Tuesday (AP).—Unofficial estimates today of London's casualties in almost incessant air raids during September placed the number of dead at about 5,000 and the injured about 8,000. The official casualty report for August was 1,075 dead and 1,261 injured.

PROMISE RELIEF FOR LONDONERS MADE HOMELESS

Urge Removal of More Children to Country.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Henry Willink, conservative member of parliament and the government's "new dictator" for rehousing the homeless of the London area, announced today that persons made homeless as the result of bombings would be provided for and given every care.

Willink said it was desirable to reduce the population of London as much as possible and he particularly urged parents to send small children to the country.

Unwilling to Move.

He admitted that already he had encountered these difficulties:

1.—People in the bombed East End are unwilling to move.

2.—The homeless are not willing to be marshalled in bodies. They have individual ideas of what they want.

3.—Emergency rest centers are neither as safe nor as desirable as individual houses, therefore, temporary centers must be cleared as fast as possible.

4.—While there are ample alternative accommodations in the London area for the homeless, the majority are willing to live only on the ground floors or basements, thereby making the upper stories useless.

Urges Communal Living.

For those workers whose presence in London is necessary to contribute to the war effort, he recommended setting up communal living quarters where they can be provided food and safe lodging.

Other provisions announced today to ease the war burden on workers include extension of new credit facilities for farmers and projected special compensation to coal miners equivalent to full time pay regardless of whether the mines work fewer shifts.

Farmers, under the new scheme announced by the minister of agriculture, are provided cheap credit for any project aimed at increasing food production.

JAPAN CONVICTS SEVEN BRITONS ON SPYING CHARGES

TOKIO, Sept. 30 (AP).—Seven British residents of Japan, arrested in the July roundup of each other's nationals by Japan and Britain, have been convicted of espionage, the authoritative Domei news agency announced tonight.

Three other Britons have been indicted and five more are under investigation on similar charges, the news agency reported. Their names and details of the trial procedure of those convicted were withheld for unexplained "official reasons."

The arrests were made during a nationwide hunt for alleged spies in mid-July. Following this action Britain disclosed an empire roundup of Japanese. Altho the British contended their action was in nowise reprisal, and most of those arrested were released, the incidents accounted for one of the sharpest rifts in Japanese-British relations.

Then tension eased somewhat for a time but increased again with the recent arrest of six Japanese in Singapore. The Japanses foreign office was reported to have delivered one of the sharpest notes ever handed to a foreign diplomat last week in a subsequent conference with British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie.

[Later Singapore dispatches said all but two of the Japanese arrested there had been released.]

PRESS CHICAGO CLAIM FOR NEW AIR LABORATORY

Oscar G. Mayer, president, and Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, are in Washington, D. C., to confer with the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics in the hope of obtaining for Chicago the proposed aircraft engine research laboratory.

E. P. Querl, head of the association's industrial department, said yesterday that the $1,300,000 reported in Washington as assigned to Chicago for aeronautical work, probably was for improvements to Chicago airport.

Querl said that about $350,000 additional was to be spent on the Aurora and Joliet airports, and approximately $165,000 on the Curtiss-Wright field at Glenview.

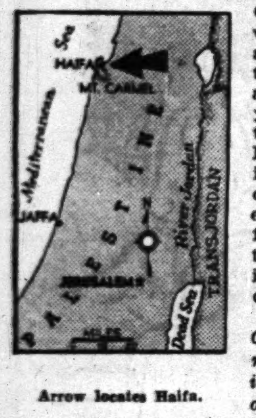
HOLY LAND CROWD ON MT. CARMEL SEES HAIFA RAID

Italian Flyers Routed from Oil Port.

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Sept. 30 (AP)—Hundreds of spectators on historic Mount Carmel watched an attempt of the Italian air force yesterday to bomb Haifa, British oil port on the Palestine coast, for the third time in eight days.



Arrow locates Haifa.

[Mount Carmel is mentioned in the Bible as the place where Elijah destroyed the prophets of Baal.]

Witnesses said the big Italian bombers were met by withering antiaircraft fire and finally climbed to a great height and loosed their bombs on waste land and into the sea, where they raised huge fountains. Material damage was reported to be trifling. Ten persons suffered minor injuries.

Submarine Sunk, Says Rome.

ROME, Italy, Sept. 30 (AP).—Italy's high command reported today that a British submarine was attacked and sunk in the eastern Mediterranean by an Italian torpedo boat after it had torpedoed a 700-ton Italian merchantman.

A communique added:

"Another formation of torpedo-dropping plan succeeded in striking an enemy battleship with a torpedo toward the stern. The ship stopped moving and was immediately surrounded by enemy destroyers."

British Raid Somaliland.

NAIROBI, Kenya, Sept. 30 (AP).—British headquarters today reported that Birikau, in Italian Somaliland, was successfully raided for the third time by the South African air force on Sept. 28.

SPURNS GANDHI DEMAND TO LIFT FREE SPEECH BAN

SIMLA, India, Sept. 30 (AP).—Lord Linlithgow, viceroy of India, was disclosed tonight to have informed Mohandas K. Gandhi that the government of India refused to lift its restrictions on freedom of speech as demanded by Gandhi's All-India congress [Nationalist party].

The viceroy wrote Gandhi that the congress' efforts to propagate the view that all war is wrong would interfere with India's war effort at a critical period.

Gandhi, who had an interview with the viceroy this afternoon, replied that, altho the congress was anxious to avoid embarrassing the British government, it was unable to "deny its creed in the present critical period of mankind's history."

Cab Driver's Bride

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The former Florence Thornton calling her parents in Boston last night after wedding to cab driver in Bar Harbor, Me.

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 30 (AP).—A "mutual interest in the great out-of-doors" set in motion a romance that resulted in the marriage of the socially prominent daughter of a Loyola college professor and a Bar Harbor taxi driver, the couple disclosed today.

Miss Florence Thornton, 24 years old, daughter of Prof. W. M. Thornton Jr., and Gilman Milliken, 44, were married by Town Clerk W. P. Wadleigh last Thursday after they obtained a waiver of the five day law.

Russian Settlers Moving to Land Gained in Finland

MOSCOW, Sept. 30 (AP).—Pravda, organ of the communist party, said today that more than a thousand families are moving from collective farms in soviet Russia proper to settlements in the new Karelian Finnish republic ceded to Russia at the close of the Russian-Finnish war. Pravda said towns and villages devastated and depopulated by the war were being restored.

SEE NAZI MOVE TO SATISFY RUSSIA ON HER NEW ROLE

Reds Say Von Ribbentrop May Fly to Moscow.

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (AP)—Despite a Nazi press chorus shouting "All's well with Russia," the impression prevailed in political circles tonight that negotiations between Moscow and Berlin are taking place to define more clearly the soviet union's rôle in axis plans for a new Europe, Asia, and Africa.

With the signs turning toward aggressive axis diplomacy aimed at both Moscow and Madrid, secrecy closed down around political preparations. But it seemed evident that the German foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, will soon go to Moscow, or a Russian envoy, perhaps Vyacheslav Molotov, soviet premier and foreign commissar, will come to Berlin.

Russian sources here said they believed it "quite likely" that Von Ribbentrop might fly to Moscow.

Hint to Press Indicated.

The unanimity with which the German press emphasized a happy state of affairs with Russia indicated a hint had been passed from above to stress this point in view of speculation abroad that relations between Moscow and Berlin are less friendly than they seem.

This line of German comment, pointing out particularly that Russia was informed in advance of the German-Italian-Japanese alliance, followed an editorial in Pravda, Moscow communist party newspaper, which German sources elatedly called "the answer to all political tipsters in London, Washington and New York who believed they discovered an anti-Russian note in the pact."

[Pravda ascribed the new three-power treaty to military coöperation between the United States and Great Britain, predicted further widening of the war, and reiterated Russian neutrality.]

Spaniard Sees Duce Today.

ROME, Italy, Sept. 30 (AP).—Plans for Spain's aid in an axis attempt to seize Gibraltar, possibly to be followed by occupation of French Morocco, are expected in political circles to be completed when Ramon Serrano Suner, Spanish minister of the interior, confers with Premier Benito Mussolini tomorrow.

Germany was generally believed in foreign circles to have sought permission to use Spain, which borders on German occupied France, as a base for Nazi troops and Italian warplanes.

[In London, Britain was reported preparing for the possibility of a German-Italian drive on Gibraltar within the next month.]

Churchill Gives Assurance to Czecho-Slovakian People

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill told the people of Czecho-Slovakia in a broadcast today marking the second anniversary of the Munich agreement that the battle for Britain also is the "Battle for Czecho-Slovakia." The prime minister said the restoration of "Czecho-Slovakia's liberties" is one of Britain's "principal war aims."

3 NAZI LEADERS OF HOLLAND SEE HITLER IN BERLIN

Future of Netherlands Is Seen at Stake.

BY PIET VAN 'T VEER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands, Sept. 30.—Official statements published here today disclosed that Adolf Hitler received three Dutch Nazi leaders in Berlin last week. They were Anton Mussert, fuehrer of the Nazi movement in the Netherlands; C. Van Viilkerkern, and M. M. Roost van Tonninger.

Anton Mussert.

Also at the conference were Arthur Seyss-Inquart, German high commissioner for German occupied Netherlands, and Gen. Schmidt, German commissioner for special services.

Recalls Events in Norway.

Altho no official comment has been made on this visit, the Dutch newspaper Telegraaf said the conference must be considered of greatest importance for the future of the Netherlands. The Telegraaf recalled what recently happened in Norway.

[It was announced in Oslo last week that King Haakon had been removed as chief of the Norwegian state, parliament had been abrogated, and Vidkun Quisling named as the sole political leader.]

Furthermore, it was recalled that Seyss-Inquart, in an address here last Saturday, said that Mussert and his aids had been accused of treachery, but that in the Berlin conference they had been "the most valuable and best representatives of the Dutch cause and of Dutch freedom."

Editor of Nazi Paper.

Next to Mussert, Roost van Tonninger is the most important Nazi in the Netherlands. He was interned by the Dutch government before the war broke out and now is editor of a Nazi newspaper. Recently he was appointed by Seyss-Inquart to liquidate the Socialist party. Van Viilkerkern is the leader of the Nazi youth movement.

[In Berlin the Dienst aus Deutschland news service, which is closely connected with the government, reported Germany "is in no way satisfied with political developments in the Netherlands." It declared the new political order in Holland was one which recognized the new political revolution of all Germany.]

ORDER EX-BANK CLERK RETURNED IN $40,500 THEFT

Richard O. Fossum, charged with embezzling $40,500 from the Lake View Trust and Savings bank of Chicago, where he was employed as a commercial deposit clerk, was ordered removed to Cook county yesterday at a hearing in St. Paul, Minn.

Fossum, 24 years old, disappeared Aug. 31 and subsequent audit disclosed the shortage. Federal agents learned that he had taken his mother, who lived with him in their apartment at 1304 Argyle street, to the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn. They also learned that Fossum was extremely fond of his dog, Tommy.

They inspected all kennels in the St. Paul area, found Tommy, and waited for Fossum to call for his pet. He was seized last Friday, and $37,000 of the bank's money recovered.

CANADA SERVES BRITAIN AS WAR 'SUPPLY HOUSE'

Flings All Resources Into Struggle.

Four Points Become Apparent.

Out of it all, however, the following points became apparent:

1. Canada has two army divisions, approximately 50,000 men in England, two more in training, and a large contingent of replacements for all four divisions undergoing primary military courses. The active service force [including overseas units] totals 165,000 men. An additional 300,000 draftees for the national resources mobilization scheme will receive 30 days' training each during the next 12 months.

2. The Canadian naval contingent has increased from prewar strength of 1,756 officers and men and 13 vessels to a force of nearly 12,000 of all ranks and 119 vessels of all sizes from destroyers to mine sweepers and coastal patrol boats. It includes armed merchant cruisers of considerable size.

3. The royal Canadian air force today has two full squadrons of 200 pilots and 1,000 men in England and more than 2,000 officers and 23,000 airmen and cadets in training as pilots, etc., and on duties such as coastal patrol, convoy duty, and scouting duties for the navy.

4. The department of munitions and supply, created by parliament to make all defense purchases, has committed Canada to spend virtually a billion dollars for war purposes.

Recruiting Increases Constantly.

Recruiting and training in the army, navy, and air force have been progressing at a constantly increasing rate since September, 1939. But most of the industrial mobilization has come in the last three months. It is during this period that a great percentage of 35,000 orders for all types of war material have been given by the Canadian government.

"In three precipitous months an industrial revolution has occurred in Canada," said an official of the National Steel Car company whose plant at Hamilton, Ont., is now producing shells. "Last May when a lot of us, representing heavy industry, got together at Winnipeg we found that only trifling orders for armaments and munitions had been placed.

"We'd all been begging for a chance to fight on the industrial front. Now that has been changed. The calamitous battle of France loosened a flood of orders for guns, shells, tanks, automotive equipment, explosives, chemicals, and aircraft."

Canada a Supply House.

The construction of new plants and expansion of old ones as a result of these orders will soon make Canada the most important arsenal in the empire. And these industrial expansions also are tending to make Canada the natural supply house for the empire and generally determining the rôle that the dominion is to play in the war, according to supply department officials.

For instance, nine new explosive plants are under construction with a government appropriation of 59 million dollars footing the bill. These plants to be government owned, will produce T. N. T., nitro-cellulose powder and cordite [the standard British explosive used in rifle and machine gun cartridges]. Largest of these plants, in Ontario, has just gotten into production, according to the munitions department.

Twenty plants, some expanded from original size and others entirely new, will put these explosives into cartridges and shells. Nineteen million dollars will finance this into shell production plants, all government owned but operated by private administrators on a management fee basis.

Visits Shell Plant.

Many of the shell plants already are in production. I was taken thru a plant where 18 and 25 pounder shell casings for field artillery and 3.75 and 4.5 inch casings for antiaircraft guns were made. At this time these empty cases are shipped to England—packed like so many cans of food in cardboard containers—for addition of their explosive charges and fuses.

By November, however, they will be completed in a new Canadian plant where the charge, fuse, tracers, primers, and other items in completing the shell will be added. When shipped these will be live shells, ready for firing.

A capital investment of 67 million dollars by the government has established the armament industry here. One converted plant already is manufacturing 25 pounder cannon [equivalent to the American 105 millimeter field gun] for the Canadian divisions overseas. These will replace the 18 pounders [approximately equivalent to the American 75s] now used, we were told by munitions and supply department officers.

Build Three Types of Tanks.

Within five months a new 12 million dollar plant equipped to build cannon of all types from the 37 and 40 millimeter quick firers to the 9.2 inch heavy artillery will be in operation.

The Canadian railway equipment firms are building three types of new tanks for the British and Canadian armies. Rifles, machine guns, and submachine guns are being turned out in small quantities and soon will be in quantity production here, we were told.

Ford and General Motors automotive plants in Ontario already are turning out 400 armored cars, trucks, and station wagon transports a day. Eight aircraft factories in Canada are producing 12 types of airplanes, and a number of American aircraft and engine plants are delivering machines to Canada.

All told 4,000 airplanes have been ordered for the air training scheme, more than one-third from the United States. Canadian factories are expected to build 240 trainers a month by June, 1941.

Most of this production still is in the "soon" stage, but Canadians "carry on," cheerfully, earnestly, and confidently.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 30 (AP).—Prime Minister R. G. Menzies today called a conference of party leaders for Friday to discuss the possibility of forming an all-party national government.

Former Salesman Wins Probation in $8,664 Theft

EXPECT BRITAIN TO REOPEN BURMA ROAD INTO CHINA

Hint It Will Be London's Reply to Axis Pact.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Britain's immediate reply to the new Rome-Berlin-Tokio military alliance may be the reopening of the Burma road to transport vital war materials to the Chinese government, authoritative quarters said tonight.

Altho a decision has not yet been taken, strong action is being considered, including the immediate reopening of the Burma road even before the three months' agreement with Japan expires on Oct. 18.

Purpose of Pact Cited.

Viscount Halifax, foreign minister, in announcing the original Burma road agreement, said that the British promise to prevent war materials from reaching the Chinese government was given unconditionally. He pointed out, however, that the purpose was an attempt to pave the way for solution of Chinese-Japanese differences.

It was contended here that the agreement no longer is binding, because Japan has openly allied herself with Britain's enemies. It was pointed out that the agreement, if carried out, would be to weaken an ally and strengthen Japan's position in China.

It was understood that the American government, which originally opposed the British concession to Japan, strongly is urging British help in sending to China all the war materials possible.

Hints Pact Saves Americans.

TOKIO, Sept. 30 (AP).—The new Rome-Berlin-Tokio military alliance probably will "save hundreds of thousands of Americans from death on foreign battlefields," Col. Shuitsu Matsuoka, chief of the Japanese army information section, said today in an interview.

"We gather the impression from American publications that the United States is drifting steadily toward entry into the conflict," he declared. "If this is so, this alliance must have made a considerable portion of the American public aware of the dangers of participation and it may serve as a brake on such rashness.

"From the standpoint of national defense, no country seems more favored by natural and artificial conditions than the United States. Potential battlefields for American soldiers lie across oceans in foreign territories. But we believe that such imaginary battlefields have vanished as a result of the alliance."

Charges U. S. "Betrayed."

The Japan Times, the foreign office's English language mouthpiece, declared editorially that the United States state department had betrayed the British and American people by a series of "warlike moves in the Pacific," and these solely were responsible for the tripartite alliance.

The newspaper asserted the state department deliberately had deprived Britain of the friendship of Japan in "the greatest betrayal in history of a nation in the direst hour of its peril."

The Japan Times went on: "When the full tale is told of the Washington clique's machinations, there will be such an outcry of the American people that wholesale renovations will be made in the state department, getting rid of the members of a superstate in America.

"By every means short of war, it [the state department] has put the Pacific in turmoil until, their patience exhausted, Germany, Japan, and Italy took group precautions against an utterly irresponsible American nation."

Some 150 Japanese residents of Britain are returning home voluntarily shortly, Yakichiro Suma, the foreign office spokesman, said tonight. He added, however, that several hundred would remain, and denied that Japanese had been ordered or advised to leave Britain.

Refuse British New Lease.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 30 (AP).—The Japanese dominated "Chinese government" at Nanking today announced that it would not renew Great Britain's 10 year lease of port facilities on the Liu Kwang Islands, near Weihaiwei on the northern shore of the Shantung peninsula. The lease expires today. The Japanese army announced that one of its high ranking officers had been assassinated in Shanghai by an unidentified gunman, believed to be Chinese.

French Order Admiral with British to Appear for Trial

VICHY, France, Sept. 30 (AP).—Vice Admiral Emile Muselier, commander of the French naval forces fighting with Great Britain, has been ordered to appear within 10 days before the second maritime tribunal to answer charges of attacking the security of the state and provoking desertion, press dispatches from Toulon reported today.

Londoners in Raid Shelters 15 Hours a Day, Nazis Say

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (AP).—German circles estimated today the average time Londoners spent in air raid shelters in the last fortnight at 15 hours a day. Most alarms in London, they said, were between 8 p. m. and 5 a. m.

TAX FIX PROBERS TO QUIZ OFFICIALS OF 25 COMPANIES

Twenty-five officials of corporations in Cook county were summoned yesterday to appear in the state's attorney's office tomorrow for questioning in connection with the alleged fixing of 1939 personal property assessments.

Announcement of the action was made by Thomas L. Bugan and Gordon Nash, assistant state's attorneys, who for the last month have been investigating charges of tax fixing brought by the Chicago Bar association in a report made public in July.

Bugan said he and his staff have examined more than 200 assessment files in the office of County Assessor John S. Clark. He declined to name the corporate officials and warned against inferences that they had done anything wrong.

JAP BOMBERS ATTACK KUNMING, NEAR INDO-CHINA

Chinese Industrial City Is Heavily Damaged.

HANOI, French Indo-China, Sept. 30 (AP).—Japanese forces, now firmly established at the southern terminus of the Haiphong-Kunming railway, struck at the northern end today with a heavy aerial bombardment of Kunming, China, by 27 planes.

Kunming, capital of Yunnan province, is an industrial and communications center vital to China, and the Japanese regard the French owned Haiphong-Kunming railway as an important key.

Casualities and heavy damage were reported in Kunming, including a direct hit on the French Banque de L'Indo-Chine, demolition of a house occupied by English nurses, a bomb blast on the compound of an English operated hospital, and damage to a Y. M. C. A. building and a residence in the English Methodist mission compound.

French Bases Possibly Used.

The Japanese planes may have taken off from one of the three air bases which the French conceded to the Japanese in Indo-China last week.

The Japanese move into Indo-China ostensibly was to gain bases for a drive against Kunming and the populous province of Yunnan, where 12,000,000 Chinese live. The drive would aim at severing southwest China's outlets to British Burma and to Indo-China.

Smoothing out the rough edges of their penetration into Indo-China, Japanese negotiators agreed today "in principle" to pay damages for 15 deaths and many injuries caused by their bombing of a railway junction near Haiphong four days ago.

China Hits at Pact.

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 30 (AP).—Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Chung-hui struck out tonight at Japan's entry into the Rome-Berlin axis. He declared China would "never recognize the 'new order in greater East Asia' and especially refuses to recognize Japan's so-called leadership therein."

"The pact entirely ignores and obviously attempts to destroy the legitimate positions, rights, and interests of other European and Asiatic countries, as well as those of the non-European and non-Asiatic powers in Europe and Asia," Wang said.

FRENCH BAR BRITISH VESSELS FROM ZONE AROUND MADAGASCAR

VICHY, France, Sept. 30 (AP).—British vessels have been warned to stay outside a 50 mile zone around Madagascar, France's island colony off southeast Africa, colonial ministry sources declared tonight.

This, they said, was France's reply to a rejected British demand on the governor general, Leon Cayla, that he align Madagascar with Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of French forces fighting with Britain, or be cut off by blockade.

Britain's blockade threat did not change the Madagascar situation, they said, since the island's 3,000 miles of coast have been blockaded by British warships for more than two months.

French Warships Pursued.

MADRID, Spain, Sept. 30 (AP).—A new British pursuit of France's depleted navy was reported today. The Spanish news agency Cifra, in a dispatch from Ceuta, Spanish Moroccan port opposite Gibraltar, said two French destroyers, heading into the Atlantic, were trailed at a considerable distance by several British warships. No explanation was offered.

[The German radio, reporting advices from Ceuta, said the "English failed to catch up with the French boats."]

FOOD SUFFICIENT IN ENGLAND, BUT PRICES RUN HIGH

Writer Describes How Rationing Works.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Victory always crowns the forces with the best quartermaster in a major war if hostilities are confined to the length of resources and endurance.

Food in England is rationed under a plan introduced in 1922 and perfected in 1924. It is a plan providing for organizing the food supply and distribution so that waste will not occur. By the plan available resources may be systematically conserved so the population may be amply fed indefinitely.

Butter and Sugar Watched.

There is no food shortage. Butter is the only ration visibly reduced compared with peacetime. Instead of the usual squares served in hotels and restaurants the pats are about one-quarter size. Housewives report that the grocer watches sugar pretty close, too, but that if one is an old customer everything else can be had upon request despite what the ration cards provide.

The price is the big complaint. It is the old story of the masses carrying the burden. Wages remain the same in many lines of work, while the prices of foodstuffs have materially advanced, in some cases 100 per cent.

The official ration of major articles per person is: Sugar, one half pound weekly; butter, two ounces; bacon and ham, listed together, one quarter pound; tea, two ounces; cooking fats, two ounces, margarine, two ounces; meat, 50 cents worth weekly. Fish and poultry are not rationed.

Aid Given to Poor.

This appears small when read casually, but housewives report it is ample.

The government is exerting every effort to keep prices down, but it is difficult to evade the old law of supply and demand. Much government aid is given to relieve the burden on poor people.

Hotels, especially in small towns, give an example of price boosting. At one place the price of a bed and breakfast is twice what it was a year ago. Wholesale evacuation from danger zones is responsible for this.

For food control the island is divided into 12 districts, each with a food dictator working directly under the government.

THE CAMPAIGN
Both Sides of it

REPUBLICAN.

The Willkie Crusade.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

(Assigned by Republican National Committee.)

Your correspondent spent Sunday hanging around with the some 50 newspaper men who are traveling with Wendell Willkie in his great crusade across the country. It is the greatest number of newspaper men ever to accompany a Presidential candidate. And they represent the cream of American journalism, the only free journalism in the world today.

It was a most interesting day, as Mrs. Roosevelt would say. We thought you would appreciate our telling you about the things that go on backstage. Willkie has run these fellows ragged but there is not a man or woman on the train, from opposition papers as well as those neutral and friendly, who is not sold on him 100 per cent.

The crusader is at his best before unfriendly audiences, the correspondents say. He likes to answer questions. He likes heckling. He has insisted that his itinerary carry him to New Deal strongholds.

His Crowds Are Anxious.

There is no difference of opinion among the correspondents of the tremendous size of the crowds that have been greeting him. But of the thousands who come in from the countryside to hear him from the back platform, they aren't there to yell "whoopee." They are there to see this man and hear what he has to say.

There is an anxious attentiveness about them.

The newspaper men have moved around in the crowds trying to study them. The people are worried.

When Willkie says the third term is the way to dictatorship there seems to be a questioning look in their eyes. They recall that the Republicans said something about the threat of dictatorship in 1936, and about the rape of the constitution. Their picture of Mr. Roosevelt is that of a laughing, good natured man, while the pictures of Hitler and Stalin which they have seen, show these two men as a couple of fiends.

Gradual Growth of Power.

But then Mr. Willkie goes on to recall the men around Mr. Roosevelt, the men who use him, the men who really have no great respect for him, but consider he is their tool. He tells about the vicious way in which Mr. Roosevelt struck at the Supreme court in 1937, the way in which he has succeeded in removing it as one of the "checks and balances" of government. He tells of the semirevolutionary period of the sitdown strikes which the NLRB dominated by men who do not believe in the capitalistic system, brought about.

He tells about how Mr. Roosevelt sought to purge senators and members of congress who disagreed with him. He tells about how it has been a constant struggle the past four years for congress to keep him in check, how he is slowly wearing the congress out. He tells about how Mr. Roosevelt has steadily and in one guise or another gotten the greatest concentration of power ever known in the history of our country. It is hard for the rank and file to comprehend this concentration and its dangers. But he explains that it is the reason for unemployment, the reason why those who are employed, are not getting raises or better jobs.

The crowd begins to think maybe there was something to the Republican warnings of four years ago.

DEMOCRATIC.

What Sacrifice, Mr. Willkie.

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee.)

["I cannot pretend—we must not try to pretend—that this task can be accomplished without sacrifice. No man can predict what those sacrifices will be."—Wendell Willkie at the Empire City race track.]

The most cynical band of political corruptionists who ever debased the nation's honor swept into Washington in the spring of 1921. They took over the justice department and bartered immunity in exchange for bribes. The trail of corruption reached thru the underlings of the department far up to the President's cabinet.

The oil reserves were traded off in return for loot to satisfy the greed of plunderers in high public office. A senatorial investigation uncovered the whole sordid tale. The Little Black Bag which carried the bribes, and the Little Green House on K street where the plunderers met, became the symbols of a nation's disgrace.

A disillusioned President went to his grave a few years later, broken hearted at his inability to curb the rapacious looting of his own party henchmen. The thin lipped Calvin Coolidge entered the White House. The looting stopped but the government still remained insensitive to the social needs of 130,000,000 people.

Gambling with Other People's Money.

The Coolidge program was simple and brief. He vetoed the farm bills designed to provide a measure of parity for the nation's food producers, vetoed the soldiers' bonus bill, and jammed thru the Mellon tax bill, the chief beneficiaries of which were the 13 multimillionaires.

New forms of filching the people's money were devised in Wall street and the government stood idly by. The era of unbridled speculation had set in.

Stock prices soared and the Coolidge administration clamped down swiftly on those who tried to halt the climb.

The People Pay.

President Coolidge went out on the flood tide and Mr. Hoover came in. He was a stanch believer in the new order. The poorhouse was about to be abolished from the land. His first act was to sign the Smoot-Hawley tariff which started at once to dam and choke the normal flow of world trade. The inevitable day of reckoning was at hand. The dreadful market crash of October, 1929, was the first ominous sign.

The fumbling Hoover administration plodded on, hoping for something to turn up, hoping that a return to the good old days was just around the corner.

When Mr. Hoover left office, there were more than 15,000,000 unemployed, farmers were at the verge of peonage, industry was prostrate, and the banks had crumbled under the blow. A whole generation of Americans paid the price in loss of savings, loss of employment, loss of homes, and loss of morale.

Now Wendell Willkie speaks of further sacrifice to "save the Union from destruction." What kind of sacrifice? Who will be his associates in the gay crusade? What is the game and what are the stakes?

The Republican nominee has no answer. His army of gay crusaders in shining armor know the answer. They are behind him again—the ones who caused the wreck—to the last man. If you doubt it, take a day off and count the Willkie buttons on Wall street.

WPA TO INCREASE ROLLS BY 100,000 DURING OCTOBER

Pre-Election Boost in State to Be 4,000.

An increase of 100,000 in Works Progress administration rolls thruout the nation is scheduled for October, members of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission were told yesterday. The statement was made at a commission meeting by Carl H. Martini, director of certification and service, in response to a question by Neil H. Jacoby, chairman of the commission.

Wendell L. Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, charged recently that "definite proof existed that the Roosevelt administration is planning again to pack the WPA rolls." Willkie cited figures to show that the rolls have increased during election years and dropped during nonelection years. He directed the attention of Attorney General Robert H. Jackson to the situation for action under the Hatch act.

At yesterday's meeting Jacoby asked Martini whether WPA quotas in Illinois had not been increased recently.

Downstate Increases Told.

"There have been increases authorized in several instances downstate," Martini said. "Word from Washington WPA heads has been that there will be a national increase in the whole country of 100,000—from 1,700,000 to 1,800,000—during October."

Martini's statement of the nationwide increase was confirmed later by Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator.

"Illinois jobs are to be boosted from 113,891 to 117,300 as soon as possible—probably by mid-October," Miner said. "This will represent an increase of nearly 4,000, the state's share of a nation-wide increase."

Increases in some states will fall below the 4,000 figure, it is said, and in other states the increase will be higher, depending on the number of projects authorized.

Lee county officials said Saturday that they will have trouble finding work for 150 additional WPA employés unexectedly authorized in that county.

Quota Boost Explained.

"Increases in Lee and other counties surrounding Winnebago county are due to the national defense program," Miner said. "Existing projects there must be cleaned up quickly, because we will need 4,000 men on the $3,100,000 expansion and rehabilitation project at Camp Grant, south of Rockford in Winnebago county. The same situation applies in areas near Fort Sheridan and Scott field."

MR. AND MRS. JOSLYN SETTLE DIVORCE CASE, AND THE SHOW'S OVER

The tumultuous Joslyn divorce case came to an abrupt end yesterday.

Mrs. Charlotte Joslyn [top] and George R. Joslyn.

Attorneys for both sides announced after a two hour conference in Judge John C. Lewe's chambers, that Mrs. Charlotte C. Joslyn will be granted a divorce from George R. Joslyn, son of a wealthy manufacturer of electrical articles, on grounds of desertion. His suit charging Mrs. Joslyn with misconduct will be withdrawn.

Mrs. Joslyn is to receive custody of their four children, ranging in age from 4 to 10 years, and $500 monthly for herself and the children. Joslyn was given specified times to see the children.

During the spicy hearings, Mrs. Joslyn was accused of being unduly chummy with a biopsychologist [and bigamist] a tourist guide in Santa Fe, N. M., and a Mr. M, who sells Indian jewelry. Joslyn, in turn, was said to have shown affection for a Miss U, who visited his South Haven farm.

DEMAND ACTION TO END LIBERTY OF SEX FIENDS

The arrest of Joseph Niemeyer, 21 years old, for a sex attack on a girl 6 years old, brought a demand yesterday from Miss Myrtle Carpenter, chairman of the legislation department of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs, for intelligent action by the state and city in such cases.

Niemeyer, who is married and lives at 4354 Elston avenue, was arrested on a charge of indecent exposure brought by a group of west side girls. After this arrest he was identified by the small girl as the man who had attacked her.

His record shows that Niemeyer was arrested on a sex change Aug. 11, 1939, and was discharged by Judge Frank M. Padden. On Aug. 22, 1940, Niemeyer was arrested again and arraigned before Judge J. M. Braude. He was fined $100 and costs and placed on six months probation.

"There is an urgent need for an intelligent change in the law in these cases," Miss Carpenter said. "The proper medical examination and treatment has been neglected.

"But until such changes are brought about in the law, confinement in such cases is the answer. It is just impossible to think of turning that type of man loose on the streets."

Niemeyer will be arraigned this morning in Oak Park on a charge of crime against children.

TREASURER FIRES OFFICE CLERK FOR TAX SHAKEDOWN

Alex Schlesinger of 3524 Leland avenue, a clerk in the office of County Treasurer John Toman, was discharged yesterday after he had admitted a $10 shakedown of a taxpayer, Mrs. Anne Milkereit, 27 years old, 2843 North Halsted street.

Mrs. Milkereit said she paid first and second instalments on 1938 real estate taxes, plus interest and penalties, and that Schlesinger then told her she must pay an additional 12 per cent. She said he told her he could "o. k." the additional bill for $10.

Toman said Schlesinger told him it was his first attempt and that no others were involved in the shakedown. Toman said an investigation will be made, however.

WILLKIE THE CAMPAIGNER.

Wendell Willkie continues to write and deliver his own speeches. The reporters who are traveling with him report bigger crowds at the railroad station stops than any candidate has attracted in many years, and record crowds at the stadiums have been frequent. The listeners go away obviously impressed with the man and his message. The reporters who are trailing him by a week or so thru the territories he has visited find that wherever he has been he has won many thousands of voters.

Mr. Willkie has an engaging personality, but it is not that alone or chiefly which has accounted for the success of his campaign tours. People turn out by thousands and tens of thousands because he is bringing them reasoned confidence and hope. He is telling them and proving to them that this country does not have to have 9 million men and women out of work; that we do not have to drift into war; that our preparations for defense need not be bungling; that if once the energies of the American people are released, the mood of defeatism and despair will pass. If an administration which believes in encouraging enterprise and expansion is placed in power, this country will be started again on the road to prosperity as has happened so often in the past.

With the doubters and the timid, Mr. Willkie is particularly effective. He speaks with simplicity and with candor. He believes that in the last seven years some grievous mistakes have been made. He presents the evidence from a record familiar to every one in his audience. He invites his listeners to draw their own conclusions. Those who come to hear high flown rhetoric are disappointed. Those who come to learn what Mr. Willkie stands for go away filled with enthusiasm for his cause and the forthright man who represents it.

Mr. Willkie is making his mark as a campaigner. What is chiefly lacking today is political organization to assure his victory. In many states and communities the Republican organization is feeble. Mr. Willkie could not remedy that defect in the few months which were available to him. Men and women who believe in his message, who wish to see their country restored to prosperity, and who hope to avoid the folly of foreign military adventures must do their part. There is no time to spare.

COMMUNISTS AT THE BALLOT BOX.

The communist party's Presidential ticket has been barred from the ballot in Illinois, as it has in a number of other states. In Illinois it is barred for failing to fulfill the statutory requirements as to nominating petitions. In several other states it has been barred on the ground that it advocates the overthrow by force of our existing form of government.

These are both sufficient legal reasons, but they do not embody the essential difference between the communist party and other minority parties, past and present, which, while they have rarely elected their candidates, have by the causes they advocated contributed materially to American political thought. That difference is that the communist party is the representative in domestic American affairs of the policy of another nation. It is un-American in the strictest sense of that term.

Voters of Illinois will have the opportunity in November of casting their ballots for the upright Mr. Babson, proponent of the holy cause of prohibition which injected such an unholy amount of corruption into American government, or for the amiable Mr. Thomas, whose socialistic theories, if put in practice, would destroy the nation as surely, tho perhaps in less bloody fashion, as the revolution the communists seek. They have had the opportunity in the past of voting for Populists, Greenbackers, anti-Masons, Know Nothings, and a variety of other economic and political crackpots.

This is and was as it should be. Our republican system of government is designed to consider and digest or reject any ideas of public policy. That some of the ideas, Mr. Thomas' for instance, have been imported from abroad does not affect the case. The United States is not the fount of all wisdom, and so long as an idea is advanced by Americans as their proposal for running their country our political system is adequate to handle it.

If that may seem to open the door to the communists, it does not. Beyond even their advocacy of violent revolution the objection to them is based upon the fact that their party is the agency of a foreign government, controled and directed by that government for the purpose of influencing the affairs of this nation. Mr. Browder is just as much an agent of Russia as is the Russian ambassador at Washington. Both get their principles and orders from Stalin, and neither has the right to participate in the domestic political discussions of this country.

This same touchstone of foreign control will, of course, also reject the blustering Nazis of the bund and the less conspicuous but no less evil fascist organizations of Mussolini which, in coöperation with gangsters of the Mafia type, prey upon and intimidate Americans of Italian birth or parentage within their own communities. Again, over and above the filthy gospels that they promulgate, the primary objection to them is that they are agents controled and in many cases paid by a foreign power.

A perfect case exists for excluding any such agent of a foreign power from participating in domestic political processes of this country. On these grounds the communist party should be barred from the ballot. On the same grounds the exclusion from the franchise of communists, bundsters, and members of the fascist groups deserves careful consideration, regardless of whether they may be citizens by birth or naturalization. They cannot be agents of another country without violating their obligations as citizens or their oaths of naturalization.

AMERICA SECOND.

The other day in Cleveland Mr. Sumner Welles delivered an extended speech on the foreign relations of the United States. There were some notable omissions.

Mr. Welles forgot to mention that only a few months ago Mr. Roosevelt had described the project to acquire island bases off our eastern coast as "silly." We got the bases, but they had to be thrust upon the cookie pushers in the state department, and even now, weeks after the agreement was reached, no serious efforts have been made to secure our position in the islands.

Mr. Roosevelt was not eager to get the bases; he wanted to put the fifty destroyers in the war and he accepted the bases as a means of accomplishing his end without raising too much of a furore in this country. Mr. Roosevelt is an easterner, the son of an old and wealthy family. He was educated in expensive schools and throughout his life has lived on or near the seaboard. These associations have had their expectable result in establishing his attitude toward America and toward the world. And what is true of him is almost equally true of the permanent staff of his state department.

Such persons with few exceptions are accustomed to looking to Europe as to the center of the world. To them, America is only by the accident of politics an independent country. Accordingly, American foreign policy must be guided, not by the interests of America but in response to the desires of European statesmen. Americans possessed of this viewpoint are, in truth, colonials. They regard westerners as natives to be conciliated occasionally, but not to be taken too seriously.

The extent to which the eastern colonials will go was illustrated the other day when it was announced that our government lending agency is advancing 20 million dollars to Brazil for the construction of a steel mill.

Just what benefits the United States will derive from this loan is not clear; certainly it will not promote the sale of steel from our own mills which will be greatly in need of markets once the armament business is completed. We are going to create this new competition for an American industry but at the same time we have done nothing to promote the production of rubber in Brazil. Rubber is a commodity which we cannot produce at home and which can be produced in Brazil. If produced there it would be available to us even if Japan seized the Dutch East Indies and blocked our trade with British Malaya. The colonials in the state department evidently didn't think of that.

MORE REGULATION.

Beginning today, coal will be sold everywhere in this country at prices fixed by Secretary Ickes. The Retail Coal Dealers' association has sent him a resolution demanding that the price-fixing be extended at once to all competitive forms of fuel. Each of them would then have "an equal opportunity to share in the energy and fuel markets."

Just what that means is not explained and, of course, cannot be explained. To a coal dealer "equal opportunity" means a price for oil, gas, and other competing fuels which will not seriously hamper the sale of coal to consumers. To an oil dealer it means a price for his commodity which will lead to a rapid expansion of his sales. And so on. Nobody has ever figured out a scheme of price-fixing by the government which will be as equitable to all concerned and as conducive to the general welfare as the free market has been.

But some shortsighted business men and almost all burocrats think otherwise. Even today, in the face of the danger which confronts them, the coal dealers still mouth the phrase that price-fixing of coal, i. e., raising the price of coal, is required to "stabilize" the industry, as if the raising of the price could accomplish anything except a reduction in the use of coal to the injury of every one in the business, from miners to retail dealers.

One type of regulation leads to another and the only beneficiaries are the burocrats who go on the pay roll. Regulation of the railroads led to regulation of ships, trucks, and buses. Regulation of coal will lead, if the dealers and the pay rollers have their way, to the regulation of all competing fuels. In the end that will mean that the consumer will pay more and get less; that there will be fewer jobs in all the regulated industries; that technological improvements will be discouraged.

If such crackpot notions had been popular a generation or two ago, the horse breeders and oat growers would have prevented the rise of the automobile industry.

Editorial of the Day

THE THUMB IS SOBER THAN EVER.

[Daily Oklahoman, Oklahoma City.]

In April, 1940, the state of the national budget was a matter of grave concern to every one who takes the trouble to figure simple arithmetic and knows what is going on. The legal limit had been reached, and the national debt of about 45 billion dollars was threatening to swamp the ship of state.

Then came the big war scare of May, and President Roosevelt, knowing that practically no one would object to appropriations for national defense, asked for one, five, and then 10 billions or more—it's hard to keep count.

The remarkable thing about all this is that the unprecedented appropriations for defense purposes have caused us to forget our concern over the vicious waste in nondefense expenditures.

A man hits his thumb with a hammer. A doctor takes the same hammer and hits him over the head with it, stunning him, thereby causing him to forget his injured thumb. That sort of therapy has had amazing success in the New Deal scheme, for now we don't even question the nondefense spendings, which are as great and wasteful as ever, despite the dire need of sacrifice and economy required by defense spending. And now Henry Wallace is traveling over the country telling people that when the war is over the government will have to spend additional vast sums to counteract the wartime dislocation.

You'll have to hand it to the New Deal psychologists. They know how to cover up their unprecedented extravagance.

THE LONESOME OCTOBER.

Baseball isn't lingering in the lap of football around Chicago this year. We tried to find a football game for the enjoyment of last Saturday's perfect afternoon, and the best we could do was Evanston High vs. Waukegan. Thus we are able to report that scarlet seems to be the favored color among high school maidenhood; that "beanies," often with feathers, are in fashion; that the Tyrolean stocking is being worn, tho not in abundance, and that the blue denim overall should be rolled to the knee.

The casual manner in which the obituaries of the late Marguerite Clark disposed of her stage career appalled us. Her activities in the "silent films" were described at length, but her national popularity in comic opera, comedy, and drama from 1900 to 1914 was treated as negligible.

Yet we suspect that the people who had seen her only in the films did not remember her clearly, for a voiceless shadow is hard to recall; while those who knew her as the daintiest little singing girl of her time were really moved by the news of her death. Her association with the gargantuan De Wolf Hopper in comic operas is unforgettable. She was his opposite in "Mr. Pickwick," a revival of "Wang," and other musical shows. This strangely contrasted pair toured the country for several years. She was the first Snow White, and in the summer of 1910, at the Princess theater, she romped thru a suggestive farce called "Baby Mine" that caused the nation to laugh.

MAGIC IN A RAG BAG.

Did you ever own a rag bag filled with bits of this and that?
I have quite the gayest rag bag packed with every shade and hue,
Green and yellow, brown and scarlet, and just every shade of blue;
Close at hand I keep my rag bag and when winter seems too long
Lace of waves that toss and tumble, white of clouds as soft as down,
Silver from the stars and moonbeams and from slanting summer rain,
Rainbow hues from out a garden, flowers that shine and gleam and blow,
O, I have the nicest rag bag filled with lovely, magic things,
I need only pull out pieces and I'm off on fairy wings.

New Evidence About Milk Snakes.

I, too, believe firmly in milk snakes, as I was the first one to purchase a set of K. P. von S's educated reptiles [Sept. 26]. The circumstances were as follows:

At the time K. P. was raising cows on his timber farm in Wisconsin, I was operating a soft drink parlor in a nearby town. I, also, was naturally on the alert for new ideas and labor saving devices in my chosen field, so after purchasing a set of "power milkers," as they were called, I secured a set of hoop snakes. After the "power milkers" were attached to our cows, which were pastured on a hillside, we simply ran the milk, as it came from the glass tubes, into small containers which we then secured with belts around the hoop snakes' hips, and then rolled the snakes downhill to our store. The result was a milk shake, which was the origin of this delectable drink.

Rah! Rah! Rah! 5-0-0! Printing!

The celebration of the 500th anniversary of printing comes to its climax this week with observances, dinners, etc., in which 92 organizations affiliated with the art will participate.

But that isn't all. This year is also the 250th anniversary of the establishment of paper manufacture in this country. [The first mill was at Germantown, Pa.] Therefore, the papermakers are also joining the printers, publishers, librarians et al. in making reverential whoopee. The paper trade is taking special pleasure in a poetic advertisment, intended to cajole folks into selling rags to a papermaker, which was published in the Virginia Gazette on July 26, 1744. Here is its last stanza:

Nice Delia's Smock, which, neat and whole,
No man durst finger for his Soul;
Turned to Gazette, now all the Town,
May take it up, or smooth it down.
And no Affront to Innocence.

Regarding the Chicago fire memorial that was never completed [Sept. 20]:

You were in error about its location. It was to have been at the Washington street entrance to Garfield [then Central] park, not on the lake front. The design was by W. L. B. Jenney, the park's architect and engineer. The accumulation of débris from the fire to be used in the memorial included 219 iron safes.

At that time [1872] heavy masses of fused material from the fire were also assembled in Douglas park, at the artesian well. They remained long after the well went dry. The boys of the west side loved to play around and scramble over these relic dumps.

ROCKS WITHIN THE BODY.

ROCK quarries may be found in various parts of the body; for example—the gall bladder, the kidneys, the bladder and the salivary ducts. For the most part, individuals develop these miniature boulders some time after the fifth decade, altho children are not immune. In rice eating Burma, almost every youngster is "blessed" with a bladder calculus. There is some reason to believe that a dietary deficiency is responsible—or too much alkali in the urine.

During convalescence from a fracture, physicians adjust the diet carefully because kidney or bladder calculi are likely to form in the interval. Fortunately, many will disappear as the patient resumes activity and a normal diet. The explanation is clear. When a "break" undergoes repair more lime is thrown into the blood stream than the circulation can hold. Nature then attempts to throw off the excess and excretion via the urine is greatly increased. As a result, mineral matter may be deposited.

Apparently infection does not play an important rôle, altho we cannot deny the fact that inflammation encourages the "settling out" of calcium salts. The most reasonable cause is poor drainage. With some obstruction to the out-flow from the bladder, for example, absorption of fluid may occur, increasing the concentration of that which remains. Then it is that calcium and phosphorus compounds may drop out of the liquid and form a nucleus—no larger than a grain of sand. Additional layers are deposited as the same condition recurs.

Probably the greatest single advance in our understanding of this phenomenon is the importance of diet. It was McCarrison who developed stones in rats by feeding them a limited menu. When milk, butter, or cod liver oil was added, however, prevention was complete. In other words, a food intake deficient in vitamin A may be strongly alkaline with ensuing deposits of lime.

When treating an unwelcome guest within the urinary tract, the first step should be to examine the diet carefully and adjust it so that the food elements are balanced with an adequate ration of vitamins and proteins [meats]. Numerous reports show that foreign masses disappear when a proper régime is instituted. Some are small enough to pass down the tube which leads from the kidney to the bladder and from there to the outside. It is only when they cause obstruction that surgery may be needed.

Not long ago an interesting case came to my attention. The patient—a woman 52 years of age—developed deposits within the kidneys. She had submitted to six or seven operations for their removal but her trouble recurred with great persistency. It was then noted that the urine had been alkaline thru the entire period. Changing the reaction to acid by means of a simple modification of her menu, gave complete relief and no symptoms have been observed for the last three years.

CONJUNCTIVITIS.

Mrs. N. C. writes:

1. Does vernal conjunctivitis cause blindness?

2. Is radium used successfully in treatment?

REPLY.

1. Rarely—unless grossly neglected. A mild solution of boric acid as an eyewash—with generous doses of calcium by mouth—are helpful.

2. Where the malady is persistent and annoying, particularly during the summer season, radium may give permanent relief. This plan is not recommended except in severe cases—after all other methods have failed. Some reports of cataract formation following its use have appeared.

THE BRONCHOSCOPE.

N. M. writes: How is a bronchoscopic examination made?

REPLY.

The instrument is a slender, electrically lighted, metal tube. It may be passed down the trachea into a bronchus. By means of specially constructed forceps, foreign bodies may be grasped and withdrawn. The same is true of secretions. The apparatus is extremely valuable and has saved many lives. Before the tube is passed, the throat is sprayed or swabbed with a local anesthetic.

LINCOLN'S SON IN THE ARMY.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Apropos of the cases of Capt. Elliott and Capt. Jimmy Roosevelt, it may be interesting to recall what Abraham Lincoln said to Gen. Grant regarding his son, Robert Todd Lincoln, just before the end of the civil war. Mr. Lincoln wrote to Grant:

"Please read and answer this letter as tho I was not President, but only a friend. My son, now in his 22d year, having graduated at Harvard, wishes to see something of the war before it ends. I do not wish to put him in the ranks, nor yet to give him a commission, to which those who have already served long are better entitled, and better qualified to hold. Could he, without embarrassment to you or detriment to the service, go into your military family with some nominal rank, I, and not the public, furnishing his necessary means? If no, say so without the least hesitation, because I am as anxious and as deeply interested that you shall not be encumbered as you can be yourself."

WHAT'S A GOOD SAMARITAN?

Ravinia, Ill., Sept. 27.—It would be interesting to know how the misnomer of "good Samaritan" for F. D. R. originated. I first heard it at a movie where one of his talks was not generally approved. A woman next to me asked: "Why do they do that to him—that good Samaritan?"

After a pregnant pause, she said: "You mean he puts his hand in ours?" "Yes," I said, and to myself—AND HOW!!!

HE HAS A CONSCIENCE, TOO.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—I am a native of Chicago and a Democratic voter since 1884. When 40 million men and women voters start believing there is only one man capable of running these United States, and this same man has the nerve to tell us so repeatedly, then my conscience directs me—a lifetime Democrat—to vote for men who will respect our good old American traditions—the entire state Republican and national ticket.

NOT A HARVARD HABIT.

SAYS FENCE IS NOT FINISHED.

St. Charles, Ill., Sept. 27.—I have just read a scathing article in The Tribune. Can your newspaper do nothing but be critical?

The item I refer to describes the so-called "useless fence" around the St. Charles School for Boys. This fence should have been erected years ago. I live in this vicinity and I know how the boys who have escaped from there have terrorized the minds of some of the people in the Fox valley.

Perhaps you do not know the inclosure is not completed. It has been put up correctly. Give the architect a little credit! Something can be done about the two foot gap at the bottom of the fence. A concrete structure could be made to fill in the gap. This could be placed several feet in the ground and meet the bottom of the fence. This will make the barrier escape proof.

A SEVEN YEAR DELAY.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Wilson Junior college students awoke this morning to find on the front page of their school publication an article stating that "for the first time in its seven years of existence Wilson Junior has applied for membership to the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in order to receive full recognition of credits."

It seems difficult to understand why a school, such as Wilson, with its excellent faculty and superior facilities, had not long ago made application for such an accrediting. Chicago citizens are paying taxes to maintain fine educational institutions such as Wilson Junior college. They are entitled to accredited schools. I wonder why a seven year delay was necessary.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST?

Chicago, Sept. 28.—It seems strange that in the papers recounting the loss of life on that British ship [so-called children's refugee ship] there were 85 men saved and only 15 women and 13 children. Isn't there some sort of "rule of the sea" calling for the rescue of women and children first?

And the children all sinking below the waves with "Roll Out the Barrel" sung by them all. I personally don't believe it happened. It sounds like a cooked up tear-jerker for the American consumer.

WEARY OF WAR NEWS.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Gone is the time when one could spend half an hour or more enjoyably reading The Tribune. Now it takes about five minutes. What do we get dished up? Front page, uninteresting war news that doesn't concern us; back page, war pictures that have gone stale long ago. Now to the inside: Again war news and more war news. Next, uninspiring politics. Two fellows after a good job, the pot calling the kettle black. It's Hobson's choice; take your pick, try to select the lesser of two evils. There is your paper of today, war news that is mostly lies; politics, each side abusing the other. The only thing that is left is Moon Mullins, but hardly worth our 2 cents.

SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Being a parent of a child with partial sight and knowing there are other parents who have children similarly troubled, I want to write of my good fortune. After all these years I found an ideal school. It is the Illinois School for the Blind at Jacksonville.

R. W. Woolston, managing officer of this school, is a person to whom I am glad to trust my child, and the teachers and "house mothers" and "house fathers" are nice folks also. The children get good food and lodging and have a chance to breathe clean air.

This school deserves to be better known.

ASSETS OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Does the jewelry, clothing and household effects go to the only daughter, on the death of the mother?

2. The daughter has lived with and worked for the parents for the 25 years of her widowhood.

3. Her pay was small, but her living was considered part of her pay, and she really has earned all she gets.

4. There are brothers who will get their share of the real estate and money, but they are trying to take these things too.

The brothers themselves would not want these personal effects, but their wives insist on their dividing everything tho [5] they all have nicely furnished homes.

A. B.

1. If she is the only heir she will receive the entire estate.

2. Her right to claim as a creditor would depend on the showing as to the understanding at the time her services were rendered.

3. If she receives some pay it would be presumed to be payment in full.

4. We understand from this that she is not the only heir. In general the heirs will share equally subject to possible claims of creditors as above stated.

5. This is immaterial.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answer which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 30.

1. The United States owns the right of way for a second ocean to ocean canal in Costa Rica Colombia Venezuela Nicaragua.
2. If you were troubled with a dusty road in front of your home, you could check the dust by sprinkling which of the following on the road NaCl HNO3 CaCl2 NH4OH.
3. Which of the following can fly backwards as well as forwards Quail Hummingbird Eagle Albatross.
4. A candled egg is one which has been Soft Boiled Dipped in Liquid Glass Dipped in Paraffin Inspected Against a Bright Light.
5. If you were in great pain and the attending doctor said he was going to give you a hypodermic of migraine, would he be a Heart Specialist Pediatrician General Practitioner Quack.
6. Resistance to the passage of electricity thru a wire is measured in ohms. Below are listed five common metals. At the right are figures indicating the number of meters of wire required to offer one ohm of resistance. Try to match the metals with their conductivity. The fewer the number of meters of wire offering one ohm of resistant, the poorer the conductivity. The best conductor, therefore, will be matched with the 60.2 meters of wire, while the poorest conductor should be matched with the 4.8 meters of wire. [All wire assumed to be of same diameter.] You deserve one point for each correct matching.

[b] Silver	[w] 4.8 meters of wire offer one ohm.
[d] Gold	[y] 8.3 meters of wire offer one ohm.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

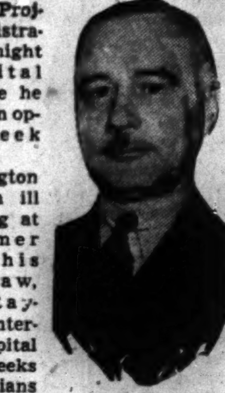
F. C. HARRINGTON, WPA HEAD, DIES IN CONNECTICUT

Army Engineer on Leave to Spending Agency.

New London, Conn., Sept. 30 (AP).—Col. Francis C. Harrington, national commissioner of the Works Projects administration, died tonight at a hospital here where he underwent an operation a week ago.



F. C. Harrington.

Col. Harrington was stricken ill when visiting at the summer home of his brother-in-law, William Rayburn, and entered the hospital about two weeks ago. Physicians said he was suffering from an intestinal obstruction. He apparently was recovering after the operation, but complications developed and his condition became critical last night.

His son, William, a student at Yale, and daughter, Eleanor, were at the bedside. Harry Hopkins, former secretary of commerce, a personal friend, and Howard Hunter, the deputy WPA commissioner, also came here when they learned of the seriousness of his condition.

West Point Graduate.

Col. Harrington was 53 years old. He was born in Bristol, Va., and was graduated from West Point in 1909. He was an instructor of engineers in the world war and afterward was graduated from the French school of war tactics in Paris.

Harrington was lent to the Works Progress administration in 1935. He served for a time as assistant administrator. When Hopkins was named secretary of commerce in December, 1938, President Roosevelt named Harrington administrator. He had attained the rank of colonel seven months previously by regular army succession.

Never Cast Vote.

Harrington's original appointment to head the agency which dispenses work relief to millions came after a long controversy over the WPA under Hopkins.

It was Harrington's boast that he never had voted and that he was free from political affiliations. When he took over WPA he told newsmen that while he might make some changes because no two persons run things alike, he did not contemplate radical revision.

STEPHEN BALZER DIES; A PIONEER MAKER OF AUTOS

Andover, N. J., Sept. 30 (AP).—Stephen Marius Balzer, 78, pioneer automobile manufacturer whose first car is now in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, died yesterday after a long illness.

In 1894 Balzer completed his first automobile. On a trial run in Manhattan a policeman stopped him and insisted that a man with a red flag walk in front of the contraption. The vehicle could not do more than four miles an hour.

Balzer also claimed he built the motor in the flying machine of Prof. S. B. Langley which sank in the Potomac river in 1898 on its first trial. He later manufactured surgical instruments. He was the recipient of medals from the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia and the American Institute in New York.

Day by Day on the Farm

By Homer Neisz

New Job for Ewes.

Sept. 30, 1940.

THE flock of breeding ewes at the Du Page county farm, used often to mow grass and weeds along the farm roads and drives, were given a new task last week. They were turned into a cornfield to clean out the grass and weeds between the hills of corn and to eat off some of the bottom leaves of the corn so as to leave the field in better condition for the corn picker.

The sheep did a good job. They were methodical in their work, starting first on the grass, then eating weeds, and, finally, the lower blades from the cornstalks.

Too Much Cleanup.

The ewes were beginning to overdo their cleanup task a bit when the men decided it was time to take them out of the corn and put them back in the pasture. They were nibbling on the lower ears of corn, eating the ends of some ears and pulling others off the stalks. The corn, stunted by the drouth of last summer, is not as high as usual and many ears were within easy reach of the ewes. Sheep have a hard time reaching the ears on tall cornstalks.

After the ewes had been removed from the corn part of the field somewhat resembled a miniature park where the brush had been cleared away and the lower limbs of the trees trimmed off.

Some of the grass and weeds that the ewes ate had come up after the corn was cultivated the last time, but part of them, especially quack grass, had been there since the corn was planted. The field was broken out of sod last spring and quack grass got a start during rainy weather while the ground was too wet to cultivate the young corn. The corn was drilled and could not be cross-cultivated. Part of the quack grass was left in the rows.

Fattening of Lambs.

Fattening lambs in cornfields is a fairly common practice on corn belt farms. When this is done the lambs are left in the corn until they eat not only the grass, weeds, and corn blades, but the ears also. Cornfields that are to be harvested by lambs usually have soy beans or some other legume planted with the corn or sown later between the rows to provide additional protein fee dfor the lambs. A cornfield alone furnishes poor feed for lambs because of the lack of protein.

Farmers find two difficulties in fattening lambs in cornfields. The lambs are more subject to digestive troubles than where they are fed in dry lots and they seldom clean up all the grain. Hogs usually are put in the fields after the lambs are taken out to eat the corn the lambs have missed.

SCIENCE SETS AILING BARBER FREE TO WORK

Michael Pneumatakos has been unable to work at his barber's trade for 11 months because of an illness which required him to remain at the County hospital for daily treatments. But an operation performed there yesterday will enable him to go back to work within a few days, still uncured but with medicine in his back sufficient for the next year.

He is suffering from Addison's disease, a form of tuberculosis involving the adrenal gland, which upsets the potassium-sodium balance in the blood stream. Daily treatments have been by hypodermic injection. Johns Hopkins hospital physicians in Baltimore recently developed a new treatment—synthetic adrenal cortical hormones.

Dr. Italo Volini made an incision in Pneumatakos' back and inserted 14 pellets of the substance, which will be absorbed gradually. Dr. Hugh B. O'Neil, resident physician present at the operation, said last night that the barber, who is 45 years old, was anticipating an early return to his home at 1117 Huron street. Dr. O'Neil said the disease is not communicable to the barber's patrons.

5 HURT, 24 HELD AS C.I.O. PICKETS BATTLE WORKERS

Blackjacks, Pipe, Knives Used by Strikers.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 30 [Special].—Fighting between C. I. O. pickets and nonstriking workers at the Hubbard & Co. factory here today put five men in hospitals and 24 in jail.

Fists, blackjacks, three foot lengths of pipe, knives, and bricks were used by the combatants, many of whom wore world war helmets to protect their heads.

A force of 20 city policemen assigned to preserve order at the plant gates was forced to send out a riot call for assistance. They were under command of Lieut. Owen McNichols, who was struck over the head with a club and knocked down a flight of concrete steps.

Picket Lines Reënforced.

Earlier in the day Lieut. McNichols and William Hart of the steel workers' organizing committee, had heard that 100 employés would attempt to go back to work.

Hart asked Lieut. McNichols to permit him to increase his picket line to a force of 150. McNichols said the number could be increased only to equal the number of would-be workers expected.

By the time Hart had reënforced his pickets and arrayed them at the gates in a defiant, yelling chain, the workers arrived. They charged, using a once famous football formation known as the "flying wedge."

Outsiders Dominate Pickets.

Company officials said that about 40 succeeded in entering the plant, which manufactures hardware and tools. The officials charged that most of the pickets were outsiders who never had been employed by Hubbard & Co.

The company's troubles began about three weeks ago after local No. 211 of the S. W. O. C. won bargaining rights in a National Labor Relations board election. Contract negotiations began, but collapsed quickly despite the presence of James Dewey, a federal conciliator. The strike then was called, throwing 600 men out of work.

The union contends it sought a wage increase. The company said it had offered concessions, but that the S. W. O. C. was obdurate in an effort to "crack down on Hubbard."

C. Y. O. AID NAMED HEAD OF COUNTY JUVENILE HOME

Arthur J. Audy, assistant director of the social service department of the Catholic Youth organization, has been appointed superintendent of the Juvenile detention home, it was announced yesterday by Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board. The appointment is effective Oct. 7.

Audy, who is 28 years old, was graduated from Loyola university in 1934 with a bachelor of science degree. He has been a senior case worker with the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, director of the intake department of the Juvenile home, and lecturer in the Loyola university school of social work.

His appointment was made on the recommendation of a special advisory committee consisting of heads of various social agencies. He will succeed Dr. Albert G. Barry, who resigned recently.

999 Youths Leave Illinois CCC Camps; 358 Get Jobs

Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, reported yesterday that 999 Civilian Conservation corps youths left the CCC during August, the enrollment dropping to 11,680. Of those discharged, 358 left to accept employment, 10 per cent entering the army, navy, marines, or coast guard. Lyons said that 4,705 CCC positions will be filled during October, but added the enrollment does not give the enrollee deferred status under the military conscription program.

HUNT VANDALS WHO BOMBED WPA BRIDGE PROJECT

Murphysboro, Ill., Sept. 30 (AP).—Jackson county authorities today sought the identification of vandals who used a bomb last night to damage the power unit of machinery employed in the construction of a bridge over the Big Muddy river just south of this city.

No comment was available from county law enforcement agencies but County Highway Engineer Albert Stallions revealed that union labor representatives from a nearby county appeared before the county road and bridge committee a month ago to object to the use of WPA labor on the bridge construction work.

DICK TRACY—THANKS FOR THE IDEA

A. F. OF L. WINNER OF CONSUMERS POWER ELECTION

Closes a Long Dispute Over NLRB Action.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 30 [Special].—Strife that for years has beset the Consumers Power company, its employés, and its customers, presumably was ended today when the National Labor Relations board announced that the employés had rejected the C. I. O. Utility Workers Organizing committee in a plant election.

The board announced that the A. F. of L. International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers had been chosen as a sole bargaining agent by a vote of 1,399 to 1,363. The election was a "runoff" after neither union gained a majority in previous votes. Ballote contained only the unions' names, with indication of a "no union" preference eliminated.

Carried to Highest Court.

The election settled a dispute over bargaining representation that started in 1938 and once was carried to the United States Supreme court.

In January, 1939, the NLRB held a plant election in which the vote was: C. I. O., 1,160; A. F. of L., 1,072, and for no union, 506, which gave no majority. The board then ordered a run-off election with the ballot containing only a choice between the C. I. O. and no union. The A. F. of L. union appealed to the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals, which held the election illegal. This ruling was in turn reversed by the Supreme court, which held the NLRB's action was not reviewable.

Despite this, the NLRB decided to start all over, and another election was held last August. Again no majority was reached, and the board arranged for a run-off between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O.

Serves 350,000 Consumers.

The company serves about 350,000 consumers in more than 900 lower Michigan communities. Its troubles began on May 19, 1937, when a sudden strike by a C. I. O. union shut off electric power to 13 Michigan counties for nine hours.

Three weeks later a band of 400 C. I. O. strikers pulled main line switches in key cities of the 13 counties and kept them pulled for more than 15 hours, darkening homes, factories, and even hospitals. This incident was settled thru direct negotiation by the company with John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O.

A. F. of L. and independent workers threatened to strike if the company recognized the C. I. O. Sporadic shutdowns, sabotage, and violence continued, flaring wide open in September, 1939, when Gov. Luren D. Dickinson appealed to police officials thruout the area served by the company to do their utmost to halt sabotage. The state labor mediation board stepped in, and peace of a sort followed, culminating in the first plant election.

PROTEST CHANGE IN PLAN TO WIDEN NORTH STATE ST.

A delegation representing downtown and north side civic associations will protest to Mayor Kelly against the city's plan to postpone indefinitely the widening of North State street to 115 feet.

This was announced yesterday by Fred R. Older, representative of the North Central association and head of a joint committee which met at the Palmer House yesterday to discuss the State street widening. Representatives of the Downtown council, State Street council, Chicago Association of Commerce, and the Chicago Plan commission also attended.

Older said the city has abandoned the original 1930 widening program and now plans merely to cut back the sidewalks of the 66 foot roadway, increasing the actual street pavement from 38 to 51 feet from the river to Chicago avenue. This will create a bottleneck when the new State street bridge, 115 feet wide, is completed, Older asserted.

Robert Gerth, 26 years old, 3068 Fifth avenue, was sentenced yesterday to 10 days in the county jail by Judge Joseph Hermes in Safety court on a charge of reckless driving. EXPECTANT MOTHERS with syphilis have very little chance of giving birth to living, healthy children unless properly treated!

According to the United States Public Health Service, the expectant mother with syphilis who is not properly treated during pregnancy has only a 17% chance of having a living, healthy child. In 83% of cases her baby will be born dead, or will come into the world in a sickly, deformed or feeble-minded condition!

But, on the other hand, the expectant mother with syphilis who is properly treated can be almost certain of having a baby entirely free from the disease. Such treatment must be started early in pregnancy, and must be continued right up to childbirth. At the same time, care must be taken to guard against gonorrhea, as its germs can get into an infant's eyes at birth and be the cause of total blindness!

So, if you are expecting a baby and have reason to believe that you have either syphilis or gonorrhea, don't wait until it's too late but arrange to get proper venereal disease attention at once! Such attention can be had very inexpensively from the Public Health Institute, whose physicians have given more than 5,300,000 examinations and treatments for syphilis and gonorrhea in the past 20 years!

Because the Public Health Institute was founded by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, its charges are remarkably low for the expert treatment given. A thorough examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and gonorrheal smears, costs very little, while individual treatments are easily within the reach of every wage earner.

Furthermore, even those temporarily short of money can arrange to be treated without undergoing an embarrassing credit investigation or signing any papers whatsoever!

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

Brilliancy can achieve success

ONLY CHARACTER CAN RETAIN IT!

WITHIN a few years of its founding in 1847 the Chicago Tribune was singled out for national prominence because of its vigorous action in the great crisis of the Civil War.

When the questions which were later to tear the republic apart arose, the Tribune defined the issues. Its fight against slavery was early and constant. But simultaneously with the tearing away of the props of slavery went constructive work—organizing the forces which were to constitute the Republican party, and building up the body of opinion which was to effect the nomination of Abraham Lincoln for the Presidency.

When war came, calling hundreds of thousands of men into service, the folks at home experienced a new, deep craving for news—complete, authentic, timely reports such as only metropolitan newspapers could supply. By satisfying this need, the Tribune won a new place in the hearts of the people of the middle west which has never been shaken.

During the course of the war the Tribune unswervingly advocated aggressive prosecution of it and never wavered in its often questioned conviction that the Union would triumph. When peace came, the Tribune pioneered in healing the wounds of war and in the work of reconstruction.

The principles which brought to the Tribune early national leadership have never been surrendered. During the eighty years since the Tribune first placed the name of Lincoln before the people for nomination, it has been uncompromising in its efforts to promote political, moral, and social progress. For eighty years it has been in the forefront of American journalism, exerting a dominant influence on the life of Chicago and the nation.

Thru three wars, seven major depressions, and twenty Presidential elections the Tribune has continued steadfast in its stand in the public interest. And as evidence of public response to its service as a newspaper, Tribune circulation has grown year by year until it is now at an all time high—over 1,000,000 net paid every day of the week.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The box committee of the Chicago Opera company started its fall season yesterday with a party that must have inspired such enthusiasm in the women present that they undoubtedly will work even harder than they did last spring to sell the boxes for the coming season. Every box filled for every performance, is their slogan, for there is no denying that formally clad men and women in the boxes do add glamor and an atmosphere of elegance and brilliance that help to make opera the magnificent spectacle that it should be.

Three brilliant stars of the company, Marion Claire, soprano; Georges Czaplicki, baritone, and Virgilio Lazzari, basso, gave a program of operatic arias and more simple songs, such as the Volga Boatmen's song, which Mr. Lazzari sang as an encore. Miss Claire, who sang one of Mimi's loveliest arias in Puccini's "La Bohême," was accompanied on the piano by her husband, Henry Weber, who is general director of the company.

The business portion of the meeting, held at the Casino, was short but encouraging, for the women already have obtained pledges of $72,739 for the guaranty fund and they have sold $17,850 worth of boxes. It is expected that this latter sum will be increased greatly by the time of the next meeting, Wednesday, Oct. 9.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, cohostess with Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. Howard Fenton, will open her home for the meeting next week. It, too, will be partyish in character, for the Cordon Players are going to present their clever takeoff on operatic prima donnas. The meeting is scheduled for 3:30 o'clock.

Tea was served yesterday after the musical program. There were a number of men in the audience, including Mr. Kirk, president of the company, Giovanni Cardelli, William Wymetal, the chief regisseur, and Robert H. McCormick.

Some of the women present were Mrs. Frederick Pabst of Milwaukee, Mrs. John Hurley, Mrs. Hill Blackett, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Leeds Mitchell, Mrs. William A. Ragland [Edith Mason], Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mrs. Bowman C. Lingle, Mrs. Warren Shoemaker, Mrs. Allen Clement.

Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mrs. Everett Cook, Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Lucius A. Crowell, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Errett Van Nice, Mrs. Charles S. Davis, Mrs. John G. McDonald, Mrs. James G. McMillan, Mrs. Orville Taylor, Mrs. Nathaniel Leverone, Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. George S. Rasmussen, and Mrs. Millard Kennedy.

Pretty Miss Nathalie Bell, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell, will be missing from the British War Relief fund shop this week for she departed Sunday to return to her studies at Bryn Mawr college. Last week, however, she was a faithful volunteer salesgirl and spent many hours in the shop that the decorators and architects are running.

This Is Moving Time for Folk on North Shore

BY JUDITH CASS.

AT this time of the year every woman who leads a busy social life must wish for a new address book in which to write the street and telephone numbers of friends who are moving. Around Oct. 1 those who conscientiously keep their books up to date must spend a morning or two drawing lines thru old addresses and substituting new ones.

After today Mrs. R. Joseph Rich and her debutante daughter, Miss Peggy Rich, will be found at the Ambassador East instead of the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest, and the Earl D. Kribbens may be reached at 1120 Lake Shore drive. Mr. Kribben and the former Eleanor Cushman Kimball have been living in Winnetka since their marriage last summer.

Starting today the Philip B. Mahers will be answering telephone calls at the Ambassador while the Junior Orville E. Babcocks will be receiving mail at the Mahers' Lake Bluff home. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Leidy Johnston are returning to their city apartment from Lake Forest today, and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr. will take over Mrs. Alden B. Swift's Lake Forest house. Mrs. Clow and her children have been at the Deerpath inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morris are Delayed in Moving.

It will be nearer the end of the month, however, before the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morris cross off 2430 Lake View avenue in their address books and write instead 209 Lake Shore drive. Mr. and Mrs. Morris and their three sons had hoped to be in their new apartment this week, but the decorators only now are going in and it will be two or three weeks before the apartment is ready for its new occupants. Edward Morris Jr. won't be here for the moving as he has left for Rollins college. William Morris is working in a bank in St. Louis.

Complicated are the moves of the Louis S. Hardin and John Taylor Wilson families. The Hardins have purchased the Wilson house in Sheridan road, Lake Forest, and are in it. The Wilsons, who have been living next door to the Hardins in Rosemary road in the same village for the last year, have purchased the Hardin house and will move in this week. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boal Wickes, who were married this summer, have taken the house the Wilsons are vacating.

Mrs. John I. Marshall is moving to the Ambassador from her Lake Forest home early this week for a short stay before going to her winter home in Oakland, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Jr. [Helen Mary Bryan] are to have his mother's house in Onwentsia road.

Miss Margaret Thompson Purchases New Home.

Miss Margaret Thompson, who in the spring sold the old Slason Thompson house in Lake Forest, to the junior John P. Wilsons, has bought a smaller place for herself on Woodland road. The Wilsons, who now live in Maplewood road, will remodel their new house on the lake, so will not be able to move into it until next spring.

Arthur Meeker Jr. expects to be able to have Thanksgiving dinner in his new home in Wayne. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meeker Sr., are expected from California on Saturday.

The Donald H. McGibenys are in the throes of moving from Illinois road in Lake Forest back to their house in Green Bay road. They expect to be at the latter address tomorrow.

Mrs. Watson McLellan and her little boys have come into town and will be with her mother, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, and Mr. Wolf, this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. David B. Gann have returned from California where they Costliest Set of Books.

There is nothing so distinctly individual as one's autograph, wrote the late Cardinal Mundelein in a monograph that serves as introduction to The Lives and Times of the Popes, by the Chevalier Artaud de Montor, said to be the most costly set of books ever produced. They are now on exhibit in a loop department store, resplendent in scarlet morocco, gold tooled, jewel inset bindings, with an original hand tinted miniature of each of the popes in each of the front doublures. The 15 volumes contain more than 300 autographed letters, documents, and papal bulls. Included are letters from Garibaldi, Pope Pius IX., and letters from famous cardinals, beginning with Cardinal Richelieu and Cardinal Mazarin.

TEA PARTIES.

Tea parties, metropolitan or provincial,
Are a mixture of Emily Post and Walter Winchell.
The stage is set
By etiquet.
Gossip, in brief,
Is leitmotif.
More dearly than tea cakes the ladies relish
A rumor they can collectively embellish.

Choice.

A visitor in a Beverly Hills home who went into the telephone closet to make a call noticed that the current telephone bill was pinned above the instrument, obviously for the attention of the teen age daughters of the house. An excessive number of extra calls was encircled in red pencil and written on the margin was: "Dears, we must get together on this and decide whether we eat or talk next month. Mom."

Folksy Note.

Any pleasant sunny afternoon mothers who have had their babies out for an airing congregate inside Danny O'Connell's eating place on Diversey, their babies in their carriages parked outside the window. The mothers have an afternoon snack of caramel rolls and coffee and chat with one another, keeping a watchful eye on the prams that stretch in a row outside the big plate glass window. How about a baby carriage parking boy?

Minor Repercussion.

A package of postcards from Switzerland—the traditional pressed flower cards that sell for five cents each—arrived in Chicago last week after having been on its way since last February. The assortment, ordered by a Chicago department store, left on one boat that returned to port, then started out a second time.

'Ladies in Retirement' Gripping Crime Drama Superbly Acted

"LADIES IN RETIREMENT."

Drama in three acts and seven scenes by Edward Percy and Reginald Denham. Staged by Mr. Denham. Setting by Raymond Sovey. Costumes by Helene Pons. Presented by the Theater Guild in coöperation with Gilbert Miller, in the Harris theater, Monday evening, Sept. 30, 1940.

THE CAST.

Ellen Creed.................Flora Robson
Leonora Fiske...............Isobel Elsom
Louisa Creed..............Estelle Winwood
Emily Creed.............Jessamine Newcombe
Albert Feather............Patrick O'Moore
Lucy Gilham...............Rosanna Seaborn
Sister Theresa............Florence Edney

BY CECIL SMITH.

The misdeed of Ellen Creed, who strangled Leonora Fiske as she sat at the piano playing an excerpt from "The Mikado" and then hid her body in a Dutch oven, does not, when badly described, sound particularly ingratiating. But let Flora Robson commit the crime on the Harris theater stage, with Isobel Elsom as the unhappy, superannuated chorus girl who is her victim, and you have completely electric theater.

"Ladies in Retirement" is fully as engrossing a psychological crime drama as either "Night Must Fall" or "Kind Lady." The script is written with a wonderful balance between suspense and humor. And the performances of Miss Robson, Miss Elsom, Estelle Winwood, Jessamine Newcombe and Patrick O'Moore, singly and together, reach a level that has recently been touched only by the cast of "The Little Foxes."

Ellen Creed, we learn early in the first act, is grimly motivated by a peculiar and twisted sense of responsibility. Her two sisters—played by Miss Winwood and Miss Newcombe—are completely daft and childish, and Ellen, in her spinsterhood, is ruled by the desire to provide a happy home for them.

When she has won the confidence of Leonora Fiske, with whom she lives in a lonely spot as companion and housekeeper, an opportunity, first only dimly imagined, transforms itself into urgent reality. Dispatching her wool-gathering sisters for a carriage ride, Ellen Creed does away with her benefactor in the grisly manner described.

I am not sure that a crime melodrama can rightly be described as a work of art, but at the very least "Ladies in Retirement" is as neat a piece of craft as you could wish to find. The characterization is a million miles removed beyond and above the stock types of the old fashioned "whodunit" thriller. And since no facts are withheld from the audience, the whole absorbing fascination of the play lies in the interplay of these deftly delineated characters as they weave a tricky web of circumstance and misfortune around themselves.

Fluttery, pretty in a faded and bewigged way, and utterly soft hearted, Isobel Elsom's portrait of Leonora Fiske, thruout the single act in which she appears, provides a superb anticipatory mood for the drab, concentrated, neurotic quality of Miss Robson's performance. In a bitter quarrel with Miss Robson, Miss Elsom raises the tension in the very second scene to such a height that all Miss Robson has to do is to carry on from there. And carry on she does, with as masterly unified and as economically projected characterization as could be imagined.

Miss Elsom and Miss Robson are exceptional, but Miss Winwood is their match as a poor, vaporous, addled thing, unable to think in a straight line for two consecutive seconds, and pathetically attached to a telescope left behind by a sailor who was drowned before he got around to marrying her.

Miss Newcombe, who has the fixation that she must rid the river bank of all driftwood, shells, and débris, presents the more bovine sister with great skill. Patrick O'Moore is deft and engaging as the nephew who almost, but not quite, knows too much. Florence Edney makes a serene nun. Rosanna Seaborn undertook the important rôle of the maid for the first time last night, and has not yet fully realized the possibilities of a good part.

"Ladies in Retirement" starts the Theater Guild season off well, with spectacularly brilliant acting and exciting theatricality.

If you want to be air minded to your fingertips, you'll be interested in two new shades of nail polish brought out by one of the authorities on fingertip fashions. She calls them her "flying colors" because each one is a sort of reminder of the sensations produced by a flight into the sky.

One of the colors is a soft pink—a warm pink that is much like the color of the clouds thru which you skim when flying at sunset. It's a delicate shade, but certainly not a wishy-washy one, and the kind that you like to keep on hand when you are in the mood for a conservative color. We're told that it is the first polish color that has been approved by a group of air stewardesses for wear during their working hours.

The other shade is a rich red that almost defies you not to like it. It flaunts its brilliance in a striking manner that is a perfect color accent with the browns, greens, and golds that are being featured for the fall and winter clothes. Even when your feet are on the ground, this shade will raise your spirits, and it's the kind that is extremely flattering to the hands.

The good wearing qualities of these polishes combined with the excellent array of available shades have long made them popular. Now even this has been improved upon. We're told a new formula has been created; its mission is to help the nails grow strong even while wearing a lustrous dressing.

The Borrowed Cottage

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1940: By Alice Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Rowan Wilde, an American girl, goes to the isolated cottage of Hazel Fordyce in England to do some studying. Arriving at night, she enters the house and is frightened by footsteps. Investigating, she opens a closet door and a dead man falls out. As she rushes from the room she runs into 32 year old Stephen Smedley, a member of a publishing firm, who because of ill health, has come to the country for a rest. He lives near by in an old chapel. Rowan tells Stephen her story and he goes off to get his car. When he fails to return Rowan starts out to search for him and stumbles upon him prostrate. Helping him into the house, he collapses upon the sofa. Rowan leaves him and goes to her bedroom for a nap, but is awakened by Stephen entering her room holding a butcher knife. A sharp command from her makes him drop the knife and retreat. The next morning he seems to remember nothing of the knife episode, and the dead man has disappared. Mrs. Faithful, the housekeeper, fails to show up, but has sent Mrs. Yalilee, mother of Egbert, the caretaker, to get Rowan's breakfast. Rowan has found a brief case with a manuscript about Russia in it and is hiding it with her bloody skirt just as the Rev. Bogge and Lord Romrytch arrive at her cottage searching for the vicar's brother Bertram, whom they say has been allowed to study in the cottage. From their conversation Rowan gathers that Bertram had assaulted the vicar's servant girl, who was engaged to Egbert. Romrytch and his wife invite Rowan to lunch.

CHANCE ACQUAINTANCE.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

Rowan stared back into Smedley's frowning eyes, less green now, she noticed.

"Of course the body's gone, Vanished. Naturally I thought—" she said impatiently.

"Think again. Or wait! Why did you think I'd spirited a dead body away?"

"Who else could have done it? You and I were alone in this house. I know you were awake. I heard you moving about in the Tudor room. I sneaked down and, as I thought, locked you in—only I wasn't quick enough. You'd got out again, and were back in the drawing room pretending to be asleep."

"So you locked the door, too. Good God!"

"Certainly. Hold on, there's more to come. Your clergyman friend has arrived—"

"Bogge?" Eyes hard on her he nodded. "Yes. Is he alone?"

"No, he brought Lord Romrytch, but he has gone, having rather amazingly invited me to lunch. The vicar's shut in the room, hauling over the books. There's no blood, I looked. The rug's washed and turned round."

Here, at the extreme limit of the garden, they could be sighted but not overheard. A sharp breeze whipped Rowan's hair about her cheeks. Stephen Smedley had not moved, but light beads had broken out on his forehead.

"You must have seen I was really asleep. Why precisely did you lock me in?"

"I . . ." She still could not say it. "See here," she said awkwardly, "You say you didn't make away with that corpse. Well, maybe it was Egbert, my caretaker—how do I know?—or the vicar himself. Egbert has a key. So has the person who did the murder, because he must have stolen it out of the dead man's pocket in order to lock up when he left the room. See how easy I'm making it for you? Now look me in the eye. I don't expect you to confess to a murder, but wasn't it you who removed the body?"

"God!" groaned Smedley. "Don't you see I don't know?"

The torment of his explosion had a ring of sincerity which startled. The hard core within her seemed to melt. Her lips parted, but he motioned her brusquely to silence!"

"Sit down!"

She sat on the bleached oak bench that backed into the hillside. He remained standing on a sort of millstone planted flat in the center of the jagged pavement, but after a moment or two he moved, disclosing an iron ring sunk in the middle of the stone disk, hunched on the seat beside her and stared down between his knees. He seemed struggling for speech.

"You've been along to the postoffice," he accused. "Did you ring anyone up?"

"About this? Certainly not."

"Or send any cables?"

"There is only my father." Her voice had a catch in it. "I can't bother him unless it's absolutely necessary."

She thought he showed relief.

"Now!" As if against the grain he got down to business. "Let's take our meeting in the drive. Where was I when you got your first glimpse of me?"

"By the Tudor porch," she answered steadily. "I couldn't tell if you were on your way from the gates behind or—or just dodging out of the door."

He nodded slowly. "Yes. Well, your second guess comes near the mark. I was leaving the porch. Not the room—then. I'd been for a longish tramp and was on my way back. Earlier, tho, I had been inside, with this man Bogge."

"So, you admit that," she whispered.

"Certainly I admit it," he snapped. "Now you know why I was jolted to rags to know he'd been murdered. I'd have done a good deal to keep clean out of the whole affair, and why shouldn't I? No one saw me with Bogge. If my fingerprints were plastered all over that room I could swear without fear of contradiction they'd been made some other day."

"Or when I dragged you in. Surely that would have done?"

"I didn't think of it then." Bitter fury contracted his face. "God how can I make you understand? I've been weak as a kitten, girl, shot to pieces with nerves—trying to be alone, badgered rather worse than if I'd been at my desk in Pall Mall!"

Breaking off he made a stupendous effort at control. In a cooler tone he said, "So you honestly believe I—I—got rid of that body?"

"What else was I to think?" she retorted.

He shrugged. "My good girl, it's a pity to disillusion you. I'm not such an altruist as you imagine."

It took half a minute's puzzling to get this.

"O," she cried. "You were serious, then, when you took me for a murderess?"

"Of course I was serious. I thought so at the time, and again early this morning."

She believed him. "I'm glad you appear to have changed your view. Why, may I ask?"

Another shrug. "Ask me something simple. General impressions, we'll assume."

His reply didn't entirely satisfy, but her own emotions were holding the stage. He had thought her a cold-blooded killer. Now, for some reason, he considered that impossible. It meant he was taking her on trust; but didn't it mean much more than that? Of course! He couldn't have believed her guilty unless his own conscience was clean.

Then and there her suspicions of him subsided—or at any rate the worst ones. In defiance of last night she wanted to match his generosity in kind.

"Please," she begged humbly, "can't you tell me a little about your illness? It may help."

"It's nothing to make a song about," he said morosely. "In March I was sent out to Tunis to draw up an important author's agreement. I'm in the publishing business, you know. It was a heaven-sent break, only I was fool enough to get sunstroke, and on top of it 'flu. Started working too soon, got blinding headaches and horrible depression, and—well, I'm allowed to lay off for a few weeks. I've a small interest in the firm, as it happens. Oh, I'm strong as a horse," he protested savagely. "It's just that devilment seemed to combine. Where was I?"

"Coming away from the porch," Rowan reminded. Sunstroke! Could that be the reason—?"

"O, yes!" His mouth twisted. "Well, I'd previously acquired this damned chapel, meaning to make it habitable, only I'd never got beyond tinkering up the roof. I settled in, my one idea being to meet no one, just soak myself in sunshine till I'd baked all the nerve-bugs out of me; but—it rained. I began to want company, not friends, you understand, but casual pickups who'd make no demands—"

"O, I do know! So that's how you met this man Bogge?"

"In the pub where I've been having my meals. I preferred the farm laborers, but Bogge, just then a not particularly welcome guest at the vicarage, was always in the pot-room, holding a sort of court. I saw his eye rolling round on me. He got my name and from that minute froze on to me."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

That good old western pioneering spirit burns hotly in Hollywood these days. . . . Witness the recent output. Now comes "Three Faces West" to sing of valor in a "dust bowl" community, and color its story of doughty doings with the rose hue of romance.

This last flowers between the trained nurse daughter of a famous Viennese refugee doctor and a young western leader of the distraught people of the district. . . .

As the film opens foreign refugee doctors speak over the radio at a medical convention—taking advantage of the privilege accorded them by their American confreres to tell listeners of their qualifications and ask a chance to serve for the lowest possible remuneration—wherever there is need of them. . . .

Dr. Brown, eminent pediatrician and bone man, requests a haven for himself and his daughter. . . . Both are overjoyed when there comes a wire from John Phillips summoning the two to establish themselves in his locality. . . . How are they to know that doctor after doctor has been called—and found the place unbearable? . . .

Their experiences are pictured tersely and arrestingly. . . The picture has real wallop. . . .

How Sigrid Gurie has come along! She does a grand bit as Leni. . . . Charles Coburn is fine as always and John Wayne is a man who could make any woman stop, look, and listen.

"SPORTING BLOOD."

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by S. Sylvan Simon.
Presented at the State-Lake and Pantheon.

THE CAST.

Myles Vanders	Robert Young
Linda Lockwood	Maureen O'Sullivan
Davis Lockwood	Lewis Stone
Duffy	William Gargan
Joan Lockwood	Lynne Carver
Jeff	Clarence Muse
Otis Winfield	Lloyd Corrigan
Stonewall	George H. Reed
Grantly	Tom Kennedy
"Sneak" O'Brien	Russell Hicks

Racing and romance claim an equal share of the beholder's attention in this story of the turf.

"Sporting Blood," while not a great picture, is still a good one of its kind. Its hero is the son of a man who'd run away with another man's wife and the heroine is one of the erring lady's daughters. . . . Both renegade parents had been lost at sea. . . .

As the story opens, the wronged husband, David Lockwood, an elderly southern horse fancier, lives on his Virginia plantation. . . . And Myles Vanders, also a racing man — but down on his luck—returns to his old, now ramshackle homestead, accompanied by his devoted trainer and friend, Duffy. . . . He finds, as he had expected would be the case, that because of his father's derelictions, every man's hand is against him. . . . He blames Davis Lockood for keeping the hard feeling smouldering, and plans to make the enemy eat dust. . . . However . . .

BOTH daughters fall in love with him. . . . ONE becomes his wife. . . . Sparks fly, literally and figuratively. . . . For there is one terrible fire on the Vanders property. In the end, I might as well say it—the right horse wins and all is forgiven in—well—certain quarters.

Mr. Young, able horseman himself and the owner of stables, is ably equipped for this rôle. He knows horses — and acts as if he knew women. Anyhow, as a romantic lead he's hard to beat. . . . Maureen O'Sullivan invests her portrayal with sincerity and charm. Lewis Stone is splendid as Lockwood, Mr. Gargan plays Duffy in grand fashion, and there are some excellent "bit" portrayals. Lynne Carver—no.

The film has quite a lot of suspense, relieved by some leavening laughs. You'll like it.

See you tomorrow.

Apples are getting bigger, redder, and juicier day by day. The best way to eat them is from the hand, but apple salads are attractive and tasty, too. Apple salad isn't synonymous with "Waldorf" salad, altho the latter is the best known of apple salads. Here are a few others, preceded by a couple of hints about the use of apples in salads.

Hint No. 1. Leave the peeling on the apple if it's pretty, unless it is also tough. It adds color and attractiveness to the salad.

Hin No. 2. Choose salad apples from among these eating varieties: Jonathan, Delicious, McIntosh, Grimes Golden, Golden Delicious.

SOME APPLE SALADS.

1. PEACH AND APPLE SALAD. Core a pretty red apple and slice crosswise. For each salad, place an apple slice on a bed of greens, and spread it with mayonnaise. Fill canned peach half with chopped celery and nuts mixed with mayonnaise, and invert on apple slice. Sprinkle with chopped nuts and garnish with crossed narrow strips of green pepper.

2. APPLE AND CHEESE BALL SALAD. Slice apples and arrange them on watercress with small cream cheese balls which have been rolled in nuts. Serve a rather sweet French dressing over the combination. Lemon and honey French dressing, or one flavored with sherry wine, is good.

3. APPLE AND AVOCADO SALAD. Arrange alternate slices of red skinned apple and avocado on lettuce or other greens, and serve with French dressing. Orange or grapefruit sections or slices of pear may be inserted into such a salad, too.

4. APPLE, APRICOT AND DATE SALAD. For four salads, allow one apple, cored and sliced, eight canned apricot halves and about eight dates, sliced. Arrange sliced fruit on shredded lettuce, sprinkle with dates, and top with a fruit juice flavored mayonnaise or whipped cream mayonnaise.

5. SPECIAL WALDORF SALAD. Mix diced apple with celery, sliced stuffed olives, and a little chopped green pepper, using mayonnaise enough to moisten well. Serve in lettuce cups and sprinkle each salad with chopped nuts.

6. Cut balls from ripe apples with French ball cutter and combine with seeded grapes [the large, sweet, purple grapes are most attractive]. Serve with French dressing and garnish with cheese balls and pimento, or add celery and nuts and mix with mayonnaise.

Numerology
By Evelyn Holmes

Oct. 1, 1940.

Universal Day—Not a day to see how popular you can be. Personal relationships may be irritating. Retire.

October—After the strenuous hours of last month the world will have to gather itself together now and see about making repairs, adapting itself to circumstances, and trying to make the adjustments necessary to carry on "business as usual." The emphasis this month will be on food, clothing, and the care of the young. Some misunderstanding may arise among those who "serve" and this may very well be difficulties with the draft boards and those asked to serve their country. Each country will be looking to home to see what will be needed in the way of supplies and comforts for those dependent on them.

Year Ahead—Those with this birthdate have an important year ahead. Emphasis will be on finances and broad, practical issues.

Would you like to know what kind of a year 1941 will be for you? Send for your personal yearly, monthly, and daily guide.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 30.—Sad are the cases of transplanted stage actors who never get into a living theater any more. Take Montagu Love, who is working in Mr. Zanuck's "Mark of Zorro." He had to do a scene in which he steps before an applauding crowd of extras, holds up his hand for silence, and makes a speech. Well, they had to make that scene six times—because Love prolonged five of the shots by taking too many bows. It had been so long since he heard real applause that he couldn't bear to cut it short.

Sylvia Sidney, back at Warners' for "Carnival," has left her husband, Luther Adler, to mind the oats and soy beans on their New Jersey farm, but has brought their 11 month old son, Jacob P., with her. Asked how she liked her "Carnival" part, Miss S. said she didn't know, because she hadn't read it. . . . Eddie Albert, noted for absent-mindedness, has been taking a memory course. The other noon he walked out of the studio commissary without paying his lunch check—and left the memory textbook on the table. . . . Bonnie Baker, who's to be in "You're the One," is so tiny that Paramount has had to build special chairs for her, and platforms for her to stand on—and has ordered her to wear four-inch heels. . . . Harry Carey, he-man from way back, is taking piano lessons. Entertained "Shepherd of the Hills" company, on location at Big Bear, with a fancy Brahms number the other night.

Unless they're in a costume piece, male actors must pay for their own wardrobes. Paramount ordered Fred Allen to buy a $180 set of tails for "Love Thy Neighbor"—and then cut out the scene in which they were to be worn. When Allen yelped, Director Mark Sandrich said he could get his money's worth by wearing the suit for some advertising stills with Jack Benny. The stills were printed the other day—and had to be thrown out because Benny had spoiled every shot by mugging. . . . Eric Stacey, 15 years ago, an office boy for Jesse Lasky, is working for his old boss again—as unit manager on "Sergeant York" . . . Tyrone Power will get into 8,200 of the 9,000 feet of film in "The Mark of Zorro." Which is good even for Power.

"I wish," writes Jack ["Shine On, Harvest Moon"] Norworth, "that you'd start a campaign against the credit portion or whatever you call it on feature pictures. There are, say, 20,000 movie theaters in the United States. They average four shows a day. I timed a credit last week and it ran two minutes. Multiply 20,000 by four shows by two minutes—why, that's 111 days out of our lives just to read that somebody designed the gowns and somebody else made the sound and one of the Westmores made up the actors' pusses. Who cares? The only trouble is, if managers cut out the credits and the trailers they might save enough time to run three features, which heaven forbid." . . . Norworth, incidentally, is back in show business—previewing a 1941 automobile on a transcontinental tour with two carloads of scenery.

Howard Benedict, Paramount producer, is going to run his own racing stable. . . . Executives who have talked nothing but Roosevelt and Willkie over the luncheon tables all summer now babble about football, which is some relief. . . . Smiley Burnette, honorary mayor of Studio City, takes the job seriously and holds open house for citizens with complaints. The other day a householder squawked that his next door neighbors were too noisy. He lives next to Mayor Burnette.

Ennis-Newby Marriage in California Announced.

The first inkling Chicago society received of romantic news concerning Lambert Ennis was contained in engraved announcements that arrived yesterday from Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Newby announcing the marriage of their daughter, Ellen Catherine, and Mr. Ennis on Sept. 17 in Los Angeles. Mr. Ennis and his bride are at home at 999 Michigan avenue, Evanston.

The wedding took place at the Los Angeles home of the bride's parents. Mr. Ennis is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William S. Ennis. He is a member of the faculty of Northwestern university in the department of English.

Miss Eleanor Brooks Fabyan of Boston, who is attending law school in Buffalo, flew out to Chicago to spend the week-end with her grandfather, William McCormick, and the Chauncey McCormicks, in Wheaton.

Members of the Arts club will gather at their smart little rendezvous in the South Wrigley building this afternoon for the club's formal opening for the season. The party will be a tea at 4 o'clock. Mrs. William B. Hale, acting president, asked Mrs. Francis R. Stanton to decorate the tea tables for today's party, but no members have been asked to serve as there always is such a crowd at the openings that it is necessary to have waiters assume the responsibility. The exhibition season will start in November. Restaurant service will be resumed tomorrow. However, the dining room will be open for luncheon today.

Junior League Thespians Have Study Classes at Zoo.

The Chicago Junior leaguers who are rehearsing every morning for the Children's theater play, "Sambo and the Tigers," are attending study classes in the Lincoln park zoo, too. The monkeys and the tigers of the zoo are their subjects, for aside from Sambo and his parents the other characters in the play are those animals.

To Mrs. Richard Spencer has fallen the fat part of Sambo. Miss Jean Kellogg plays Sambo's mother, Black Mumbo, and Miss Nancy Wolcott has the rôle of the father, Black Jumbo. Miss Wolcott, a Vassar graduate, is a provisional member of the league and was drafted for the play because of her work with a theater group that toured the Hudson valley this summer.

Mrs. James Bateman Jr., another provisional, will appear as Tangalingalinga, a monkey. Mrs. William Peacock will portray Melinki, the little girl monkey, and Miss Jane Cummings will be Mappo, the little boy monkey. Yet another monkey, with even a more fantastic name, is Mrs. John L. Irving, as Senkepenyana.

Play Will Open Oct. 19 in Winnetka Community House.

Mrs. William Joyce and Miss Gertrude Smith will portray the man and the lady tiger, respectively, as Da-oura and Rongalaya. Rongalaya has eight beautiful baby tigers, but they will be plush and not human ones. Another tiger part will be taken by Mrs. Theodore Scudder as Boulana. Miss Evelyn Gordon plays yet another tiger, Koumba.

The rehearsals are held in the Junior League theater workshop at 840 North Michigan avenue under the direction of Mrs. Charlotte Chorpenning, author of the play. All of the costumes and scenery are being made by league members at the shop.

The play will open on Oct. 19 at the Winnettka Community house. Last year the players were obliged to put on two performances to take care of the enormous audiences, so this year they are planning in advance to have two showings, one at 10:30, the other an hour later. There's to be a musical accompaniment this year, too, with an electric gramophone to make the jungle noises swell and roar at the proper times.

To teen age children of members of the Saddle and Cycle club Dec. 30 will be a red letter day for a committee, headed by Mrs. Robert M. Adams, has set that date for the club's annual Christmas dance for young people. The party always is one of the jolliest of the season for high school age boys and girls.

The Chicago and North Shore Wells clubs will hold their first joint meeting of the season at luncheon today at the home of Mrs. Albert R. Martin Jr., who is president of the Chicago club. Mrs. John Agar and Miss Edith Brooks will be hostesses. Mrs. Carl Johnson will give a book review. Mrs. Calvin Selfridge is president of the north shore group.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The 1940 national bridge examination, which started only yesterday, deals exclusively with rubber bridge problems. Many readers have suggested, from time to time, that I also put in questions relating specifically to match point duplicate. I should like to oblige, but it wouldn't be quite fair. Presumably, a duplicate player knows all about rubber bridge, but thousands of rubber bridge players have never played duplicate, hence would be unable to compete on equal terms.

Now a word as to bidding systems in connection with this test: Bidding has been standardized to such a degree that only the users of artificial conventions will be under a handicap in answering my questions, as, according to my belief, they are also handicapped in actual games. No bids conventional to the Culbertson system alone will be involved! In almost every case the correct answer will be based purely on common sense, the exceptions being those cases in which the Blackwood slam convention or the Culbertson 4-5 no trump convention may be profitably employed. Due allowance for both of these will be made in the official answers.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the three of spades and East's jack forced out the ace. South had two lines of play to make his contract. If the spades were split 4-4 he could afford to knock out the ace of clubs and let the opponents take their spade tricks, thereafter making the rest, but if one of the opponents had five spades, five tricks would be lost immediately. The other chance of making the contract consisted in running the diamond suit without a loss. In order for this to be possible the suit had to split 3-3 and the queen had to be in the East hand.

Declarer's reasoning was as follows: "In each case it is necessary for an even number of cards to split evenly. In one case that alone gives me my contract; in the other case I not only have to get a 3-3 diamond break, but must find the queen of diamonds in the right position. The first chance is obviously the better one."

He therefore led the clubs immediately and made his contract. Note that if he had attempted the diamond finesse he would have lost his contract.

Every One Has Ticket for Rockne Premiere Except Mrs. Rockne

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 30.—Everybody in South Bend was ready today to attend the Friday world's première of the new Knute Rockne moving picture except Mrs. Knute Rockne. Somehow or other Mrs. Rockne got left off the lists when South Bend's four theaters were selling out all their seats for the simultaneous première of the Warner Brothers pictures. The Notre Dame ticket buyers thought Mrs. Rockne was first served on the list of special reservations; the studio, the mayor, and the theater operators each thought the same about the others. Mrs. Rockne herself, who was in Chicago buying a new dress for the big occasion during the record setting ticket sale, never thought a thing about it until she prepared to match her seat reservations with those of her friends on the Notre Dame faculty here. So the Warner Brothers gallantly rushed out, bought back 10 of the already purchased tickets, and presented them to the guest of honor.

Tomorrow's Pitchers Still a Secret.

Choose Umpires

K. M. LANDIS, commissioner of baseball, announced yesterday that Umpires Bill Klem and E. Lee Ballanfant would be the National leaguers to work the world series starting in Cincinnati Wednesday. The National league alternate is Larry Goetz. Emmett Ormsby and Steve Basil were named Sunday by President Will Harridge as the American league umpires, with William Grieve as alternate.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 30 (AP).—The tidal wave of another world series washed over Cincinnati today, beaching baseball's notable personages and lifting the populace into a high state of excitement in advance of Wednesday's first game between Detroit's Tigers and Cincinnati's Reds.

The community changed overnight from a quiet, hospitable Ohio river town to the baseball capital of the world, as trains and planes brought thousands. Hotel lobbies were jammed. Little groups of fans clustered along street curbs to discuss all the fascinating uncertainties that surround the struggle for the world championship. Adding to the excitement the Tigers arrived on a special train tonight from Detroit.

The big question of today, as it was yesterday and will be tomorrow, was whether two of the Reds' injured regulars, Catcher Ernie Lombardi and Second Baseman Lonnie Frey, would be able to play. Not even Manager Bill McKechnie knew the answer.

Tigers 7 to 10 Favorites.

The Tigers already were established betting favorites at 7 to 10 and the crippled condition of the Cincinnati team made it likely that the odds against the Reds, originally even money, would lengthen probably to 7 or 8 to 5. Each of the two games here will start at 12:30 [Chicago time].

The ball club placed large ads in Cincinnati papers asking fans to coöperate by reporting scalpers. But fabulous prices were asked by ticket brokers and you had to know somebody who knew somebody else to get reserved seats, even thru these channels.

The pressure was much greater this year than last and Crosley field is certain to be jammed to its capacity of about 33,000, including bleachers and standing room. The weather man said showers are a possibility for opening day, but if the weather is fit for play the crowd will be there.

Rivals to Work Out Today.

Both teams will work out lightly tomorrow. Not until then are the probable pitchers likely to become known. Managers McKechnie and Del Baker of the Tigers have committed themselves only to Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters for Cincinnati, and Buck Newsom and Schoolboy Rowe for Detroit in the first two games—order as yet undecided.

Derringer, a 20 and 12 winner during the season, is the Reds' most likely choice for the opener, of course, for several reasons. He proved he had a stout heart in last year's first game which Cincinnati lost to the New York Yankees, 2 to 1, in the ninth inning.

Rowe gained an edge over Newsom in the guessing for the Tigers' opening sharpshooter because of his steadiness. His season record is 16 won and 3 lost.

Believe Frey Will Play.

Altho McKechnie himself said he didn't know whether his cripples would be able to start, some Cincinnati players said they believed Frey, whose right big toe is broken, probably could take his place in the lineup, but that Lombardi likely will miss at least the first game. The big catcher sprained his right ankle two weeks ago in Brooklyn. The last day or two he has been hobbling like a lame steer.

Jimmy Wilson, Cincinnati's playing coach, is ready to take up the catching chore, but summed up the situation by saying, "we need Lum's big piece of lumber swinging in there."

Outfielders Jim Ripple, who was hit on the wrist by a pitched ball in yesterday's final with the Pittsburgh Pirates, was around today declaring he is fit.

The Detroit club is in good condition—as good at least as it has been in all season, altho the Tigers' infield, averaging 34 years in age, is full of squeaks and creaks.

Phillies' Rookie Shortstop Yearns to Preach Gospel

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 30 (AP).—Rookie Shortstop Bobbie Bragan of the Philadelphia National League baseball club wants to be a minister. "Yes," said the 21 year old youth, "I like to preach. I figure I may be out of baseball in 10 years and I will be thru school then."

See Derringer as Best Bet to Stop Detroit

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 30.—Paul Derringer, who won 20 games this year as his contribution to the Cincinnati Reds' total of 100, has started five world series games and never has won one. His first was the opener of the 1931 world series when he, then a freshman, pitched the St. Louis Cardinals' series opener against the Athletics.

He was charged with two losses in the 1931 series and with one loss in the two games he started against the Yanks last autumn. Despite this record of misfortune you can't find any one who thinks Manager Bill McKechnie will be making a mistake if he pushes off with Big Paul in the opener against the Detroit Tigers here Wednesday.

Derringer's a Cagy Fellow.

Derringer's efforts to win his first world series triumph having covered a period of ten years, the superstitious believe he is due for a favorable decision. It is doubtful, however, if his sponsors are picking him on such a basis. They think he has the stuff to stop the Tigers.

One of Derringer's greatest assets is control. In addition to being able to put the ball where he wants it, he is cautious at all times. And that is the kind of pitcher it takes to slow down the Tiger power, according to the reckoning of McKechnie, who has been scouting Hank Greenberg, Rudy York, et al. American leaguers, the White Sox, for instance, could testify that pitchers like Johnny Rigney, who have great stuff most of the time but have a habit of casting two or three sloppy or careless pitches a game, are the kind who get upset by Greenberg and York, not to mention Barney McCosky and Charley Gehringer.

Has a Temperamental Side.

Derringer's one weakness is that he gets temperamental when adversity hits him from unexpected sources. He wouldn't be so good if he bowled over the great Tiger sluggers, then had one of the sub .300 hitters put him in a jam. That could happen a few times, maybe, but not too often.

Going into this season, Derringer

WILDCATS START HARD WORK FOR SYRACUSE GAME

Waldorf Orders Tackling Drill for Squad.

Northwestern buckled down to hard work yesterday for its opening game at Syracuse Saturday. Coach Lynn Waldorf was displeased with the showing against the freshmen last Saturday. The Wildcats have been held back by what Waldorf terms nuisance injuries which have kept a number of key men on the sidelines. Such players as Paul Soper and George Benson, full backs; Tuffy Chambers, half back; Dick Richards and Don Kruger, quarter backs, and Leon Cook, tackle, have seen but little action to date.

Waldorf criticized the tackling in the freshman game and promised lengthy practice drills on this fundamental. The biggest present problem confronting the coaching staff is developing reserve linemen. Among the sophomore forwards who have displayed progress are Bob Motl, former Austin High school star; Hal Colberg, who prepped at Lane, and Clarence Hasse of Hammond, Ind., all ends.

DRILL IN SECRET.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP).—Preparing an offense for Saturday's game with Northwestern, Coach Ossie Solem took the Syracuse squad to Archbold stadium today and barred all spectators. Four regulars, Les Dye, Bill Mozur, Joe Watt, and Tommy Maines, were out of action with bruises received in the Clarkson game last Friday.

BUCKEYES SEE MOVIES.

Columbus, O., Sept. 30 [Special].—Ohio State began preparations for Purdue today by looking over moving pictures of the Pittsburgh game then taking a light workout. Kickers received special attention.

The squad came thru the Pittsburgh game without serious injuries. The case of Jimmy Strausbaugh, who sprained his ankle in an intra-squad game two weeks ago, will be in doubt until late this week, according to Team Physician Walter Duffee.

PURDUE FEARS OHIO.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 30 [Special].—Methods of stopping the Ohio State attack that rolled over Pittsburgh Saturday occupied Purdue's football squad today during an extended scrimmage in preparation for the Big Nine opener with the Buckeyes in Columbus, O., on Saturday.

Altho well pleased with the general showing of the squad in its victory over Butler, reports concerning Ohio's strength caused Coach Mal Elward to waive the usual light Monday drill.

Scout Elmer Burnham, head freshman coach, held out speed as the main Purdue hope, altho Elward pointed out it will take better blocking to spring such Boilermaker backs as Mike Byelene loose thru the defense Ohio can be expected to set up.

BADGERS LOSE LORENZ.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30 [Special].—Al Lorenz, senior right end from Oak Park, Ill., was declared ineligible at Wisconsin tonight. Lorenz, a better than average student, failed, ironically, in a course which he didn't need to graduate from the university medical school. He is the third regular to be lost since practice began. The others, Claude York, right half back, and Don Kolbusz, left guard, were forced out thru illness.

MARQUETTE USES VETERANS.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 30 [Special].—Its first string lineup set and with only one sophomore in the array, the Marquette university football team today began final defensive plans for Saturday's opener with Wisconsin in Madison.

The lone Marquette sophomore who apparently has made his way to the varsity is Jack Peifer, 200 pound tackle from Wauwatosa. He has edged out his brother, Charles, a veteran, for a starting assignment.

The Coach.

The other day I missed a signal and
The coach spoke several languages at once.
And just because I didn't understand
He thinks I'm an irreparable dunce;
I never heard a fellow who could spout
So many epithets in one big breath.
He chews up dollar words and spits them out,
And most of them are freighted down with death.

He surely never learned them when at school.
They seem to come to him in flocks and herds
And each one fairly drips with ridicule.
I don't believe there's any moment worse

PLAYING GOPHERS THIS YEAR? GET PASSES READY!

Minnesota Reveals Same Old Weakness.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The University of Washington lost again to Minnesota last Saturday but the Huskies demonstrated once more to Minnesota's rivals that an air attack is the best method of attack. Washington gained 106 yards in 18 attempted passes. Six were completed beyond the line of scrimmage, while the Gophers only were credited with fifteen yards by passing. Two were completed in 10 attempts.

Minnesota's attack along the ground wasn't as powerful as the score might indicate. In fact, a fumble opened the way for a twenty-one yard drive for the first Gopher touchdown, Franck ran back a kickoff for a second touchdown, and the other points were made by a field goal and safety.

Bad Passing Costly.

On the first play from scrimmage, Mucha's pass back from center did not give proper lead and Ernie Steele fumbled. The ball was recovered on Washington's 21 yard line by Minnesota's Bill Johnson. A touchdown followed in five plays.

Mucha's second bad pass from center soared over Dean McAdams' head as he stood in the end zone ready to kick. The automatic safety in the third period completed the scoring. In the last quarter, with Washington on Minnesota's five yard line, and first down, Mucha's misdirected pass [he failed to lead Jack Stackpool, full back] was recovered by Johnson again.

At the time of this last misplay it seemed as if Washington certainly would score. Washington's line was as superior to Minnesota's as the Gopher back field was superior to the group of Washington backs.

Wildung Perks Up.

Minnesota appeared weak defensively against Washington's reverse plays. However, Dick Wildung, the sophomore tackle who played the defensive right tackle position, came thru in the second half with a good game. In the early periods he was badly outplayed.

The Gophers' weaknesses in stopping passes is best shown by the two fourth down passes thrown by McAdams in the march to the Huskies' second touchdown. The second of these tosses scored and gave Washington a 14 to 10 lead.

Ohio State whipped Minnesota, 23 to 20, last year with Don Scott repeatedly pentrating the Gophers' defenses with passes. In 1938 when Notre Dame whipped Minnesota, 19 to 0, the second and third Irish touchdowns were scored by passes. And when Nebraska upset Minnesota, 14 to 9, in 1937, passes turned the trick, altho the Cornhuskers were completely outplayed along the ground.

Nebraska only tried five forward passes in that 1937 game. Three were completed. The first led to a touchdown and the second helped advance the ball down to where the third was completed for the winning points.

But They Have Franck.

Minnesota's defensive weaknesses last Saturday also may be expressed by Washington's two touchdown drives. The first carried eighty yards in 10 plays, the second covered seventy-five yards in 14 plays from scrimmage.

For this week's game with Nebraska the Gophers will have the advantages materializing from playing a game in advance of the Cornhuskers. Other than this, Minnesota's season probably will be much like 1939 except for the individual brilliance of George Franck.

COCHRANE KNOWS NOTHING ABOUT CLEVELAND OFFER

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 30 (AP)—Mickey Cochrane, who managed the Detroit Tigers to pennants in 1934 and 1935, said today he had not been approached by the Cleveland Indians regarding a possible appointment as manager if Oscar Vitt resigns.

Now a manufacturer's agent, Cochrane said, "I have not been considering a return to baseball."

The 23d city series, an event which gives the White Sox and Cub fans the opportunity to get into one ball park and needle each other about their respective tastes for amusement, gets under way today. Jim Dykes' Sox, almost perennial holders of the municipal title, will visit Wrigley field, domicile of Gabby Hartnett's challenging Cubs, for the inaugural starting at 1:30 o'clock.

Altho they had just completed a 154 game schedule in their own leagues the bosses of the principals deemed it necessary to assemble the boys yesterday for a little batting practice which may or may not help more this afternoon than it did at numerous times during the six months of pennant chores. Another reason for the Cub assemblage was to vote on how the series money is going to be divided. The Sox, who'll get not only some of the local loot, but a piece of fourth place world series change, attended to this detail the day previous.

Cubs Vote 31 Full Shares.

The Cubs cut their melon into 31 full shares, 29 of which will go to regular members as well as the coaches, Trainer Andy Lotshaw and Secretary Bob Lewis. The two other slices will be halved, one half going to Billy Rogell, recently released, and the others to clubhouse attendants.

The city series has been going on for a long time, so it probably is appropriate, at least so far as the Sox are concerned, that they start a fellow who also has been around for a long stretch. He's Ted Lyons, who enrolled with the Sox in 1923 when he was a slat like kid off the Baylor university campus. Lyons continues to pitch as if he would never wear out. Just to make sure he would be ready for the occasion Old Folks has absorbed nine days of rest. He pitched the seventh and deciding game last fall that gave the Sox victory over the Cubs.

Leiber to Bat Fourth.

Manager Hartnett, after watching his second division troops in their short practice drill yesterday, said he hasn't altered his previously announced plan of starting Claude Passeau, his biggest winner.

Some of the Cubs who haven't been feeling well lately also will be among

What Happened Last Year When Sox Beat Cubs

The Cubs will take a look at the White Sox pitcher today in the opening game of the city series and recall he's the same fellow who finished the 1939 business—Ted Lyons. Lyons won the second and seventh games of last year's series. There was no city series in 1938 because the Yankees and Cubs were engaged in the world series. The 1937 argument between the two Chicago teams, like the one last year, went seven games, with the Sox winning. Scores and batteries of the 1939 series follow:

VALDINA GOLD WINS CAVALCADE AT HAWTHORNE

Jockey South Thrown by Mount; Has Concussion.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Seven sprinters went to the post in the Cavalcade Purse yesterday at Hawthorne and they were so evenly matched that they put on a six horse stretch run. As they came into the straightaway, Miss Harriett, All Lizzie, Litchfield, Potranco, Valdina Gold, and King's Blue were spread out across the track, running almost abreast. Mission Step was the only trailer.

They charged on toward the finish line and at the eighth pole, four of them were still only heads apart. Potranco and Miss Harriett had dropped out of it. Nearing the wire Valdina Gold forged ahead to win by three-quarters of a length. King's Blue was second, and Litchfield was a little more than a length farther back.

For the fifth consecutive time, Potranco had gone to the post as the favorite and for the fourth time in a row he failed. He had run second in his last three starts, but this time he floundered home in sixth position. He had been quoted at 3 to 2 odds.

Second Choice Wins.

Valdina Gold, a 3 year old filly, which had beaten Potranco by half a length in her last trip to the post, was second choice in the betting. She returned $8.60, 3.80, and $3.40, and ran the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5.

Jockey George South, one of the most capable and popular jockeys riding in the Chicago area this season, was severely hurt when his mount, Reality, stumbled and threw him immediately after the start of the second race. He incurred a head injury that indicated one of his horse's hooves may have struck him a glancing blow. He was taken to the Garfield Park hospital and an examination revealed a concussion, according to Dr. John Berger. X-rays will be taken today.

Bob's Way, the 2 to 1 co-favorite in the Burgoo King purse, secondary feature of the afternoon, did the most spectacular job of quitting seen on any Chicago track this season. After racing in close contention for the first six furlongs of this mile run, he went to the front at the head of the stretch. Running easily, he drew out to a lead of two lengths at the eighth pole. His rivals were charging after him but he showed no signs of weakening.

Then He Quits.

A sixteenth from the finish he was still a length and a half in front and the others were making very little progress. Then Bob's Way suddenly decided he would run no more that day. He slowed almost to a walk.

Gallant Sis, the other 2 to 1 choice in the race, came up swiftly on the outside to win by a length and a half. Lady Lyonors and Chocolate Maid also swept past the sluggish Bob's Way to take second and third places, respectively. The prices on Gallant Sis were $6.60, $4, and $3.20 across the board.

Three Sands, a 3 year old gelding which never before had won a race, scored at odds of 68 to 1 yesterday. After running far behind the leaders in the early stages of a mile and a sixteenth event for $1,000 platers, he was lucky to find room along the rail at the head of the stretch. He gained steadily thereafter, reaching the front in the last sixteenth and won by a neck. Jungle Moon was second and Maurice K. third.

Big Prices on All.

Inasmuch as all three of these horses were outsiders in the betting, there were substantial prices all the way across the board. The winner returned $140.40, $43.80, and $19.40. Tickets on Jungle Moon were worth $15.80 and $8.20, and on Maurice K., $12.60.

700 FANS ATTEND FIRST LUNCHEON OF WAILING WALL

An overflow crowd of 700, with 200 more being turned away, attended the first weekly luncheon meeting of the Alumni Wailing Wall yesterday in the Sherman hotel. Frank McCormick, director of athletics at the University of Minnesota, showed moving pictures of the Minnesota-Washington game and described the plays.

It was announced that each week those attending the Wailing Wall luncheons will vote on the outstanding player of the previous Saturday. When the season ends, the back and lineman receiving the greatest number of votes will be presented with the Wailing Wall player of the year trophies.

Starting next Monday the meetings will be held in a larger auditorium in order to accommodate all who care to attend.

The Monday Morning Quarterback club also held its first meeting of the season yesterday in the Morrison hotel. Principal speakers were Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, director of athletics; Lynn Waldorf, head coach, and Burt Ingwersen, line coach, all of Northwestern.

IRISH OPEN DRILL FOR COLLEGE OF PACIFIC BATTLE

Players Get First Look at Stagg's Plays.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 30 [Special].—Notre Dame's football practice moved from the early phase to actual game preparation when the Irish got their first look at College of the Pacific plays in dummy scrimmage today. Coach A. A. Stagg's Tigers from Stockton, Cal., who are expected to use a variety of spread formations, will open the season here Saturday.

A. A. Stagg.

A score of stars of the entertainment world will be on hand for Friday's première of the Knute Rockne movie and the game. Members of the University of Chicago C club will honor Stagg, who is starting his 51st season of coaching, 41 of them spent at the University of Chicago.

Notre Dame preparations were hampered by a mounting injury list, but Trainer Eugene [Scrapiron] Young assured Coach Elmer Layden that all but two or three of his charges will be ready for action. Those unlikely to play include Tom Brock, sophomore center, who suffered a sprained ankle in Saturday's 57 to 13 varsity victory over the freshmen, and Lou Rymkus and Walt Ziemba, husky sophomore tackles, who were hurt in Thursday's skirmish.

GOPHER TEAM INTACT.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 30 [Special].—Minnesota's victorious football team came out of the Washington game in better condition than it went into it, it was revealed today as the Gophers were called back into modified action.

Bruce Smith, whose left half back work was handicapped by a previous injury, was fully recovered and ready to oppose Nebraska here Saturday. No break was revealed by an X-ray of an ankle bruise experienced by Gene Bierhaus, sophomore back. Bob Paffrath, also injured, is nearly recovered.

ILLINI CHANGE PLACES.

IOWA SPEEDS UP.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 30 [Special].—Coaches stepped up drills today for the Iowa squad, in preparation for the season's opener here Saturday against South Dakota. The players were given long workouts on signal drills and defense.

Altho the first team lineup named two weeks ago still remained unchanged, there are indications that Tom Farmer may replace Jim Youel at left half due to rapid improvement in kicking and forward passing.

Bill Green, veteran full back, was back in uniform after an injured leg forced him to the sidelines Saturday.

MICHIGAN ARRIVES LATE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 30 [Special].—A rather sleepy, but exuberant Michigan squad took the practice field today to begin preparations for the Michigan State game. The squad was delayed by strong head winds on its aerial trip from California and did not reach the Wayne airport until 2:19 a. m. today.

Coach Fritz Crisler gave Michigan's second team and excellent blocking credit for the 41 to 0 victory over California. Three men suffered minor injuries. Clarence Hall, reserve center, and Norm Call, regular right half back, turned ankles, and Tackle Al Wistert suffered a torn cartilage in the chest.

AMERICANS BUY MAHMOUD, EPSOM DERBY WINNER

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Mahmoud, winner of the Epsom Derby in 1936 and considered England's greatest Derby horse, has been sold by the Aga Khan to an American syndicate for $84,000, it was announced today.

The syndicate, it was said, included "members of the Vanderbilt and Chrysler families." Walter Chrysler Jr., and Alfred Vanderbilt were members of the syndicate which recently bought another famous Derby winner, Bahram, from the Indian potentate.

FOOTBALL GOES TOPSY-TURVY IN 1940 PRO RACE

Nine of 10 Teams Beaten in First Month.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The Cardinals and Bears get busy again today, preparing for week-end trips that take the former to Detroit and the latter to Cleveland. But for a day or so, they won't be nearly as busy as the statisticians who are attempting to find a parallel for the first month of competition in the Nation Football league.

Fourteen games have been played with each of the ten teams making at least two starts. Out of this activity there has emerged only one team, Washington, with an unbeaten record, and only one, Philadelphia, which has not been able to win. The Redskins lead the league with two victories against no defeats, and the Eagles hold tenth place with three defeats.

Between the two there are seven teams with .500 ratings and one, Green Bay, the defending champion, with two victories and one defeat. In addition there have been three ties. Those who were predicting a tight race can go to the head of the class. No campaign in the history of the league has started out in so much of a dog fight.

League Personnel Improved.

The answer, of course, is improved personnel for all teams. Upsets have had some bearing on the evenness of the standings, but better personnel had much to do with these, too.

With the exception of the New York Giants, who appear to have slipped some thru the loss of a few veterans, especially Ed Danowski, and the retention of too many others, the perennial leaders are at least as good as ever and in some cases better.

Green Bay defeated the Cardinals in Milwaukee, 31 to 6, Sunday after the Cardinals had triumphed, 21 to 7, over the Bears, who four days previously had conquered Green Bay, 41 to 10. This makes it very simple to pick the western division winner. You merely wait until Dec. 1, then take the team that's on top at the moment.

Cards Play Saturday Night.

The Cardinals' preparation for the Detroit game, which has been moved up from Sunday to Saturday night because of the world series, will consist largely of resting up after battling the league's most powerful clubs in a space of four days. They will be meeting a team that rounded out the week of surprises by whipping Cleveland, 6 to 0.

Detroit, held to a tie by the Cardinals and beaten by Pittsburgh, managed to break Whizzer White loose for a 20 yard run and a touchdown against a Ram team that figured to be the western division dark horse. Cleveland, with a superb backfield and a passable line for its first eleven, but not much in the way of reserves, may have been thinking too much about the impending Bear engagement Sunday afternoon. The Bears, with 10 days' rest and more time to polish their attack, are not likely to be lulled into a sense of false security by the Rams' surprising defeat.

The only other game Sunday confirmed the impression that Brooklyn will have an important voice in the settlement of the eastern division championship. By whipping Pittsburgh, 10 to 3, the Dodgers were able to join the .500 class.

FANS VOTE ELSON BEST BASEBALL BROADCASTER

Bob Elson of W-G-N is the year's outstanding baseball announcer. His selection, in a poll of fans and sports writers conducted by the Sporting News, baseball weekly published in St. Louis, was announced yesterday.

Elson will receive a plaque emblematic of the honor at a special broadcast from Cincinnati from 6:15 to 6:30 p. m. tomorrow. The ceremonies will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network. J. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, will make the presentation. Officials of the American and National leagues also will be heard.

Elson and Walter [Red] Barber of station WOR, Newark, N. J., will be at the microphone at 12:15 p. m. Wednesday to broadcast the exclusive W-G-N and Mutual network account of the world series opener. Barber received the Sporting News award last year.

Colorado Prep Football Player Dies of Injuries

Fort Collins, Colo., Sept. 30 (AP).—Jimmy Cholas of Grand Junction, Colo., died today of a head injury suffered in a high school football game between Grand Junction and Fort Collins. The 18 year old player, a tackle, was injured in the first half of the game Friday night and never regained consciousness.

See Derringer as Best Bet to Stop Detroit

had whipped the Cubs 33 times while losing 17. This season, in which he lost 12 games, he was whipped four times in seven starts against the Cubs. Naturally, he didn't figure this year's Cub outfit had a right to beat him once. When they started pushing him around he became temperamental about the disgrace of it all, and thus suffered one-third of his losses to the team that for 10 years, including the best Cub years, has been Paul's softest touch.

Rowe May Oppose Derringer.

But temperament or no temperament, Derringer, starting from taw with the Tigers Wednesday afternoon, would give the Detroiters a great battle, a courageous and smart battle, and a pitching style with which they are not familiar, since Paul has no twin in the American league.

Schoolboy Rowe probably will be Derringer's opponent Wednesday. And that will give the opener two giant men, sharp of mind and strong in competitive spirit.

Rowe, a comeback sensation, led all American league pitchers in won and lost percentage with 16 victories and three losses. Because he still has trouble with his long-ailing arm the lank Arkansas gentleman is not nearly so rugged as Derringer, but this potential short-coming will not show up in the opener, for Schoolboy will go to the firing line with plenty of rest.

Reds Fear Rowe Most.

Attachés of the Reds, after appropriate expressions of confidence that they will be the ultimate winners of the first game, as well as the series, admit they expect to encounter more trouble from Rowe than any other pitcher. They hope to wear him down, but there have been no threats of pinning back his ears.

Rowe, like Derringer, doesn't allow many free trips to first base. He has worked in 26 games in which he has struck out 58 batsmen and walked 47.

It will be suave, able Bucky Walters against rugged, blustery Buck Newsom in the second game. Bucky won 22 and lost 9 this season. The Cubs were the only team that didn't beat Bucky, tho they did knock him out a couple of times.

Rivals Study in Contrast.

Bucky is not awed by sluggers. The Pirates led the National league in hitting, but that did not prevent Bucky from slapping them down, five out of six. Bucky is tough on those boys who try to swing for extra bases.

Bucky and Buck will afford contrasts in more than off stage behavior. Newsom may be great. He may be a pushover. But he was runner-up to Rowe in the won and lost percentages with 21 victories and five defeats.

Buck struck out 199 more batsmen than did Rowe, his total being 257, and he also walked 158 more batsmen than did Rowe. His total was 205.

Turner Highly Reguarded.

The pitchers for the third game, of course, will depend somewhat on the results of and the happenings in the first two games. Not much has been said about Jim Turner, but the Reds' board of strategy believes that Ol' Jim, whose technique is similar to that of Cleveland's Mel Harder, has as good a chance as anybody to turn back the Tiger power.

Of course, that great little Tiger curver, Tommy Bridges, will have at least one shot in the series, probably in the third game.

The pitching in the 1940 world series is bound to be good. But still the big question looms: "Can the fine Red pitchers stop the great Tiger hitters?"

Slick fielding has won other series, but it looks like the face to face feud between pitcher and slugger in this one. Derringer and Walters and the others have one great problem to solve before they can get much help from their admittedly superior fielding support. They've got to make those Tiger big boys hit the ball on the ground. And that won't be so easy.

Tigers' Aces Pronounced Fit for Reds

Lyons to Face Cubs Today in Series Opener

those doing their bit this afternoon. Hank Leiber, who had some kind of a muscle ailment, will be in center field and Bill Herman, who had something wrong with his back, will take over his second base job. Leiber has been restored to the cleanup rôle in the batting order with Billy Nicholson one notch above.

Two of the White Sox regulars also will be back from vacations. Mike Kreevich wasn't given much work during the last ten days of the season. The little fellow had no ailments, but needed a rest after a long siege in center field. Jim Webb, out because of flu, will be at second base, thus solving what might have been a problem for Dykes. His only eligible spare infielder is Jack Hayes, who during the winter probably will submit to an operation at Johns Hopkins for a cataract of the eye.

The second game of the series will be played tomorrow in the Cubs park, the third game Thursday night in Comiskey park, the fourth Friday afternoon on the same field and the fifth [if necessary] Saturday night, also at the home of the Sox. The sixth and seventh, if one of the teams hasn't figured out by that time how to lose or win four decisions, will follow in Wrigley field.

The last time the Tigers were in a world series—1935—they were managed by Mickey Cochrane. Yesterday the one-time great catcher stood in line at Briggs stadium and bought tickets for the Detroit games.

ANDERSON AND SAVOLD AGREE TO OCT. 9 BOUT

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 30 (AP).—Promoter Harry Lennon today announced that Arne Anderson, Swedish heavyweight, has agreed to fight Lee Savold of Des Moines, in the St. Paul auditorium Oct. 9.

It will be the second meeting of the two. Last winter Savold won a disputed decision over Anderson in Omaha.

3 Teams Tie for First in Pro-Amateur

Three teams were tied with best ball scores of 67 for first place in the pro-amateur golf tournament yesterday at Butterfield Country club. They were Willie Goggin of Chicago, paired with R. E. Daily; Eddie Gayer of Twin Orchard, teamed with J. D. Murphy, and Johnny Gibson of Ridgemoor, with F. T. Cullen as his partner.

Goggin, former Northern California Open winner, toured the rolling layout in two under par to pace the professionals in the individual scoring. He was out in 33, two under par, and came back in par 35 for a 70.

Other medal scores turned in by the pros were: Eddie Gayer, 35-36—71; Eddie Williams, 34-37—71; Dick Metz, 35-37—72; Johnny Gibson, 37-36—73; Allan Baker, 36-38—74; Al Huske, 37-37—74, and Herb Johnson, 39-36—75.

Two Little 19 Teams to Get Test Friday

Charleston, Ill., Sept. 30 [Special].—Freshmen and former reserves will be handling varsity assignments when Charleston and Elmhurst open the Little Nineteen conference championship race here Friday. Lack of veteran linemen has forced both coaches, Ted Carson of Charleston, and Pete Langhorst of Elmhurst, to depend upon new material and reserves of 1939.

Two freshmen, Russell Pierson, center, of Flat Rock, and Don Davisson, guard, of Bethany, are on the first eleven at Charleston. Lettermen at the other posts are Bill Stanford of Flora, and Joe Ward of Charleston, ends; Joe Bressler of Potomac, and Robert Johns of Charleston, tackles; Jim Hutton of Charleston, guard; Maurice De Meyer, full back, and Ross Stephenson, quarter back, both of South Bend, Ind.; Paul Henry of Charleston, and Ray Suddarth of Fairfield, half backs.

First string substitutes include several freshmen, Jim Shaw, end, of Taylorville; Harold Piper, tackle, of Charleston; Cecil Werner, guard, of Pana; and Ernest Fitzgerald, half back, of Flora. Two experienced backs, Bill Glenn of Fairfield, and Bill Thissell of South Bend, provide adequate relief.

At least one freshman and possibly two will be in the Elmhurst starting front. Tom Aubuchon, center, of Elmhurst, is a certain starter at center. Ralph Jans, end, of Detroit, probably will get the call over Henry Hakewill, last year's reserve.

BUDWEISERS GAIN BOWLING LEAD IN WINDY CITY RACE

Two games of 1,000 or better availed the Blue Rock Beverages nothing in the Windy City Major Bowling league last night on the Windy City alleys. They had the misfortune of encountering the Budweisers, whose 3,228 aggregate won three straight games, the second by four pins.

By their sweep of the series the Budweisers took first place in the standings by a one game margin over the Bireley Beverages, who lost two to the Burlington Zephyrs and dropped to second.

George Kaplan of the O'Keefe Brothers quintet rolled high individual series of 672 and high game of 288. Stanley Kosobucki of Vogel Brothers bowled 667. Scores:

Louisville Wins A. A. Playoff; to Battle Newark

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 30 (AP).—The Louisville Colonels of the American association and the Newark Bears of the International league will meet in the 1940 little world series. Louisville defeated Kansas City tonight, 3 to 0, to win the playoff series, four games to two, and Newark defeated Baltimore, 3 to 2, to take the International playoff. LA PALINA CIGARS

Too much chilling masks beer flavor

RICHARD SEIBOLD; Meister Bräu Brewmaster

HOW TO MAKE THE "50-DEGREES" TEST Which has turned thousands to the all-grain flavor of Meister Bräu

Take a bottle of Meister Bräu and one of any other beer at average refrigerator temperature. Let stand until it's the proper temperature. Then open and compare flavors. Use an ordinary food thermometer such as you can get at a ten-cent store.

Ask for Meister Bräu Draft Beer. Bars take special care to serve it at the proper temperature.

DRINK YOUR BEER AT 50 DEGREES

—to enjoy all its honest flavor... or to compare brands expertly

FOLKS who over-chill their beer don't get full enjoyment out of it. They miss so much of the flavor they really can't tell whether they like the beer they're drinking or not.

Beer flavor—good or bad—shows up at 50 degrees temperature. Cold disguises the flavor. You taste the cold more than you taste the beer. Warm it up a little and you taste delicious richness you never knew was there. This enables anyone to compare beers and find the best.

We have been making beer to suit the 50-degree drinkers for 49 years. Won't add sugars or syrups to the brew, and bottle with only natural draft beer carbonation created in the brew itself—so Meister Bräu has natural life and sparkle—true all-grain flavor. We've pleased the "beer cranks"—and a lot of other folks too. More people buy it every day.

I wish you'd taste and compare beer flavors with the "50-degrees" test. I'm sure you'd be delighted with the delicious flavor of Meister Bräu. And, I doubt if you would ever again say "Give me a bottle of Beer"—you'll ask for Meister Bräu.

A. T. & T. 5½S OF '43.

In your discussion recently of American Telephone and Telegraph 5½s of 1943 you stated that these bonds could be called at par on May 2, 1941. However, under the trust indenture for this issue, it is stated that these bonds are callable upon 60 days' notice on any interest date only at par after May 1, 1941. Therefore, the first possible call date at par for this issue is Nov. 1, 1941.—D. F. L.

Answer: You are correct. The bonds are redeemable on 60 days' notice on any interest date [Nov. 1 or May 1] at 110 plus interest thru May 1, 1941, and thereafter at 100.

COAL RETAILERS KEEP OLD PRICES FEW DAYS MORE

Many Chicago coal dealers said yesterday that their retail prices would remain unchanged for the present until they can determine the effects of the schedule, effective today, establishing minimum prices at the mines.

They indicated that their new retail prices, expected to be only slightly higher for the average consumer, will be announced in about a week or 10 days.

Altho the bituminous coal division set a "floor" under prices at the mines, several explained, the schedule does not prohibit operators from asking more than the minimum.

Increases to Vary Widely.

Chicago dealers added that it usually requires a week or 10 days for shipments to arrive from the mines so they are still operating on the old sales figures.

A wide variation in prices will result from the schedule, with some industrial consumers paying 50 to 70 cents more a ton, but the majority of dealers said the increase for most domestic and industrial users will average not more than 10 or 15 cents a ton.

Altho the schedule which went into effect today was the result of three years of effort by the coal division to determine minimum rates, many petitions for modification and protests are in the offing.

Ask Review in 3 States.

Cornelius Lynde, attorney for Southern Illinois Coals, Inc., a producers' organization, said that petitions have been filed with the division asking a review of the minimum set for mines in Illinois, Indiana, and Kentucky.

The organization contends that the differential between the price at southern Illinois mines, the base, and those at other mines in the area is so great that the downstate producers cannot compete fairly.

Lynde explained that the organization is interested chiefly in industrial coals, because the poorer grades can be improved by washing and brought closer in quality to the high grade southern Illinois coal. Value of the downstate product, he said, cannot be enhanced as much by washing.

The Northern Illinois Coal Trade association will file petitions for several modifications within a week, J. Christiansen, secretary, said. One of them will seek in general to have the same mine price established for river and railroad transported coal.

Kelvinator Sales Volume Reported Double Year Ago

The Kelvinator division of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation, Detroit, reported yesterday that it has been handling more than twice as much business as it did in 1939. Frank R. Pierce, general sales manager, said that the increase was due to the manufacturing, distribution and merchandising principles put in effect this year.

ADD 41 MILLIONS TO NATION'S VAST DEFENSE OUTLAY

Army Orders Ammunition in Big Quantities.

More than 41 million dollars in new national defense contracts announced yesterday swelled the volume of orders pouring into government arsenals and private factories, providing additional stimulus to the industrial advance now under way.

The war department at Washington, D. C., announced the award of contracts totaling $23,959,322 for the ordnance department and the quartermaster corps, in addition to $4,038,168 of orders let earlier in the day.

The navy department awarded contracts aggregating $9,147,600 for construction work at Hawaii and other Pacific island naval bases, and $3,869,768 for installations, repairs, and supplies within the United States.

Largest Awards Listed.

Of the $23,959,322 in army orders, contracts for artillery ammunition components were awarded in these amounts:

Stewart-Warner corporation, Chicago, $1,381,600; Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, Butler, Pa., $1,134,000; National Supply company, Ambridge, Pa. $720,000; Norris Stamping and Manufacturing company, Los Angeles, $2,544,000; Electric Auto-Lite company, Toledo, O., $780,000; General Motors corporation, Anderson, Ind., $2,536,000; Pennsylvania Forge corporation, Philadelphia, $790,000; General Motors corporation, Dayton, O., $1,208,199; Pressed Steel Car company, Pittsburgh, Pa., $1,230,000, and A. O. Smith corporation, Milwaukee, Wis., $3,561,500.

A large share of the naval expenditures in the Pacific will go for improvements in surface vessel and aircraft facilities at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and will include additional underground fuel storage tanks, harbor dredging, and aviation hangars. Much of the work will be done by the Hawaiian Dredging company and associated contractors. The largest of the naval projects within continental United States was for additional storage facilities at the ammunition depot in Hawthorne, Nev. William P. Neil company of Los Angeles, Cal., was given a $2,146,000 contract.

Steel Output to Rise.

Meanwhile, there were indications of industrial revival in other quarters.

The American Iron and Steel Institute estimated that the steel industry will increase its output to 92.6 per cent of capacity this week from 92.5 per cent last week. The institute reported that while many mills are operating virtually at peak capacity, a lag in tin plate production has held the rate as a whole from reaching absolute capacity.

The Deepwater Light and Power company, subsidiary of the Philadelphia Electric company, and the Atlantic City Electric company, announced additions costing $3,500,000 will be made at the jointly owned generating station at Deepwater, N. J. The project will provide additional electricity for a plant of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

REALTOR BUYS RESIDENCE OF SAMUEL DAUCHY

Robert Bartlett, head of the Robert Bartlett Realty company, yesterday purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dauchy the residence at 525 Hawthorne place. Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett, now at their Beverly Shores residence, will make this their town house after remodeling. Hogan & Farwell, Inc. was the broker. The price was not disclosed.

The house, designed by the late Howard Van Doren Shaw, contains 14 rooms, five baths, and eight wood burning fireplaces. It occupies a lot with 160 feet of frontage on Hawthorne place.

Mr. and Mrs. Dauchy are now living in San Diego, Cal. where they built a home several years ago. Dauchy is one of the owners of the Dauchy Iron Works.

APPROVE PUTTING ARMS ORDERS UP FOR BANK LOANS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30 (AP).—The senate completed congressional action today on legislation permitting government contractors to assign their contracts to banks as security for loans.

The measure, recommended by the defense commission and the war and navy departments, is designed to facilitate borrowing by defense contractors to finance necessary plant expansion and for other purposes.

The bill is not restricted to defense contractors, however, but permits any person or corporation with a claim of $1,000 or more against the government to assign it to a bank or federal lending agency as security for a loan. All assignments must be reported to the government.

MODIFIED SUIT FILED AGAINST OIL COMPANIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—Modified from its original form because of criticism by the national defense advisory commission, a department of justice antitrust suit against 22 major oil companies, with 300 subsidiaries, and the American Petroleum institute was filed in the federal District court here today.

The suit charges the companies and their subsidiaries with attempts to fix prices, stifle competition, and restrict the production of crude oil and manufacture of petroleum products. It seeks an injunction to end the alleged abuses and the dissolution of the institute, a trade association.

As originally proposed by Thurman Arnold, the administration's trust prosecutor, the suit was to seek disintegration of the oil companies on the ground that transportation and marketing should be separated from production.

Disintegration Move Opposed.

Specifically, he wanted the oil companies to divorce themselves from the control of pipelines and barges and to change their marketing systems to enable independent producers to compete in the consumer market on equal footing.

However, the national defense commission urged the justice department to make no attempt at this time to divest the oil companies of their transportation and marketing facilities because of possible harm to the national defense program. It was announced today that the attorney general had accepted the commission's recommendation in this respect.

But, it was noted, the department left the way open for the district court to order dissolution of the companies since it asks: ". . . general relief with respect to the organization, functioning and operation of the defendants, as the court may deem proper."

Says Door Is "Not Closed."

At the same time, Attorney General Jackson asserted in a letter to Senator Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], who has been complaining of delay in instituting the proceedings against the oil companies, that the department has not closed the door to seeking divestiture later if it fails in today's suit.

The complaint alleges that the defendants "have conspired to fix and maintain uniform, noncompetitive prices to be paid by them for crude oil purchased from independent producers and to be charged by them for crude oil sold to independent refiners."

According to the suit, crude oil prices are posted by one of the defendants and followed by the others, and, in fields where independent refiners compete with defendants in the purchase of crude oil, higher prices are fixed, "thus putting the independents at a competitive disadvantage and driving them from the market." It is also charged that the defendants have conspired to restrict the production of crude oil and the manufacture of petroleum products.

Defendants Listed.

Besides the petroleum institute, defendants in the action are:

Atlantic Refining company, Barnsdall Oil company, Cities Service company, Consolidated Oil corporation, Continental Oil company, Gulf Oil corporation, Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation, Ohio Oil company, Phillips Petroleum company, Pure Oil company, Shell Union Oil corporation, Skelly Oil company, the Socony-Vacuum Oil company, Standard Oil company of California, Standard Oil company [Ind.], Standard Oil company [Ky.], Standard Oil company [N. J.], Standard Oil company [O.], Sun Oil Company, Texas corporation, Tidewater Associated Oil company, Union Oil Company of California, and approximately 300 subsidiaries of all the defendant firms.

Suits Charge Rebates.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 30 (AP).—The United States Department of Justice filed two suits in Federal court today against petroleum pipe line corporations in the midwest, charging violation of the Interstate Commerce act by failure to observe published common carrier rates.

The companion suits, part of the government's drive to prevent alleged rebates by oil pipe concerns to certain oil companies, named as defendants the Great Lakes Pipe Line company and the Phillips Petroleum company and Phillips Pipe Line company.

In both cases, the government contends, rebates were allowed stockholder-owners of the oil companies in the forms of dividends of the pipe line firms.

Transit Loan Said to Hinge on 8 Cent Fare

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The proposed 53 million dollar federal traction loan to Chicago, on which two million car riders are basing their hopes of long delayed improvements in service, will not be forthcoming unless the transit lines are permitted to boost the present rates of fare or obtain a comparable increase in earnings by other means.

This was indicated yesterday by Edward E. Brown, spokesman for the surface and elevated lines, in a report to Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe on the progress of negotiations with the city for a unified traction ordinance. Brown's report was interpreted by observers to mean that Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, is asking for an 8 cent street car fare as the price of a loan to help finance Chicago's proposed 100 million dollar transit program.

Three Main Obstacles Cited.

Brown told Judge Igoe that an agreement on terms of the loan, which would come from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, is one of the three major obstacles to settlement of the 13 year old traction merger dispute. Discussing the proposed loan, Brown said:

"The RFC's attitude is that it is generally sympathetic with such a loan. It has, however, made it clear that it wants a setup under which the company will earn from the beginning all fixed interest charges as well as full depreciation. Under the terms of the proposed setup of fares, it is not indicated that the company would qualify for an RFC loan."

The proposed traction ordinance, which is being drafted jointly by the city and the companies, provides that the new unified company must maintain the present rates of fare, including a 7 cent street car fare, at least until Jan. 1, 1942.

Estimate Earnings at $2,500,000.

The lines estimated that the new system under present fares would earn about $2,500,000 a year after paying operating expenses but before interest. The RFC loan would require interest at 4 per cent, or $2,120,000. This would leave only $380,000 before any provision for amortizing the loan of 53 millions and before any payments for employés' pensions, which the city insists must be paid.

Brown said, however, that reduction in compensation to be paid the city for use of streets or relief from taxation might reduce expenses enough to satisfy the RFC.

Engineers pointed out, however, that neither of these alternatives would boost the company's earnings by nearly so much as the estimated boost of 5 to 6 million dollars a year that would result from an 8 cent fare.

Brown and Mayor Kelly, or some other city representative, will meet with RFC officials in Washington, D. C. on Oct. 9 to discuss the loan terms.

Brown told the court that the other two obstacles to a traction settlement are disagreement between the lines and their employés on terms of a pension plan and the problem of buying the Chicago Motor Coach company, which asks $10,000,000. Brown said the lines' officials thought pensions should be treated separately from the ordinance.

Judge Igoe asserted he agreed.

"As for the motor coach company," Judge Igoe said, "it is in the position of the tail trying to wag the dog and I am not in favor of that."

The court said that apparently nothing would be done toward a traction settlement until after the November 5 election because of possible political repercussions.

PERMITS TO SELL U. S. SECURITIES WILL BE ISSUED BY ENGLAND

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP).—Permits for the sale of securities held under war-time exchange control in Canada for the United Kingdom will be resumed tomorrow, the Bank of England notified its share and loan department today.

EXPECT SALES RISE.

Financial interests expect a speed-up in British sales of American securities in the New York markets to result from the plan to permit private citizens to sell their holdings abroad.

The decision, it was suggested, may mean England has transported in face of war-time shipping hazards hundreds of millions of dollars in American stocks and bonds for concentration at Montreal and shipment to this country as markets are able to absorb sales.

Of an estimated $1,250,000,000 in combined British and Canadian holdings of American securities at the start of the war, one informed source figured, probably around $200,000,000 has been liquidated, leaving $1,000,000,000 or so for sale as markets and British needs for dollar exchange determine.

INTRODUCE BILLS TO SET UP NEW POWER COMBINE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30 (AP).—Bills to set up a Columbia Power administration, which would direct the marketing and transmission of power developed at Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams and elsewhere in the Columbia river basin, were introduced today by Representatives Charles H. Leavy and Knute Hill, and Senator Homer T. Bone, all Washington Democrats.

The new agency would, among other things, be permitted to make system-wide acquisition of private properties and to resell parts of these systems to local public agencies in particular areas. It could issue up to $200,000,000 of government guaranteed bonds to buy utility properties.

Another object of the legislation would be to establish a single coordinating agency to aid the marketing of power for national defense industries.

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING GAINS IN EXTRA HOUR

6,000 Shares Sold After 2 o'Clock.

The Chicago Stock exchange started its new schedule of extended trading sessions yesterday, and saw volume gain sharply during the extra hour. The period from 2 to 3 o'clock was the most productive hour of the day, with 5,300 shares in round lots and 700 in odd lots changing hands after the close of the New York exchange.

Governors of the Chicago market had voted to lengthen the hours from 2 to 3 o'clock on Mondays thru Fridays and from 11 to 11:30 o'clock on Saturdays as a step in the campaign to boost its dwindling securities business and to increase its independence of the "Big Board."

Nearly a Third in Last Hour.

An analysis of yesterday's transactions disclosed that 11,000 shares in round lots were traded in the first five hours, compared with the 5,300 during the last hour. Odd lots turnover totaled 5,000 shares in the first five hours and 700 during the extra 60 minutes. The total was 22,000 shares, compared with 30,000 a week ago and 9,000 two weeks ago.

Asbestos Manufacturing was the volume leader in the extra trading period, with 1,250 shares of its 1,300 total traded after 2 o'clock. Prices of most stocks which moved in that period were fractionally higher than in New York.

	New York.	Chgo.	Chge.
Borg-Warner	18½	18½	None
Commonwealth Edison	30⅛	30⅛	None
General Motors	49¼	49⅜	+ ⅛
Houdaille Hershey	12⅝	12¾	+ ⅛
Marshall Field	14¼	14⅜	+ ⅛
Pressed Steel Car	11⅝	11⅝	None
Sears-Roebuck	83	82	−1
Swift & Co.	19½	19⅝	+ ⅛
United States Steel	58	58⅛	+ ⅛
Wm. Wrigley Jr.	82	81⅞	− ⅛

Gain Exceeds Expectations.

Of the 5,300 shares sold in round lots, 3,100 were of local issues, and 2,200 were of those dually listed. Per hour turnover in round lots, beginning at 9 o'clock, totaled, respectively, 2,700, 2,300, 1,700, 2,400, 1,900, and 5,300.

"The reception the additional trading hour received is very gratifying," Arthur M. Betts, chairman of the exchange's board of governors, said. "The volume today exceeded our expectations. Important changes in customs can best be inaugurated in dull markets of small volume, and the vital accomplishment is to have the custom firmly established and widely known."

Betts and others directing the drive for new business have previously expressed the conviction that the additional time will bring in a substantial volume of additional trading.

Listing Fees Waived.

They explain that heretofore the exchange has closed virtually at the peak of Chicago's business day, preventing many persons from transacting business because of lack of time. The Chicago exchange has also waived original listing fees to Dec. 31 in its efforts to induce additional companies to list their shares for trading here.

Chicago has never previously had a market entirely independent of New York, since both markets opened and closed at the same time. The San Francisco exchange, which continues trading after the Wall street close, has developed a degree of independence in a number of securities handled also in New York.

September Volume Rises.

Of the 96 issues traded on the Chicago exchange yesterday, 50 advanced, 22 declined, and 24 were unchanged. Sundstrand Machine Tool, up 1 at 33½, established a new high for the year. Pressed Steel Car, the volume leader, closed at 11⅝, up ⅛.

Volume of trading on the Chicago Stock exchange for September totaled 429,000 shares, compared with 303,000 in August and 1,265,000 in September, 1939.

For the first nine months, turnover totaled 4,901,000 shares, compared with 6,237,000 in the same 1939 period.

Opera Attracts Business; 90 Firms Back It

The Chicago Opera company has a new slogan for its approaching 1940 season—"Chicago Goes to the Opera." It is used confidently and with reason.

This year marks the 30th anniversary of resident opera in Chicago. Present indications are that it will be a gala year. Every effort is being made, artistically and musically, to make Chicago's opera live up to opera's definition as the most complete of all the arts.

This year the reorganized opera company hopes to see all Chicago go to its opera. If that transpires, it will be the first time in 30 years, and it will be because of the backing of 90 business houses in the metropolitan area.

175,000 Employeés Represented

The 90 concerns have 175,000 employeés. Each concern already has an opera committee. In some cases the committees are headed by the conductors of choral or musical groups within the firms. In other cases volunteer committees have sprung up.

Each of these concerns has asked for blocks of seats to the opera. The committees are holding regular meetings to promote the ticket sale. Some employers, wishing to support opera in Chicago, have bought tickets to absorb part of the cost. Some are giving tickets to their employés; others are offering them at reduced prices.

As a group, the firms expect that 4 to 10 per cent of their personnel will attend opera performances during the six weeks season that opens Nov. 2.

100 Ticket Booths Planned.

The response from business firms has been so heartening that arrangements have been made to have opera tickets available to the public at more than 100 points in the metropolitan area. Thus, opera lovers will be able to buy reserved seats in their own neighborhoods.

The support of communities within a radius of 150 miles also is being enlisted. Plans have been made for a number of out-of-town nights, such as Milwaukee night, South Bend night, Peoria night, and Rockford night. Some delegations from surrounding cities will come on special trains.

Already, by the most stringent economy consistent with high artistry, the company is offering Chicago opera at a third less than it is being offered in New York or San Francisco. The top admission here is $5, as compared to $7.50 elsewhere.

RAILROADS SHOW LARGER RETURN ON INVESTMENT

The Association of American Railroads yesterday reported that the net operating income of 133 class one railroads amounted to $66,014,789 during August, compared with $54,567,356 for the same month last year.

For the first eight months of this year, net operating income totaled $366,257,827 against $269,187,186 for the corresponding period of 1939. This represented a return of 2.34 per cent on property investment this year, compared with a 1.72 per cent return in 1939, the association said.

RFC SELLS GREAT NORTHERN ISSUE AT BIG PREMIUM

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30 (AP).—Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, announced today the Reconstruction Finance corporation had sold $20,000,000 of Great Northern Railway company collateral trust bonds to Dick & Merle-Smith of New York and associates at 102½ and interest. This represents a premium of $500,000 and an average yield to maturity of 3.68 per cent.

The bonds were taken by the RFC at par to help finance the $28,132,000 St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Manitoba railway Pacific extension 4 per cent mortgage bonds which matured July 1, last.

Seven millions of serial bonds maturing July 1, 1941 to 1951, will be offered publicly at prices to yield 0.50 to 3.60 per cent. The $13,000,000 of term bonds due Jan. 1, 1952, are priced at 103 and accrued interest.

1941 Cadillac Sixty Special

Cadillac Puts Medium Price Car in Field

Cadillac's 1941 line of automobiles—including a new model with which this division of General Motors is entering the medium priced field—will be placed on view today in dealers' showrooms thruout the Chicago area. The new car, known as Series 61, is listed at $340 below the 1940 base price.

The 1941 line will consist of six series of which three, the series 61, 63, and 67, are described as being entirely new. The other three, including the 60 special, will be continued with improvements.

Horse Power Is Increased.

All models will have V8 engines, with power stepped up to 150 horse power. The company claims excellent gas mileage as a result of improved carburetion, power production, and axles. A new engine head is said to be a factor in the power increase.

Mechanical improvements include more durable clutches, ball bearing system, which makes steering easier, and better valves. The increased horse power is said to produce more rapid pickup.

A new heating system has been developed which includes three fans and three radiators, two of which are located under the front seat. Temperature control is maintained at a desired degree by means of a thermostat which is controled from the instrument panel. The thermostat automatically raises or lowers the flow of warm air, no further adjustment being necessary once the gauge is set.

Hood Lines Are Rounded.

The familiar Cadillac hood lines have been revised. Hood side panels have been eliminated and the broad, low hood has been rounded to rest on the fender bridges. Fenders are longer and are bullet shaped. They carry the headlamps as well as recesses for a newly developed fog lamp. Bumpers are much more rugged.

Interiors are more attractive, and many models contain a wide group of special conveniences. Body frames are described as being 50 per cent more rigid.

D. E. Ahrens, general sales manager; E. F. Korff, engineering representative; Charles H. Betts, advertising manager, and other executives from Detroit yesterday outlined the Cadillac sales plans for 1941 at a meeting of Chicago area dealers and sales forces in the Stevens hotel.

BANK BUILDING AT LINCOLN AND WESTERN IS SOLD

The Bowmanville National Bank building, at the intersection of Lincoln, Lawrence, and Western avenues, has been purchased by Fred B. Snite, president of the Local Loan company, it was announced yesterday. The sale price was not disclosed.

The premises will be occupied at once by the Lincoln-Lawrence-Western Safe Deposit company, a new corporation headed by Snite.

REPORT DEALERS FIND SALES OF NEW MODEL AUTOS SATISFACTORY

Altho some parts of the country report that "overtrading" has already shown up in the sale of new automobiles, the sale of 1941 model cars in general is making good headway, according to the current issue of Ward's Automotive Reports. [Granting too large a trade-in allowance on a used car turned in for a new model automobile is termed overtrading].

The magazine reports that "as a result of trading, good or bad, there are somewhat more used cars in the field than should be at this period, when dealers should be at their low point on lot stocks."

"This does not apply, however, on new car stocks," the review continues. "Sales during August combined with a record low output total, resulted in a reduction in field stocks on hand to one of the lowest totals on record. Stocks are estimated to have edged just below the 100,000 mark at the end of August, the first time this has happened since late in 1934."

START INDIANA LAND BUYING FOR MUNITIONS PLANT

La Porte, Ind., Sept. 30 [Special].—Federal government negotiations for the purchase of 13,000 acres of rich La Porte county farmland to be used as a site for an ammunition loading plant were started here today by Charles P. Wattles, South Bend attorney named by the war department as general counsel for the federal acquisition agent.

Opening offices here, Wattles sent agents to Union Center, southeast of here, to obtain options on approximately 250 farms. He announced that a "more than fair" price would be paid, and that he expected to have the entire tract ready for factory construction before winter sets in. Union Center was announced as center of the proposed plant site Saturday. Six thousand persons are expected to be employed.

For between 800 and 1,000 persons occupying the 250 farms it meant looking quickly for new places to reside, because the government expects them to be moved within 30 days after options are approved by federal authorities, Wattles said.

CHICAGO AREA LAGS IN ARMY, NAVY AWARDS

Other Districts Get Larger Share.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—One of the biggest blunders in the national defense program has been the government's failure to make better use of the defense facilities immediately available in the Chicago area, according to those familiar with the situation.

Despite a recent pickup in defense contracts awarded to Illinois, the state is still far behind the industrial areas of Michigan, the eastern seaboard, and Pacific coast which have received the lion's share of contracts and are most vulnerable to attack by an enemy.

[Latest news of defense contract awards is on page 26, column 8.]

The army, navy, and officials of the defense commission have been shifty about placing orders in the Chicago area, using one excuse after another such as: the fear of creating a bottleneck; the vulnerability of attack by an enemy crossing Canada; the need of decentralizing industry. But all of these arguments have been violated in contract awards to other areas.

State's Share Is Small.

A complete list of army and navy contracts from June 13, when the defense program got under way, until Sept. 15, shows a total of 6 billion, 439 million dollars in contract awards. Of this amount, Illinois got only $46,274,528.

Those figures do not include contracts for a large number of naval vessels awarded during that period but whose contract price was not available. These involved 32 vessels for New Jersey, 12 for New York, 3 battleships for Pennsylvania, 8 vessels for Virginia, 26 destroyers for Washington, and 31 vessels for California.

Army and Navy Orders.

Of the Illinois total of $46,274,528, army contracts represented $21,211,508 and navy contracts $25,063,020. The Massachusetts and New Jersey awards were principally naval contracts because of shipbuilding facilities in those states. Illinois lost out not only in naval orders but in army contracts, which this state is admirably equipped to handle.

Recent awards have helped consid-

New York Stocks.

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—Selective buying, mainly in aircrafts and industrial specialties, gave the stock market a moderate lift today. While many leaders were neglected, others closed with gains of fractions to more than a point. Several preferred issues were up 1 to 4 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .2 of a point to 44.5.

Traders still were somewhat confused over foreign developments, but the continued expansion of business at home, spurred by the growing volume of defense spending, brokers said, was sufficient to offset to some extent the worries over war.

Among rising preferred issues, some with large accumulations of unpaid dividends, were American Woolen, Budd Manufacturing, General Steel Castings, and Certain-Teed.

Common stocks ahead at the close included Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Bendix, Sperry, United Aircraft, du Pont, Union Carbide, American Smelting, Pullman, Pressed Steel Car, New York Central, Great Northern, American Car and Foundry, Sears Roebuck, Westinghouse, and Air Reduction.

New York Bonds.

New York, Sept. 30 (AP).—Railroad bonds attracted renewed buying interest today, while other principal groups were content to move in a narrow range, with gains and losses about equally divided.

Prospects that freight car loadings would shortly move up to new highs for the year, as goods required in the national rearmament program began to move, was a factor in the fresh gains in the carrier group.

United States governments were quiet and ended 7-32 of a point higher to 3-32 lower. Japanese bonds lost another 1 to around 2 points on top of last week's severe declines. Australia 4½s were ahead about 2.

WHEAT FUTURES HIGHEST SINCE MIDDLE OF JUNE

December wheat rose ⅜ cent to the highest price since the middle of June on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, while the May and July deliveries reached seasonal highs. December wheat sold at 83 cents a bushel and closed only ⅛ cent below that figure. The deferred months were ⅛ to ⅜ cent higher.

Continued scarcity of cash wheat despite the current upturn which has carried prices well above the government loan basis in all of the leading domestic markets except Minneapolis and Duluth furnished the background for the advance. No. 2 hard winter in the cash market sold at 85¼ cents, or 4¼ cents over the loan basis.

Corn was dull and ¼ cent higher. Oats futures closed ⅛ cent lower. Rye declined ¼ to ½ cent and soy beans were ¼ cent lower.

Commodities

Wool tops again climbed to new 1940 highs yesterday as major commodity futures markets extended the recent upward trend. Metal markets, which attracted the predominant interest last week, were generally quiet, and tin futures declined. Sugar, copper, hides, Santos coffee, and silk were improved, cottonseed oil and cocoa lost ground, and rubber prices were mixed within a narrow range.

Wool top futures advanced 0.6 to 2.6 cents a pound on sales estimated at 1,875,000 pounds. October and November deliveries reached new peaks at $1.16 9-10 and $1.06 3-10, while the cash market jumped 4 cents a pound to a 1940 peak of $1.23.

Maximum gains of 3.3 cents were made in the futures market before profit taking shaded closing prices. The soaring prices in the futures and cash markets during the last month were in line with a greatly improved woolen business, stimulated by large government orders and increased civilian demand.

Copper futures closed 0.04 to 0.06 cent a pound higher, with December deliveries at 10.68 to 10.73 cents—about even with nearer contracts. Tin futures declined ¼ cent a pound to 51.05 cents bid in the January contracts.

Japanese interests continued to seek export copper yesterday, but it was reported that they met with little success because of their insistence on a cancelation clause in contracts in the event the United States declares a copper embargo.

Rubber futures finished 0.01 cent a pound higher to 0.01 cent lower, with December contracts at 19½ cents. Domestic sugar futures rose 0.02 to 0.03 cent a pound on an improved turnover of 13,800 tons as demand was stimulated by hopes of early action by the senate on sugar quota legislation.

CHICAGO AREA LAGS IN ARMY, NAVY CONTRACTS

Other Industrial Sections Get Larger Share.

erably to swell the Illinois total including two munitions plant units at Wilmington, one valued at 11 millions and the other at 14 millions, a 90 million dollar ammunition order for Western Cartridge company at East Alton, and some considerably smaller orders in the Chicago area. However, the comparative standing of Illinois remains the same, as big awards have gone to other districts.

This trend has persisted despite the Chicago industrial area's standing as the second greatest of the country, according to the 1937 census of manufacturers [the 1939 census results have not yet been compiled]. This area, consisting of Cook, Du Page, Kane, Lake and Will counties in Illinois and Lake county in Indiana, was surpassed only by the industrial area of New York City, Jersey City and Newark, N. J.

Leads Nation in Value.

Cook county led the nation in 1937 in the value of its products and the number of wage earners—indicating excellent manufacturing facilities and labor supply. In transportation it represents the terminal center of the United States. Yet, Illinois has averaged about 12th in the list of states getting defense contracts.

The reasons may be analyzed as follows:

1. The defense program is in the hands principally of specialists unfamiliar with the Chicago area, and the industrialists on the national defense advisory commission, passing upon contracts of $500,000 or more, naturally deal with those industries and areas with which they are familiar. This accounts for a large portion of the construction of new defense production facilities going to the automobile manufacturers in the Detroit area. No blame is attached to William S. Knudsen, production coordinator and his assistants, but it remains a fact that they represent the Detroit and New York industrial areas.

Illinois Lags Politically.

2. Industrial surveys by the army and navy have not been as complete as supposed. Many plants ready to operate on defense orders have been overlooked while vast sums and valuable time are consumed in building new facilities for the production of tanks, tractors, gun parts, machine tools, and other products.

3. Illinois has not been represented well politically. Despite all of the talk of keeping politics out of the defense program, it just isn't done. Where senators and congressmen have been on their toes they have been able to swing business their way. A large part of New Jersey's defense business, for instance, is attributed here to the energetic activities of New Deal Senator William H. Smathers. The same may be said of other New Deal senators, according to informed sources.

New Dealers Absent.

But the New Deal senators from Illinois, Scott W. Lucas and James M. Slatterly were absent from recent meetings of midwestern congressmen who banded together and conferred with Knudsen on contracts for their states. The Illinois interests were put into the hands of others. Representative Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.] of Evanston has shown an active interest in promoting the Chicago area, but the area is represented principally by New Dealers who have muffed their opportunity, according to these sources.

Melvin D. Hildreth, prominent Democratic lawyer here, who represents several Illinois corporations, has suggested that Illinois congress men form a committee to hear industrialists with facilities available and pass this information along to the proper authorities.

CHICAGO AWARDS, $1,453,427.

Army and navy contracts awarded Chicago firms during the week ended Sept. 21 totaled $1,453,427, the Illinois Manufacturers' association announced yesterday on the basis of department of labor advices. Of these, the largest were to Libby, McNeill & Libby, $213,830 for corned beef, and to Superior Sleeprite corporation, $251,250 for steel cots. Downstate companies were given $394,662 in contracts, the report showed.

WESTINGHOUSE SEEKS LAND FOR DEFENSE PLANT

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 30 [Special]. —Andrew W. Robertson, chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, announced here today that his company is acquiring land in eastern Tennessee, within the area serviced by the Tennessee Valley Authority, for construction of a factory to be devoted exclusively to defense production.

He would not reveal the cost of construction or location of the plant, but said the project is part of a 23 million dollar Westinghouse expansion program.

Congress Suspends Eight Hour Day on Ship Jobs

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30 (AP).—Both houses of congress passed a bill today suspending the requirement of an eight hour day for workmen engaged in constructing, altering or repairing vessels for the maritime commission, but calling for time and a half pay for overtime.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The market for new crop hogs declined 5 to 10 cents to the lowest level in eight weeks yesterday. Prices were lowest for September in seven years and fourth lowest for September since 1907.

Two Jewish holidays this week, when there will be no kosher killing in the east, were blamed for a break of 15 to 25 cents in prices of best cattle. Other cattle showed little change.

LETTERS

[Letters of 250 words or less addressed to the financial editor will be printed in this column from time to time.]

Toledo, O., Sept. 28.—We have had some telephone calls and several letters inclosing clipping of a news item appearing in your paper a short time ago, concerning the Dickey Manufacturing company of East Chicago, asking the government to cancel contract for $31,440 worth of tents, as they were unable to make them.

We are pleased to advise that this contract should have been forwarded to us at Toledo, and we were advised by letter some six weeks ago that we had been awarded this contract and we should start work immediately on arrival of the goods.

It is true that our contract was mailed to the Dickey Manufacturing company of East Chicago but it was finally sent to us.

Yours very truly,
DICKEY MANUFACTURING CO.,
G. I. Dickey, President.

Prices of Most Grades of Meat Fall in September

Substantial declines in wholesale prices of most grades of beef, veal, and lamb, and a reduction of from approximately 14 to 32 per cent in wholesale prices of fresh pork occurred during September, the Institute of American Meat Pakers reported yesterday. The declines occured during the last three weeks of the month, following somewhat larger marketing of live stock.

These men are previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shopworkers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in percentage as much as $50 in a single day.
